

Lion Bonding Co. Policies Sold to Another Concern

Accident and Health Department Consolidated With Lion Accident And Casualty Company.

Accident and health policies are no longer held by the Lion Bonding and Surety company, but by a sister organization, the Lion Accident and Casualty company. This announcement was made yesterday in connection with the re-insuring of the Lion Bonding company's business with a Kansas City company, by E. B. Alldredge, president of the Accident and Casualty company. "We purchased all the Lion Bonding company's accident and health business a year ago," said Alldredge. "The transfer was actually made January 1, but owing to the necessity of securing the approval of the Nebraska insurance department, announcement of the transfer has not been made publicly until today." Examination of the books of the Lion Bonding company, which disclosed the necessity for reinsurance by another company, revealed the books of the Lion Accident and Casualty company to be in excellent shape, according to Alldredge. "The volume of accident and health business in force," he said, "is $425,000, all of which has been taken over by the Lion Accident and Casualty company, which is a mutual legal reserve company organized under the laws of Nebraska. The officers of the company are: E. B. Alldredge, president; E. R. Gurney, vice president; J. E. Shipp, secretary; J. F. Mick, treasurer. The directors are these men and E. J. Hannigan, D. J. Rhoades and W. L. Leach. The condensed statement given out by Alldredge follows: Gross assets, $170,265.52; net assets, $154,481.93; surplus to policyholders, $124,496.93; premiums in force, $25,326.01; net premium income, $166,827.73; total assets, $1,192,192.25; total liabilities, $1,025,364.52. The accident and health department of the bonding company has been consolidated with the Lion Accident and Casualty company as a separate corporation and the same organization and personnel will be in charge of the business.

Southern Bankers Urged to Take Lead In Aiding Farmers

Washington, April 5.—Southern bankers were urged by Governor W. P. G. Harding of the federal reserve board to take the initiative to a greater extent in solving the cotton financial problems of the south. Mr. Harding was one of a number of government officials who advised a conference of about 20 southern bankers called by the war finance corporation to discuss plans for financing the exportation of cotton. Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon also advised the conference, expressing the desire of the administration to assist in working out the financing problems. Mr. Hoover explained that the machinery has been provided in the war finance corporation, the Edge law and the Webb-Pomerene law.

Men Held as Draft Deserters Released to Civil Authorities

San Antonio, Tex., April 5.—Tom and Joe Caplis, sons of a wealthy Louisiana planter who have been held by military authorities since December on charges of draft desertion, were turned over to civil authorities today on a writ of habeas corpus issued by United States Judge West. Judge West's decision is regarded as of big importance, because if upheld by higher courts, it may become the basis for transfer of thousands of alleged draft deserters from military to civil jurisdiction. The chief ground for the writ cited by Judge West was that notices of their being drafted had not actually been delivered to the Caplis brothers and that they were not legally inducted into the military service.

Fenger Insolvent Petitioners Aver

Involuntary Proceedings in Bankruptcy Filed Against Hospital Company.

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the new Fenger hospital yesterday in federal court. Petitioning creditors are C. B. Liver & Co., J. L. Brandeis & Sons, and the Shaffer Oil & Refining company, all of Omaha. The petition states the Fenger hospital company preferred creditors after it was insolvent. Liabilities against the hospital are stated in the petition as follows: C. B. Liver & Co., $1,553.60; J. L. Brandeis & Sons, $532.78; Shaffer Oil & Refining company, $106.87. According to the petition, the creditors endorse the motion of the Selten-Breck construction company to sustain Howard Kennedy as receiver for the hospital as made in the foreclosure of a mechanic's lien on the hospital on January 27, 1921. Bankruptcy proceedings against the Fenger hospital bring to a climax litigation brought by the original owners against the promoters of the institution.

