

Fathers and Sons Wait Upon Women at Banquet Table

Mothers and Daughters Entertained at Feast Prepared by Men of First Congregational Church.

Men members of the First Central Congregational church, thirty-sixth and Harney streets, occupied the background at the Mothers' and Daughters' banquet in the church chapel last night. It may be better said that the men were merely a part of the scenery.

Probably for the first time in many days mother didn't have to worry about the dinner or interrupt her eating to wait on dad or daughter. She sat like a queen at the dining table and had 25 or more white-coated male members of the church answering every nod of her silver-crowned head or wave of her dear old hand. There were plenty of good things served and although inexperienced the dads who waited on the table had probably watched mother do it so many years they seemed to know all the tricks of being a good server.

Outshine Their Daughters. One proud mother led in four daughters and she wasn't the worst looking girl in the group by any means. In many instances mother made daughter look to her laurels at the banquet for mother might be old, but she proved last evening she had up-to-date ideas when it came to dressing for a banquet. Then too, the daughters were at a disadvantage because gray hair goes so beautifully with almost any color.

While the mothers and daughters were dining upstairs, the men were slumped into the basement, where they munched sandwiches and drank coffee without mother being present to watch after their needs.

Everything was done by the men. The food was prepared by a corps of kitchen police under the command of Harvey Milkken.

Dinner Half Hour Late. At 6:30, time to go in to dine, the women were ready but the church were not. They were 30 minutes late with the food, so mother was handed another little laugh.

As the mothers and daughters entered the church they were greeted by members of a reception committee, all dolled up in dress suits and tuxedos. The committee members were Mayor Ed P. Smith, Harley G. Moorhead, J. A. Linderholm, Charles Sherman, Joe Wright, E. H. Benner, George Paine, De Forest Croixon and Dr. F. G. Smith. They had pleasant duties to perform. They escorted the ladies to the cloak room where R. R. Kloke, acted as ladies' maid.

Following the banquet a toast program was carried out. Mrs. W. A. Willard was toastmistress. The following toasts were given: "To the Daughters," Mrs. D. C. Edgerly; "Our Mothers," Miss Frances Linderholm; "Another Viewpoint," Dr. Abby Virginia Holmes; "To Our Hosts," Mrs. Frank G. Smith; singing led by Miss Elizabeth Hutchins.

Man Who Shot Youth Exonerated of Blame

Minneapolis, Minn., April 27.—(Special Telegram.)—Raymond Johnston, deputy internal revenue inspector, was exonerated by a court jury of blame for his fatal shooting of Arnold Eckstrand, 22, of Stromberg, Neb. The jury gave a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Eckstrand entered Johnston's apartment in St. Paul by mistake Saturday night and was shot when Johnston awoke and mistook him for a burglar.

Accompanied by a nephew, R. E. Stron, Eckstrand came to St. Paul to attend the graduation exercises of his sister, Miss Agatha Eckstrand, who was to receive her diploma as a nurse at Mounds Park sanitarium Wednesday. The two visitors were guests of Roy Gunther whose apartment is in the same building as Johnston's. Coming home late and being unfamiliar with the building, Eckstrand and Stron entered the wrong apartment.

Paxton Commercial Club Entertained at Ogallala

Ogallala, Neb., April 27.—(Special.)—The regular monthly banquet of the Paxton Commercial club was held here. Over 200 people attended. A special invitation was extended to the members of the Paxton Commercial club to be present. Twenty members were present and each one responded with a talk full of co-operation and enthusiasm for western Nebraska and Keith county. O. M. Gunnell of Paxton, one of western Nebraska's earliest settlers, spoke on co-operation. Reports of various committees showed that a great interest is being taken in club work and results are being obtained.

