

Discuss Plans For Mobilizing In Emergency

Army Officers and State Adjutant Generals in Conference—Consider Summer Guard Encampments.

Adjutant generals of states included in the seventh corps area and officers of the regular army in the same area with headquarters at Fort Crook met in an adjutant general's conference in the Army building, fifteenth and Dodge streets, Wednesday afternoon to discuss various questions of army and National guard reorganization activities.

The main topics discussed were summer encampment for the National guards of the various states and where and when they would be held.

A proposition to have National guard organizations take in commissioned officers in the reserve corps as officers was considered. According to the adjutants present this arrangement would work to mutual benefit to both organizations.

Mobilization Discussed.

Mobilization of troops, in case of their being called out suddenly for any emergency also was discussed. How and where troops would be mobilized and what length of time would be necessary for the troops to get under way were considered.

No definite plans were settled upon for the state encampments of the state organizations. This question will be left to a great extent, to the states themselves.

Hajj Gen. Omar Bundy, commanding the Seventh area, with headquarters at Fort Crook, presided at the conference. Lieut. Col. Fred V. S. Chamberlain, chief of National guard affairs, related most of the discussions relative to National guard activities.

Pleads for Harmony.

In a short speech Col. LeRoy S. Upton, chief of staff, Fort Crook, declared that more harmony should be engendered among the National guard, the reserve corps and the regular army.

"Efforts must be made to wipe out existing jealousies among these various organizations," he said. "We are all in this work for the same purpose, the protection of our nation. Jealousies detract and prevent speedy and efficient work."

"We must now prepare for the coming war. We won't have any world powers holding our enemies to bay until we can get prepared to make war. We'll have to be in a position to start out at a moment's notice and to fight our battles alone. Absolute harmony among all organizations is imperative."

Would Prepare for War.

In his speech, Colonel Upton declared that indications were plain that the next war would be with Japan, and that now was the time to prepare.

A night session was held in the Army building last night to iron out individual problems existing in the various organizations.

The state adjutant generals present were: Gen. H. J. Paul, Nebraska; Gen. Virgil A. Beeson, Arkansas; Gen. Charles I. Martin, Kansas; Gen. W. A. Hazle, South Dakota; Gen. Louis G. Lasher, Iowa; Gen. Walter E. Rhinow, Minnesota; Gen. William A. Raupp, Missouri.

The regular army officers attending the conference were: Maj. Gen. Omar Bundy; Col. LeRoy S. Upton, chief of staff; Col. R. S. Offley, corps area finance officer; Col. W. K. Naylor, Lieut. Col. H. B. Myer, Lieut. Col. Claude S. Fries, Lieut. Col. W. E. Locke, assistant chief of staff, and Lieut. Col. Fred V. S. Chamberlain. The next conference will be in October.

Burglar Put to Flight By Woman's Screams

A lone marauder awakened Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wiley, 2210 Dodge street, at 3 o'clock this morning and at the point of a gun forced the couple to show him through the rooms in the house, according to a police report.

At the completion of the search, the bandit locked the couple in separate rooms. While the intruder was binding Mr. Whalley to a chair, Mrs. Whalley escaped into the street in night clothes and screamed for help.

The burglar escaped with two diamond rings, $20 in cash and odd pieces of jewelry.

Get Acquainted

HOWARD C. STAVEL has worked in the advertising departments of Omaha newspapers for five years.

His two years as a display advertising solicitor for The Bee, covering the Omaha commercial district, have been successful and productive.

His title to The Bee organization rests, though, less on his admitted efficiency as an ad salesman than on his off demonstrated ability behind the bat for The Bee base ball team.

He wields a wicked glove and displays a nifty peg to second base. The trainers report him rapidly rounding into form for the opening of the 1921 season.

Keeps in condition, you know, through smashing the pins during the winter months. "Some" bowler, in addition to his base ball laurels.