Dog Hill Paragrafts

The Old Miser of Musket Ridge was in Tickville day before yesterday. The weather was cloudy anyhow, and when he heard a bass drum down the street he hoisted his umbrella. Cricket Hicks peeped out from behind a tree the other day and admired Miss Peachie Sims as she strolled by. And all the while she had no idea she was being ambushed with admiration. Another plank is missing from the Wild Onion school building. Today the trustees decided to meet and nail down the benches. Romance in Origin Of Superstitions

By H. I. KING. Dandelions. A common practice among children is to take a dandelion which has gone to seed and by blowing upon it three times find out "if my mother wants me." If the round, white moon-like ball of fluff seeds is entirely blown away by the three puffs the child resumes his play, confident that his mother is not becoming anxious for his return home. But if any of the delicate down-like seed-spindles remain fixed in their base he knows that "his mother wants him." In this simple childish custom we find a survival of that worship of the heavenly which, far back in the morning of time, became formulated into the highest, most complicated and most intellectual of heathen cults. The dandelion was one of the plants gathered in the fields of northern and middle Europe on Midsummer-even in the days when the worship of Freya had not yet disappeared. It is now so gathered in many remote parts of these same lands. The sun at his pitch of highest power imparted to it certain mystic qualities. By Midsummer-even the dandelion flowers are gone to seed and resemble a moon, rather than a sun. So, following the trail through the sun-gods and moon-goddesses of barbarous and classic time, we arrive at last where so many trails end, on the banks of the Nile. Isis was the moon-goddess but she was also the mother of Horus, the sun-god. Like Liana and the other goddesses whose origin has been traced back to her, her usual symbol was two horns, or a crescent moon. But the full moon was also a symbol of Isis and in her pictures and statues when she is represented as suckling Horus she is represented with both the orb and the horns on her head—the old moon in the new moon's arms. And the greatest title of Isis was "The Mother of the World." It is easy to see then why in the primitive mind, the idea of motherhood attaches itself to the moon-like orb of the dandelion gone to seed, and why the child performs a rite to Isis to "See if his mother wants him." Terrific Storm Does Damage in Southern Japan

Property Loss Is Great, While Death Toll Is 30—Harbor of Yokohama Is Especially Hard Hit.

Tokio, April 5.—(By The Associated Press.)—Great property damage was done and 30 lives were lost in a terrific storm which swept the southern coast of Japan on Sunday night. Telephone and telegraph lines are prostrated throughout the southern part of the empire. Tokio is still in darkness and a number of houses were destroyed here. The storm was especially severe in the harbor of Yokohama. The Japanese steamers Alabama Maru and Atlas Maru dragged their anchors and went ashore. The former vessel was about to sail for Seattle and had her passengers aboard. Belated dispatches received from the provinces report inundations in many prefectures and it is said that many houses were demolished by the wind. A naval cutter capsized near the port of Nagoya and an officer and eight bluejackets were drowned. Eight workmen were buried when a tunnel collapsed near Fukushima. The Ibi, Hida and Tenryu rivers, in the province of Gifu, overflowed their banks and 3,000 houses were flooded. The famous bridge across the Tenryu river was destroyed. The American steamer Golden State successfully weathered the gale and arrived here yesterday. There were numerous receptions given her officers and men, the return of American shipping to the Pacific being welcomed by officials at Yokohama. With the comfort of men in view, an inventor has combined a stand for smoking implements with a rack for books and magazines.

Woman Mrs. Leeds Displaced To Appear Against Banker

New York, April 5.—The absorbing and colorful tale of the "new woman of mystery" in the boom-crash action against James A. Stillman, head of the National City bank by a woman she introduced to him—Mrs. Florence Helene Leeds—this new figure in the case is expected to occupy the center of the stage for a time. It is understood that she has stated that she is not only willing to be named as co-respondent by Mrs. Stillman, but that she can prove her right to that title. She is declared to have offered to relate her all-revealing story under oath and corroborate it by the testimony of others. "The others" are friends and servants who knew her during her brief butterfly existence as the alleged darling of the rich banker who is now suing his wife for divorce and making a charge of illegitimacy against little Guy Stillman. According to information in the hands of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys, this woman, whose identity is not revealed and whose name could not be learned today is even more beautiful than the former "chicken of the Century Roof," who changed her hair to red before being introduced to the banker. That this charming woman and Mr. Stillman lived their idyllic life under assumed names in New York and at garden for two or three years before 1917. In those happy months she luxuriated in beautiful homes and high powered cars, with many servants and few ungratified whims. From that blissful estate she has descended into the agony of poverty and want. Her decline began with the advent of the pretty chorus girl with the hennaed hair. It is not stated that she is starving or that she is in a condition of