Error May Retard New Ogallala High School

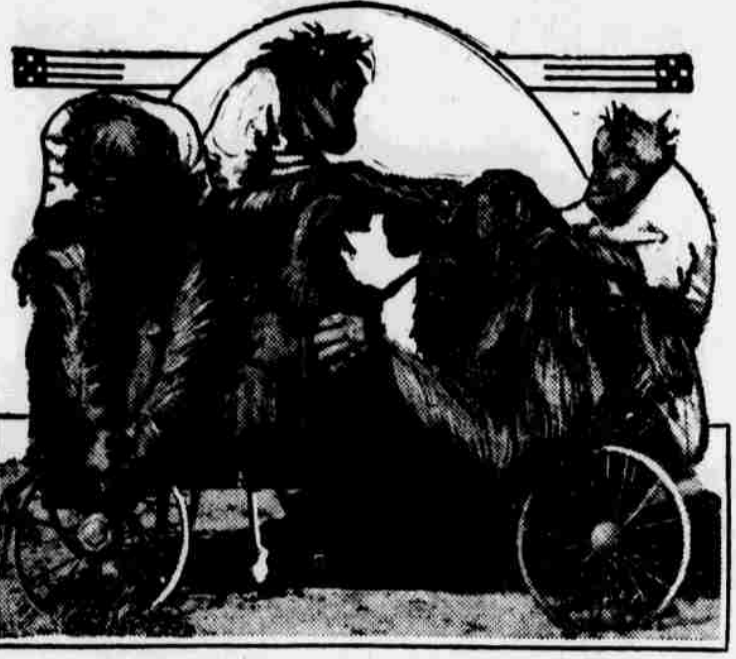

Ogallala, Neb., April 27.—(Special.)—Trouble is brewing in Ogallala over the fact that the new $80,000 high school bonds, which were voted at a recent election, are not legal. Some minor advertising mistake was made which is apt to make a new election necessary. Interested parties claim that a new election will show a majority of three to one in favor of the bonds. At the last election they carried two to one. During the past year the school board has had to house the pupils in very poor quarters outside of the high school building and also in the basement of the building. The legal error may retard building for another year.

Beatrice Commissioners Grant Pool Hall Permits

Beatrice, Neb., April 27.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the city commissioners billiard and pool hall licenses were granted to the following: E. W. Clancy, Ashenfelter & Emery, Roy Hamilton, Drew Jamieson, Frank Hobbs and S. M. Palmer. The matter of extending an electric line to Glenover, a suburb of Beatrice, was discussed but no action taken.

AT THE THEATERS

THE Empress has as its stellar act of the new vaudeville show opening there today, "Misture," which is really a mixture of songs, dances and clean humor. Leon Leonard, Mildred Jason, Lew Leonard and Helene Beth are the principals who take part in this musical menu. A featured act of the show will be offered by Weston's "Models of Art," posers who reproduce famous sculptured masterpieces. Wainman and Berry with "A Treat in Music," present a little classic, a little jazz and a little of everything. "The Boy From Our Neighborhood," Dan A. Shean, has incorporated in his offering an extremely funny line of patter in conjunction with a number of comedy songs.

This week at the Orpheum the bill is headed by the singing comedienne, Elizabeth Bruce. She is appearing in her new musical skit, "Love Letters." In this she portrays four different characters. The act is presented in five handsomely mounted scenes. One of the featured parts of the bill is contributed by the musical comedy star, Carl McLaughlin. His song numbers are particularly popular. In his offering, "Squirrel Haven," he is capable of singing in five different voices. Flo Lewis presents a unique act in which comedy is blended with vocal work and dancing. True Rice, a most droll comedian, is the laughing hit of the show, his quiet method especially delighting his fan-making.

For widely divergent novelties one finds upon another in confusing though delightful rapidity. It is doubted if any musical show ever seen at the city could compare with the numerous surprises presented by Ethel Shandy Shandy and "Town Scandals," the season's closing attraction at the Gayety. The good, clean comedy is blended with vocal work and frequently interrupted by vaudeville acts of highest quality. Only today and tomorrow runs at the Palace. Ladies' matinee today and tomorrow at 2:15 p. m.

Gus Hill's cartoon comedy, Mutt and Jeff, is scheduled at the Brandeis theater for the week beginning next Sunday, May 1. This season's offering is called "Mutt and Jeff at the Races" and is said to be the best of the series offered thus far.

Three Boys Escape From County Jail

Bend Window Bars, Creep Along Ledge 140 Feet and Descend Scaffolding.

Three 16-year-old youths escaped from the county jail late Tuesday night by bending the bars at one of the west windows of the juvenile ward, using a huge iron-barred door as a lever. They crept 140 feet along the ledge five stories above ground and then descended by a temporary scaffold erected by masons repairing the front of the building.

The boys are Elmer Hansen, 16, brought back from the Kearney industrial school to be a witness in prosecution of Frank Keegan for alleged abetting of the robbery of Hans Jurgens, Florence farmer; Earl Adamson, 16, Sioux City, charged with stealing a gun, and Henry Leetch, 16, Sioux City, charged with passing bad checks.

Two other men escaped by the same scaffolding last September.

Artificial Breathing Imparts Life to Infant Born Apparently Dead

An hour of artificial breathing administered by Dr. W. H. Taylor to an infant apparently born dead in an infant hospital resulted in giving life to the baby and bringing joy to its parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Henderson, 3323 Lafayette avenue.

The babe was born 19 days ago. As the newly-born babe did not begin to breathe after birth, attention was given it up as lost. But Dr. Taylor inserted a tube down the throat of the seven-pound mite of humanity and breathed into its lungs.

After half an hour of this there was no reaction whatever. But Dr. Taylor persisted and after more than an hour the infant drew a breath and is today healthy and normal.
