

Pal Killed But Flier Takes Mail

Tex Marshall, Chum of J. T. Christensen, Killed in Cleveland, Heavy-Hearted as Hops Off Here Today.

"Tex" and "Chris" were pals. Their wives are pals. But yesterday, when "Tex" hopped off Ak-Sar-Ben field in his airplane, bearing the regular United States mail to Chicago, his heart was heavy.

For when he gets home to Maywood, suburb of Chicago, his pal "Chris" won't be there to meet him.

"Tex" is Tex Marshall, air mail pilot on the Omaha-Chicago division. "Chris" is J. T. Christensen, air mail pilot on the Chicago-Cleveland division.

Christensen was cremated Friday afternoon when his plane plunged 200 feet to a railroad track in Cleveland and burst into flames.

Cherry Farewell.

Mr. and Mrs. Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall made their homes together at 901 South Second avenue, Maywood.

Friday morning, with a cherry farewell, Chris and Tex hopped off Checkerboard field at the same time, one for Omaha, the other for Cleveland.

"I don't know just how the wife will take Chris' death," said Tex yesterday just before he left Omaha.

"Mrs. Christensen is out here visiting her mother in Winnebago, and my wife is there at home alone."

"But she's something of an aviator herself."

"She's had over 100 hours in the air with me, and then she's just like other wives—doesn't believe it could happen to her husband."

Many Close Calls.

Marshall has been flying seven years. He was an exhibition flyer for several years, and during the war, he served as test pilot for the Thomas Morse airplane factory.

During that time, he had many close calls, he said, even to bring down his plane in flames.

And he has an idea of the horror of being cremated.

Although Mrs. Marshall flew with her husband on one transcontinental flight from Florida to Ohio, the pilot was still in doubt as to how she would receive the news of the sudden death of her friend, Christensen.

Talked of Weather.

"We talked about the weather just before we hopped off Checkerboard field," Marshall said, coming back to Christensen.

Marshall's mind seemed unable to stay away from the horrible death of his pal.

"Visibility was bad when we left, and we promised each other to drive carefully, because of the weather."

"Chris always was conservative, though."

"He must have given up hope of making a safe landing at Cleveland when his motor began acting up, and hit out for the field when the crash came."

Lost in Fog.

"He probably was lost in the fog and smoke which always hovers over a big city when the weather is like it was yesterday."

Christensen was a former pilot on the Omaha-Chicago division and held speed records for this division and the New York-Chicago division.

He was born and reared in Blair, Neb., and his widow is a native of Nebraska, formerly Miss Lena Davis of Blair.

His body probably will be brought to Blair for burial, according to Superintendent William I. Votaw of the Omaha air mail field.

New York, April 30.—(Special.)—The motor cruiser Gar II, Jr., of Detroit, racing against passenger train time from Miami, Fla., to New York, completed the last leg of her voyage here today. Her actual running time for 1,260 miles, was announced by her commander as 47 hours and 23 minutes.

The running time of the Havana Special over the Atlantic Coast line, which the Garwood tried to better, was 42 hours for 1,480 miles. This time included all regular stops and a wait of one hour at Washington.

Tecumseh Man May Collect $10,000 in War Insurance

Tecumseh, Neb., April 30.—(Special.)—Jesse Cooper, railroad track laborer, has gone to Omaha to investigate whether or not he is the beneficiary of a $10,000 life insurance policy, presumed to have been left him by his brother, James Leslie Cooper, who served in France and died in this country after the war. Recently an advertisement for the whereabouts of beneficiaries of deceased soldiers living in Nebraska contained Mr. Cooper's name.

Nebraska Backs Veto of Movie Censorship Bill

Governor McKelvie Makes Public Letters Expressing Sentiment of State On His Action.

Lincoln, April 30.—(Special.)—Governor McKelvie today made public 16 letters he received on movie censorship, only two of which criticized his stand in vetoing the movie censorship bill. The others were letters of congratulation and commendation from prominent citizens and public men and women.

"The governor said that he had received four other letters of a personal nature, all favorable to his veto, and a list of telegrams. He made public nothing, he said, that came from prejudicial sources."

"You will doubtless get the devil from some of the 'holier than thou' people," wrote L. D. Richards of Fremont, a veteran republican leader and once a candidate for governor himself, "but you have done the right thing, regardless of its immediate effect on emotional people. The time is here to call a halt and about face on these proposals to make people good by law, thereby relieving parents from the care and responsibility of their children along right lines."

