for re-election as--CITY COMMISSIONER

Dan B. Butler is the only city commissioner seeking re-election whose continuous service dates back beyond a single Dan Butler was first elected to public office in 1906, when he became city clerk as a democratic candidate on the ticket headed by James C. Dahlman, then elected mayor for the first time. Butler was re-elected city clerk in 1909.

In 1912, under the commission form of government, Butler was nominated and elected a city commissioner and was put in charge of the department of accounts and finances.

In 1915 Butler was re-elected and again assigned to the department of accounts and finances.

For a third time, in 1918, Butler was elected city commissioner, this time leading the entire list of fourteen candidates. He was the only one of the commission who won re-election. For three years he has been superintendent of street cleaning and maintenance.
