Cattle—There was a fairly liberal run of cattle Thursday, about 4,200 head, and the market showed still further weakness, with prices for beef steers and butcher stock anywhere from weak to 25c lower than Wednesday. Quality was not as good as recently and a good share of the beef steers sold around $7.75@8.25. For the week the decline on both beef steers and cows has been around 50@75c and some cases more. Demand for stockers and feeders was also very slack today and the week's decline on this class of stuff has been fully as great as in the case of killers.

Financial

The New York Times.

By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.

New York, April 7.—Today's money market was curiously contused; it was not easy to discover just what, if any, was its trend. Wall street loans for two and three months' time appeared to be actually lower, whereas call money, after holding at 5½ per cent for most of the day, rose abruptly to 6½ in the final trading and closed at that rate. There has not often been an occasion when measurement of the actual relation between demand and supply was a matter of such perplexity.

The day's movement, however, hardly indicated probability of continued easing off of rates. Despite the earlier confident predictions of a lower London bank rate, the Bank of England again made no change. Its own weekly statement would not have warranted it; the reserve percentage was 14⅞ a fortnight ago and now barely exceeds 12; it is at much the lowest figure ever reached in the first week of April and 5½ per cent below the ratio reported when the bank rate rose to 7 last year.

Market Irregular.

The stiffening of the call money rate was accompanied by resumption of pressure on the stock market, where the day's changes were extremely irregular, but in general brought slightly lower prices, with a few declines of a point or more. Railway shares made no special response to the labor board's denial of the New York Central's petition for a "provisional" reduction in wages of unskilled labor. The decision in point of fact means nothing, since the board explicitly stated that it preferred to deal with the matter as a whole and on the basis of the case as presented by all the companies.

In the matter of commodity prices, the Bradstreet monthly estimate, always useful because it embodies a "straight average," makes possible some highly interesting comparisons. The average of April 1 represents a fall of 45⅝ per cent from the highest of 1920 and of 40 per cent since the armistice. Its decline of 4¼ per cent in March brings it down to the level of February, 1916. In February, 1920, the Bradstreet average was 139⅝ per cent above that of August, 1914; the present average is only 30 per cent above the first month of the war. It is, perhaps, too much to expect that these comparisons will be considered by the philosophers who buttonhole us with remarks as to how "the dollar has been cut in two."