Minister Is Amazed.

But Rev. Carl G. Bader, pastor of the First Methodist church of Clay Center, saw it differently. He wrote: "Your amazing veto of the censorship bill, with the more astounding reasons (?) alleged for that action calls forth protests from every parent and decent citizen."

Rev. Bader insisted that parents need the help of the state in "swatting the filthy filth." He said Clay Center was indignant and charged desertion of the public "in deference to a very limited public interest."

"The moral sentiment of outraged voters constitutes both judge and jury in this case," he wrote. "The burden of proof is upon you, governor."

The other criticism was from Effie E. Dietrich of York, president of the Fourth district, state federation of woman's clubs.

Sends Newspaper Clippings.

With her letter she enclosed three clippings from newspapers, one telling of boys making an alleged attempted assault on two girls, another of boys escaping jail and another of a fugitive in Omaha trying to kill himself when officers went to arrest him. She did not explain the connection of the items with the movies, but her letter said:

"Public opinion cannot regulate the motion picture put upon the market by a heartless film syndicate, in the business to extract every ounce of flesh."

She frankly tells the governor that not only will she refuse to support him hereafter, but she will do everything she can against him.

"The stand taken for liberty of speech and action and putting the issue up to the parents is after my own heart and I want to express to you my sincere thanks. I know from experience that too many parents expect the church and the school to do what is their own privilege and duty."

Opposes Artificial Breeding.

C. D. Marr of Fremont: "Artificial machine breeding of the young boys and girls is depriving them of the proper home influences and is almost criminal in intent and execution."

"It is high time that a halt was called in the efforts on the part of certain persons in their attempts to regulate everything and everybody by law," wrote L. S. Hastings, member of the law firm of Hastings & Coufal of David City.

H. M. Bushnell, secretary of the United States Trust company of Omaha, calls the veto message, "the most able state paper that has emanated from your office."

Omaha Woman's Praise.

"A decision that will mean the upbuilding of an art that has not yet had time to correct its abuses," says Anna L. Hinterlong, 5015 Davenport street Omaha in support of the veto.

C. Q. DeFrance of Lincoln writes that the veto message is a "classic."

"Congratulations for your splendid stand and message," writes L. C. Farquhar of Guide Rock. Other letters commending the governor came from A. L. Beck Hildreth; J. Rex Henry; Fremont; Karl W. C. Hiller; Lincoln; George J. Warren; Red Cloud; H. A. Edwards; Grand Island; Herbert Rhoades; Tekamah; and A. N. Dodson, Wilber.

Restrictions Are Waived on Aliens Seeking Citizenship

Neligh, Neb., April 30.—(Special.)—A. H. Bode, of Omaha, United States naturalization examiner, was present at a naturalization hearing in district court of Antelope county and waived all restrictions as to alien enemies and the court admitted to citizenship the largest number ever admitted at one hearing in the history of the court. One Englishman, two Austrians and 23 Germans were admitted.

The following were admitted to citizenship: Mathias August Klink; Neligh; Joseph Louis Klink; Elgin; Jacob Steffensen, Orchard; Henry Adolf Pahlke, Sotherland; Henry Bonge, Royal; Richard August Julius Ganskow, Elgin; George Osmer, Orchard; Philipp Scher, Clearwater; Martin Fielder, Orchard; Juergen Detlof Mohr, Clearwater; William Grinnell, Elgin; Fred Hoefaker, Tilden; Louis Sigi, Orchard; Henry Kaland, Tilden; Anton Geist, Jr., Elgin; Martin Peter Kaland, Tilden; Sigfried Andrews Kaland, Oakdale; Joseph Putsche, Elgin; Herman Mennenbroeker, Clearwater; August Mennenbroeker, Clearwater; William Mennenbroeker, Clearwater; Carsten Hansen, Neligh; Henry Herman Neidhardt, Tilden; Henry William Lubken, Neligh; Fred Brandt, Neligh; Fred Pazel, Neligh.

Strange View Is Seen From "Y" Hospital, 30 Blocks Away in Opposite Direction Visible From Secretary's Window.

"If you look out of the north window of Secretary Flower's office on the third floor of the Y. M. C. A. building, you can see St. Joseph hospital," a friend told Samuel Rees of the Rees Printing company today.

