Gas in Manhole Asphyxiates Meter Reader

here for the purpose of putting on Man in Employ of Council Bluffs Water Works for 40 Years Loses Life in Performance of Duties.

> Entering a manhole at the residence of S. W. Bensley, 2208 South Seventh street, for the purpose of reading a water meter, Oscar Pfeiffer, who had been an employe of the Council Bluffs waterworks plant since it was built in 1881, lost his life yesterday by gas asphyxiation. He was seen to enter the manhole about 1:15 and his lifeless body was discovered at 3:30.

The hole was still filled with gas when rescuers lifted Pfeiffer from the deadly trap. Physicians were hurriedly called and lung motors and oxygen treatment applied, but all efforts to rescusticate him failed. He was found in a huddled position bending over the meter with his peneil and meter record book in his hands. The reading had not been completed, but all, even the last figure, was legibly written. He apparently lost consciousness after the first few inhalations of the gas and died peacefully while faithfully discharging his duties.

Employed Since 1881. Mr. Pfeiffer was 55 years old. He was one of the first men employed by Harry Birkenbine, chief engineer and builder of the water plant, when Birkenbine arrived here from Philadelphia in the spring of 1881, and he had never lost a day's time to the moment of death. He had to be almost forced to take a few vacabut failed to note that he did not tions. His brother, Otto, employed at the same time, has an equally faithful record.

Both men, beginning almost as boys, assisted in laying mains and after the first few months of con-struction work supervised the in-stallation of every main and service pipe of the system. In repair work Oscar rarely needed to refer to blue prints to determine the location of any pipes or connection. He had been supervising foreman for every extension, service and repair job for the last 30 years. No accidents was ever due to any neglect or carelessness on his part, for he never left a job until it was "safe."

Unable to Find Leak. Efforts to trace the source of the gas in the manhole were made under the direction of Superintendent Etnyre of the water plant and Manager English of the gas company. It was found that the gas had seeped into the manhole through the earth, although there were no gas pipes in the hole or nearby. The flow was not strong enough to trace it to the leaking pipe in the street.

Mr. Pfeiffer lived at 136 Glen ave-He is survived by his widow, two sons, Oscar, jr., and Richard, and one daughter, Mrs. George Strickland; his aged mother, Mrs. Mary Pfeiffer, and his brother, Otto, Council Bluffs. Coroner Henry Cutler took charge of the body, but had not determined last evening whether an inquest would be held, Assistant City Engineer Jack Boyne and his helpers, Chester McClel-land and James Brewster, were working in the same block setting grade stakes for the Seventh street paving. They saw Oscar when he dreve up with his car and chatted with him,
