

U. S. to Put World Disarmament Up To Allies' Council

Colonel Harvey, as U. S. Representative in Supreme Council to Take Up Question.

Washington, May 7.—Instructions to Ambassador Wallace at Paris and Roland W. Boyden to resume their posts as unofficial observers for the American government at the conference of ambassadors and reparations commissions, respectively, were prepared today at the State department. This is in conformity with the decision of President Harding, announced yesterday, to have American representatives on the international councils overseas, dealing with problems growing out of the war.

Washington, May 7.—The decision of President Harding to have personal representative present at meetings of the allied supreme council as well as official representatives of the United States on the conference of ambassadors and the reparations commission, was being studied carefully in all quarters today.

It was emphasized in the highest administration circles that the step did not mean the participation of the United States in any project "of a world government or world league."

President's Representative. Colonel Harvey, ambassador to London, will be the president's representative on the supreme council and although without power to bind the United States will be in position to forward much information to Washington.

The supreme council is an outgrowth of the council of four, which functioned at Paris during the drafting of the peace treaty, and to it have been referred for settlement many important questions, including the American protest to the league of nations against the award to Japan of a mandate for the island of Yap. It is, in fact, expected to take up the whole subject of mandates, which was reopened by recent notes of the American government to Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

Another important question which it is now indicated will be taken up with the council is the possibility of initiating a world conference for disarmament.

Two Other Envoys. Rowland W. Boyden, a Boston lawyer, will be an unofficial American representative without a vote in the reparations commission, a body created by the Versailles treaty to assist German indemnities.

Hugh C. Wallace, American ambassador to France and eventually his successor, Myron Herrick, will be an unofficial American observer without a vote in the conference of ambassadors, a formally constituted body which works out in detail policies adopted or proposed by the supreme council.

President Harding announced the decision of the administration following the cabinet meeting at which it was discussed and approved. Shortly afterward Mr. Hughes made public the invitation received from the allied governments and the favorable reply thereto by the United States.

over and pay the annual deficit, however heavy, out of the treasury. The country must have its transportation system.

Predicts Lower Material. "But there is no reason to imagine anything of the kind. There will be a very large saving in cost of material. Coal will be lower this year, ties are lower, steel and iron material is lower except rails, and rails also will have to come down. The question of the wage scale is in the hands of the labor board. I do not anticipate its decision or attempt to influence it, but even if basic pay is not changed economies aggregating hundreds of millions will result from the elimination of arbitrary overtime and duplicated service. I believe that $200,000,000 will be saved by those economies alone. Last year the actual railway gross revenues were the largest in the country's history, without allowing for any government guarantee. But the wage costs, which formerly were 40 per cent of gross revenue, had got up to 70 per cent."

Bills of Interest To West Before House Committee

Measure on Future Trading in Grain to Be Considered This Week; Hearings Held on Packer Legislation.

By E. C. SNYDER.

Washington Correspondence Omaha Bee. Washington, May 7.—(Special Telegram.)—The house committee on agriculture, which has been working overtime since the convening of the sixty-seventh congress in extraordinary session, on many occasions sitting until midnight, has had under consideration three measures extremely important to the people of the west, namely, the various bills relating to dealing in grain futures, bills regulating packing houses and cold storage.

On Wednesday of this week the timber bill, dealing with the future trading in grain and sorghum was favorably reported to the house with some modifications over the bill as originally introduced by the members of the agricultural committee from Kansas. This bill will probably be considered the coming week.

Hearings Held on Bills. On the various bills regulating the packing houses, hearings were had at which both the proponents and opponents of such legislation spoke at length. Thomas Wilson of Chicago, on behalf of more than 200 large and small packing companies, appears in opposition to the Norris-McLaughlin bill which, he said, if enacted into law would simply serve to divert the largest single industry in America from energetic efforts to adjust itself to a changed and difficult situation. The proponents of the measure came from the various farm organizations, the Farmers union and the Grange, through their representatives who have their headquarters in Washington.

The hearings on the packer bills closed Friday night and this morning the committee met to determine the policy to be pursued before that body is determined that the supervision over packing houses should be lodged in the Department of Agriculture, and not in a special commission as proposed in the Norris-McLaughlin bill, a special committee of three members of the committee was elected to draft a bill conformably to the policy adopted.

Personnel of Committee. The committee is Chairman Hagergren, McLaughlin of Nebraska and Williams of Illinois, all republicans.

