Driver Indicted By Grand Jury for Auto Accident

Audubon, Ia., Canning Factory Owner Charged With Manslaughter and Operating Car While Drunk.

Atlantic, Ia., April 28.—(Special.)

—R. J. Loveland, owner of the Audubon (Ia.) Canning fastory, was indicted today by the grand jury on the charge of manslaughter and

The indictment is based upon an accident last Sunday resulting in the death of Harry Gleason, a painter and paper hanger, and the serious injury of Loveland. Loveland is at his home under the care of a physician and is said to be on the verge of nervous collapse.

It is said that Loveland was indicted principally upon the testimony of Merill Gleason, a son of Harry Gleason, who was also in the automobile at the time of the accident. Merill Gleason testified that his father and Loveland had been drinking before the accident. Loveland was at the wheel of his car and driving at terrific speed when the car hit the cement railing of a bridge, leaped into the air and landed in

The grand jury was called in spe-cial session by order of Judge Rockafellow. Loveland's bond on the manslaughter charge was fixed at $2,500 and on the other charge at $1,500.

Your grocery bill nearly doubled.

Your rent bill did the same.

Your bill for street cleaning and maintenance was no more in 1921 than in 1918

Here are the figures—the city appropriations—for street cleaning and maintenance for the three years of Commissioner Dan B. Butler's administration and the year before:
