A Long Race.

The famous race between Grumpy Weasel and Jimmy Rabbit went on and on. Jimmy turned and twisted this way and that, up and down and back and forth through Pleasant Valley. He could still run faster than Grumpy Weasel, it is true. But

But Grumpy Weasel never stopped he was growing tired. Now and then Jimmy stopped to rest. And he kept hoping that Grumpy Weasel had become so weary that he had given up the chase. But Grumpy Weasel never stopped once. And whenever Jimmy Rabbit spied him coming along his trail

Jimmy would spring up with a sigh and rush off again. He began to understand that such a race was no joke. He certainly didn't want to lose the race. And he certainly didn't want Grumpy Weasel to come up with him. He had always kept at a good safe distance from that ill-natured fellow. And Jimmy felt most uneasy now at the thought of Grumpy's catching

"Me must be very hungry, after running so far," Jimmy Rabbit said to himself anxiously. "If he's as hungry as I am he wouldn't be a pleasant persons to meet." And that thought made Jimmy run all the faster, for a time. But he soon found that he had to stop more often to rest. And to his great alarm Follow these Questions and An-Grumpy Weasel kept drawing nearer all the time. At last Jimmy Rabbit became so worried that he swept around by the stone wall again and stopped to whisper to old Mr. Crow.

"He's still chasing me. And I can't run forever. What shall I do?" Jimmy asked the old gentleman. "I'll think the matter over and let you know tomorrow," Mr. Crow muttered hoarsely. To tell the truth, he was alarmed himself. And he had no idea what Jimmy Rabbit could do so save himself from Grumpy Weasel. While they tall they talked. G in. Peter Mink, watched them slyly "Who do you think is going to win the race?" he jeered.

Mr. Crow did not even turn his head. He felt very uncomfortable. But he tried to look unconcerned.
"Run along!" he said to Jimmy.
"Tomorrow I'll tell you what to do."

'Tomorrow-" Immy Rabit panted-"tomorrow will be too late." Then all at once Mr. Crow had an idea. And he whispered something in one of Jimmy Rabbit's long ears that made the poor fellow take

"All right!" Jimmy cried. "I'll see you again—sometime!" And away he ran, just as Grumpy Weasel came racing along the stone wall, looking as fresh as a daisy.
"You'd better stop and rest a while!" Mr. Crow croaked. "If you get too tired you'll never win."

"Rest!" Grumpy exploded. "I don't need to rest! I never felt better in my life, except that I'm pretty hungry. But I'm bound to win this race." As he spoke of feeling hungry he cast a longing glance at Jimmy Rabbit, who was just dodging out of sight behind a distant tree.

"Wait here a bit, anyhow!" Mr. Crow urged him. "Since you're sure to win-as you say-there can be no hurry." And Peter Mink too begged his cousin Grumpy to stop just a minute. And he laughed, "Ha, a!" whenever he looked at Mr.

And strange to say, Mr. Crow said, "Ha, ha!" too. Copyright, Gosset & Dunlap.

It is potent as a protection against disaster, which is important inasmuch as an ancient belief claims that those born on this date were sure to end their lives through accident.

The tourmaline not only protects its wearers from accidents, but also guards them from destructive mental forces, such as worry, fear and doubt. It should be worn on a chain around the neck, or so set in a ring that it will touch the flesh, f the wearer is to enjoy to the full its protective powers.

Pink is today's color. It also has protective powers on this date, according to the ancients, and is specially potent in guarding those who travel against accidents.

Today's flower is the hyacinth, which brings financial success and domestic happiness. (Copyright: 1931: Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

Legion Men Seek to Hold Debate for Nonpartisan

Beatrice, Neb., April 25. — (Special.)—The American Legion of this city is trying to arrange a debate between A. C. Townley, who is ad-vertised to speak here on the evening of May 7, and either William Lanformer attorney general of North Dakota, or Governor Allen of Kansas. If a debate is arranged in the evening, Commander Laughlin of the Legion says no "rough stuff" will be allowed,

More Truth Than Poetry

THE WISE PRINCE

When various princes and princesses found, Because of unsettled conditions, That within a few weeks they would have to look 'round And get themselves other positions

The future appeared rather vividly blue And they viewed it with bitter misgiving, For there wasn't a one of the whole royal crew That knew how to work for his living.

And now there are some of them carrying trays, And some of them butling of chauffing, Which trades, we are told, throughout Europe, these days Are paid little better than loafing.

And all of them wish they some effort had made, In the days when prospects seemed sunny, To study some handy profession or trade Which would bring 'em in a little more money.

Not so the young heir to the kingdom of Spain, Should his parents get mad and disown him. Or his subjects get sick of monarchial reign And in the near future dethrone him, He won't have to dig with his pick in a ditch Like everyday commonplace toilers;

He'll merely set back and get rapidly rich

By selling his capons and broilers.

He's learning to raise poultry, and not the fluff kind With which certain kings raise the dickens; The sort that this bird has now got on his mind

Are feathered and edible chickens. He may keep his throne-and again he may not-But in case any trouble commences,

With all of the eggs and the chickens he's got, He won't need to cut down expenses!

WHY

Do We Speak of "Drinking a Toast?" The use of the word "toast" in this sense of a drink consumed in honor of someone or something, arose from the old custom of placing toasted bread in wine, and the way in which the term came to signify the health or well-being of the person in honor of whom the libation issue of the "Tatler":