The cold storage bill introduced by Congressman McLaughlin of Nebraska will probably be considered by the committee the coming week with a view of getting a favorable report on the measure at the earliest opportunity. The so-called "grain future" bill, now known as the timber bill, H. R. 5676, is not by any means the drastic legislation which some of the advocates had insisted upon, but it is believed both practical and constructive. It does away with "puts" and "calls," but does not prohibit hedging. Its chief value, from the standpoint of its proponents, is in the provisions made for complete publicity of all transactions.

The sections relating to publicity read as follows: "That the secretary of agriculture may make such investigations as he may deem necessary to ascertain the facts regarding the operations of future exchanges and may publish from time to time, in his discretion, the results of such investigations and such parts of reports made to him under this act, and such statistical information gathered therefrom, as he may deem of interest to the public."

The penalty for violation of the law is a fine not to exceed $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year or both, together with the costs of prosecution, but no fine or imprisonment or other penalty shall be enforced within 60 days after the violation of the act. All cases of violation shall be subject to court review and any order or regulation of the department may be reviewed by a proper judicial officer on the application of the defendant.

Extradition of Four Rum Runners Ordered

for the past two months. No less than 12 hearings have been held before Commissioner Boehler in their case, each time a continuance having been granted on account of insufficient evidence against them.

At every hearing, new witnesses from Canada were introduced. The principal testimony offered by Canadian witnesses was that Tom Kelly, who is also wanted in Canada on the same charges, and Bart Williams were leaders of a gang of border liquor-runners that operated between Canadian border towns and the United States.

Liquor Theft Charged. Testimony offered on the witness stand at different hearings alleged that the Kelly-Williams gang robbed the Canadian Liquor Exporters Ltd. at Gaiabrook on the night of November 25 of 69 cases of whisky and passed spurious drafts for $60,000 on the company. Canadian authorities swore out warrants against 12 persons in connection with the same charges. Besides the four prisoners in Omaha, three have been arrested at Butte, Mont., two at Minneapolis and one, William Maher, alias William Connelley, alias J. E. Burns, at Minot, N. D.

Arrested Previously. Confidential information discloses that Tom Kelly was arrested at Minot last Thursday with Maher, but was released "before he was identified."

Among the persons who attended the hearings of the four Omaha men before Commissioner Boehler were Roy Kelly, brother of Tom Kelly, Frank O'Neil, pal of Williams, and the wives of Wiley Compton and Axel Pearson.

To the quartet of prisoners, extradition to Canada means heavy prison sentences. For example, one of the prisoners cited the case of the two booze-runners from Minneapolis who were given prison "jolts" of 36 years each on charges of robbery alone.

Winner of Suit Loses; Lawyers Win for 18 Years

Mortgage Note for $5,000, Basis of Action, Already Eaten Up by Attorneys Fees.

Chicago, May 7.—Lawyers have argued, judges have ruled and masters in chancery have taken reams of testimony for 18 years in a controversy over a $5,000 mortgage note and the fight is still on.

Plaintiffs and defendants have paid fees over and over in this—the longest legal battle in the history of Chicago. The suit is expected to drag along a few more years before it reaches the supreme court.

Long Sine Dismissed. It was begun by the late Morris Hirsch, millionaire and former treasurer of B'nai B'rith, against two men who signed the note made payable to Edward Dreyer, former Chicago banker.

Edward H. Arnold and Alanzo C. Noble signed the note and borrowed the money to build a hotel that has been out of use for years. "Way" the building has been "boarded up" and not producing an income is one of the questions that the court is now trying to solve.

Fight Goes On. The note first got into court, because the "brokerage" charge of $125 put the interest in excess of 7 per cent. Before that was settled, the charge was called on to determine whether the note belonged to B'nai B'rith, or the estate of Morris Hirsch.

While this phase was still pending, the question of why the hotel is not being used has been raised. In the meantime, attorneys have more than eaten up the $5,000 involved. Master in chancery fees have almost done the same thing.

Still the fight goes on, although whoever wins will lose.

Kansas Given $40,000 From Defunct Bank

Aurora, Neb., May 7.—(Special.)—District Judge Good gave a judgment for $40,000 against A. E. Ackerman, receiver of the American State bank of this city, in favor of James R. Farney of Kansas City. This was one of the contested cases arising out of the failure of the American State bank and the W. C. Wentz company.

Farney had sold his land through the agency of the W. C. Wentz company and his purchasers had made settlement with Wentz. The latter made settlement with Farney and gave him a check for $37,000, which Farney took with him to Kansas City and there deposited it in his own bank.

This check was sent to Omaha and was by the Omaha bank sent direct to the American State bank of this city. The check apparently disappeared, for it has never been seen and the officers of the American State bank insist that it never reached the bank. This judgment of $40,000 goes against the guaranty fund, Judge Good holding that Farney was a depositor.