"Since the hospital is in the opposite direction and only 30 blocks away, I should say it was a good brand of home brew the secretary must dispense there," retorted Rees.

But the "Y" secretary is strictly temperance. And by following the above direction, one can see the big hospital crowning a South Tenth street eminence—reflected in the second-story window of the court house.

It is the southeast window of the county commissioners' room, directly opposite Flower's window.

The reflection is clearly visible, despite the seeming intervening obstacles of city blocks, the new Burgess-Nash building, the huge smoke stack in its rear and the castle hotel building.

The window which receives the reflection is diagonally across from the hospital, seven blocks west and about 25 blocks north.

Miss Ethel Brown, secretary to Mr. Flower, first noticed the reflection which is clearly visible every day.

Naval Bases in West Pacific Inadequate

have recommended no items that are not necessary to the efficiency and economical maintenance and operation of the fleet and that the providing of these necessary facilities can be done in time of peace at much less cost than they can be improvised and rushed under either war conditions or conditions preceding a threatened war.

"At the beginning of the world war we had on the Atlantic coast the following navy yards and bases: Portsmouth, N. H.; Boston, Mass.; Newport, R. I.; New London, Conn.; New York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Norfolk, Va.; naval operating base Hampton Roads, Va.; Charleston, S. C.; Key West, Fla.; New Orleans, La.; Guantanamo, Cuba, and Pensacola, Fla., a total of 13 at that time. Six more than the total recommended herein."

Established at Great Cost.

"These bases and yards have been long established at great cost and the Navy department found it absolutely necessary to expend a total of about $88,208,753 on their expansion under war conditions at war prices in an attempt to equip them for the maintenance of the fleet found necessary under war conditions even when the war was 3,000 miles across the Atlantic."

It was further necessary for the Navy department to finance a large number of private shipyards, dock yards, boiler shops, forge shops, turbine shops, etc., at a total cost of about $64,022,500. The sum recommended for expenditure on the west coast and the number of bases recommended as necessary are relatively small.

The recommendation and requests coming in from the Pacific fleet as to the development of bases, expansion of yards, etc., which fleets realize so necessary even after the short time that has elapsed since the fleet went to the Pacific, are in agreement with and along the lines proposed by the Helm commission and special board."

The Helm board found that the bases in the Pacific were only one-third the capacity required for adequate care of the navy even in time of peace."

Governor Grants Requisition for Dead Bandits Pal

Savage's Habeas Corpus Application Hearing to Be Held in County Court Here Monday.

Lincoln, April 30.—Governor McKelvie granted Fort Worth, Tex., officers requisition papers for the extradition of Henry Savage, wanted in Texas for robbery.

The Texas officers came to get Henry Savage and Frank Seward. Seward died this week as result of injuries sustained last Sunday when he attempted to escape arrest by jumping from the fourth floor of an Omaha hotel. After his fall he shot himself. Confessions said he had been made by Seward on his death bed implicated Savage.

Since habeas corpus proceedings have already started by Savage, the hearing being set for Monday morning, the county attorney's office will file an amended return, setting forth that extradition papers have been signed, said Deputy County Attorney Coffey. The hearing will take place as set Monday morning, he said.

The Texas charge is that Savage and Seward held up P. H. Feeny and robbed him of $4,300.

Second Hand Auto Show To Be Held

Exhibit Intended to Bring Owners and Prospective Buyers Into Contact.

Robert C. Mitchell and Charles A. Franke are planning the first second-hand automobile show ever to be held in Omaha. The exhibition will be staged at the Auditorium, June 6 to 11.

The desire on the part of many Omahans, including second-hand dealers, for automobiles has led to the staging of the show. In cities on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts where these shows have been held they are said to have proven highly successful.

"It is the desire of this show to bring the owner of a car and the prospective buyer in contact," said Mr. Mitchell. "There are any number of persons who would purchase automobiles if they could find the cars they wanted. During the show the prospective purchasers will have the opportunity of seeing scores of cars which will be sold at reasonable prices."

The exhibitors will be charged $10 each for the space. If they sell their cars the contracts will be automatically closed and room made for another machine. The $10, however, gives the exhibitor the right to keep his machine at the show during the entire week.

A number of persons have already made application for space.
