Will Sprinkle Flowers on Grave; Funeral Military; College and Business Firms to Close.

An air mail plane will drone high above the funeral cortege of Pilot J. T. Christensen Wednesday at Blair, Neb., and drop flowers on the grave in condolence of his death in the air mail service.

Pilot "Tex" Marshall, pal of Christensen, will fly the plane. Air mail pilots and mechanics at the Omaha air mail station will attend the funeral in a body.

Full Military Honors. The American Legion will conduct a military funeral for Pilot Christensen.

The body arrived at Blair at 9 a. m. Monday from Cleveland, where Christensen met death last Friday when his plane crashed to earth in a fog and caught fire from an explosion of the gasoline tank.

Christensen's mother and his brother of Racine, Wis., and S. M. Moore of Chicago, assistant superintendent of the Chicago-Omaha air mail route, accompanied the body.

To Honor Memory. Mrs. I. T. Christensen, wife of the mail pilot, received messages of sympathy from air mail pilots from all over the country.

Rev. R. H. Vig of Dana college and Rev. W. P. Underwood of the Crowell Memorial home will officiate at the funeral services.

Dana college academy, of which the mail pilot was a graduate, will close for the services. All business houses in Blair will be closed to honor the memory of the flyer, a former resident of that city.

Princess Louise of Belgium Tells of 'Mangled Soul' on Eve of Marriage to Philip

Daughter of King Leopold II, Released From Madhouse, Writes Book Describing Tragedies Of Royalty.

By International News Service. London, May 2.—"I owe nothing but misfortune to my royal origin. My life represents a succession of fatalities of which I was powerless to avert the final denouement. I have been a victim ever since my girlish feet were led into devious paths. I have always suffered defeat."

These words come from Princess Louise of Belgium, the daughter of King Leopold II, who in her book, "My Own Affairs," published recently, retraces "the road of my Calvary." She gives to the world some amazing revelations of the intrigues at "the most corrupt court of Europe," where she lived for more than 20 years.

"Married in 1874 at 17 to Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg, I expected to find in marriage the joys that a husband and child can give. I have had bitter proof to the contrary."

Imprisoned in an Asylum. For 33 years she was tied to a husband she loathed—the marriage was annulled in 1907. In 1898 she had been placed in an asylum—"mad, for reasons of state." There she remained until, after seven or eight years, she escaped, and in Paris was declared sane.

"Driven to Munich by the war, then to Budapest, taken prisoner by Hungarian bolsheviks, I have survived the European tempest, and I have seen all those who disowned and crushed me beaten and punished."

"On the day when I was being searched by Hungarian bolsheviks I heard one of them say to another: 'Here is a king's daughter who is poorer than I am.'"

Of her wedding day Princess Louise speaks with horror. "I am not, I am sure, the first woman who, after having lived in the clouds during her engagement, has been as suddenly hurled to the ground on her marriage night, and who, bruised and mangled in her soul, has fled from humanity in tears."

"I did not believe this; I mean to say, I did not believe in the devil's actual visit, but I was nevertheless a little frightened, and when my brother-in-law once again began his incantations I would look round to see if there was anything extraordinary in the room. But there was nothing unusual, excepting Ferdinand and my own curiosity—and perhaps the unrevealed vision of both our futures."

Later, at a dinner, Ferdinand said to Princess Louise: "You see everything here. All is my kingdom. I lay it, myself included, at your feet." Again that evening he said, brusquely: "It is the last time that I shall offer what I have offered. Do you understand?"

"I shook my head and murmured a frightened 'no.' I must have looked as pale as wax. Ferdinand's features took on a sinister expression. He, too, turned pale, and in a hoarse voice he threatened me, saying sneeringly: 'Take care, you will repent this, by Kopite.'"

The prince of Coburg and Princess Louise were often the guests of their relative, Queen Victoria. John Brown Repulses Prince. Princess Louise, describing Queen Victoria's evening drives at Windsor and in the Isle of Wight, says:

"Proceeding the queen, a plaid on his arm, a flask of whisky swung over his shoulder, came John Brown, the faithful Scotsman, whose doings occupied such a prominent position in the Court Circular."

"He led the way, ensconced himself in the brake drawn by two gray horses and the drive—which lasted about two hours—began."

"Even the queen's children experienced John Brown's autocracy. 'It happened that the prince of Wales, afterward the great King Edward VII, once wanted to see his mother on urgent and unexpected business. But John Brown opened the door of the queen's room and said decisively: 'You cannot see the queen, sir.'"

Naming of U. S. Diplomat to Vatican Not Contemplated. Washington, May 2.—Appointment of an American diplomatic representative to the Vatican is not under contemplation, said a statement issued today at the White House in response to repeated inquiries as to the possibility of such an appointment being made.

"Many inquiries have come to the president relative to a contemplated nomination of a diplomatic representative to the Vatican," said the statement, "and the president has thought it best to answer all of them by the public statement that no consideration has been given to such a step and there will be no occasion to consider it unless congress by the enactment of law provides for such representation. The president does not understand that any such proposal has been made to the president."

Czecho-Slovakia Makes Treaty With Roumania. Prague, May 2.—Roumania has concluded a political and military agreement with Czecho-Slovakia, it is announced. The two countries mutually agree to defend their territorial integrity and to act together against restoration of the Hapsburgs in Hungary.

sounded like koptor, koit or kopite was often repeated. One day I asked him to write it down. He traced letters of which I could make nothing excepting that seemed to recognize some kind of Greek characters. "I Call the Devil and He Comes." "After these scenes I questioned him, because while they were proceeding I had to be silent and play the march from 'Aida.' He invariably answered: 'The devil exists. I call on him and he comes.' "I did not believe this; I mean to say, I did not believe in the devil's actual visit, but I was nevertheless a little frightened, and when my brother-in-law once again began his incantations I would look round to see if there was anything extraordinary in the room. But there was nothing unusual, excepting Ferdinand and my own curiosity—and perhaps the unrevealed vision of both our futures."

BRANDEIS STORES

The MAY SALES

They began Monday and were attended by large crowds of well satisfied shoppers. Delighted with the fine quality of merchandise offered at prices within their reach these shoppers learned that these opportunities were not the results of accident. They learned that these opportunities were the products of a carefully devised system. System in buying, in personal responsibility, in the management of every department, in the arrangement of overhead expenses — system in the search for bargains, in the scrutiny of goods, in the fixing of prices. Equally important has been that systematic arrangement of our own financial affairs to the end that WE ARE AT ALL TIMES IN A POSITION TO PAY CASH WHEREVER CASH PAYMENT WILL SECURE A GOOD BAGAIN FOR OUR CUSTOMERS. We claim no credit for giving low prices. We give them as a good business proposition. The system by which we are able to overbid in quality and underbid in price has come to be known as the Lookout in the Foretop. That system is ever operating for the advantage of our customers and the enlargement of the public service field occupied by Brandeis Stores.
