Al Cahn Retires As Billiard Champ

State Three-Cushion Champ Quits Green Cloth Sport to Play on Green Links. When Albert Cahn, veteran billiard player of Nebraska, defeated Ralph Stephens in the final game for the state three-cushion championship last Tuesday night, he rung the curtain down on his career as a cue wielder in city and state tourna-

Following his 50 to 48 victory over Stephens, the "father" of the green-cloth game in this state decided that it was time for him to Cahn has been wielding a wicked cut in billiard matches for more Commerce Students and Fac- than 40 years. When the first state tourney was organized and staged in 1912 Cahn was the first to enter the event. He succeeded in defeating Harry Symes in a close game in the finals for the first Nebraska championship. The veteran held the laurels of Cornhusker land for four years, and, then when the playing tactics of the game were revised and the tournament made an open affair, more out-of-town "slickers" came to Omaha to try their luck at winning the title, After holding the championship for four years, Cahn lost it to Chambers and after regaining the crown dropped it next to Sciple Symes also held the honors for a season, but during the following tournament Cahn won the final match and championship.

Besides holding state champion ship. Cahn, who is a member of the Omaha Athletic club, has held the title of the club. Last winter he lost the honors to Dr. H. C. Sumney in one of the hardest fought matches ever held at the club. Although Cahn has passed the 61 mark in years, the veteran is not going to retire from all sports. No, not at all. Cahn is a member of that tribe of men who journey each Sunday morning to the Field club links to play golf. He also expects to keep polished up on billiard playing, however, not entering any more tournaments.

John Wilson, middleweight champion, is scheduled for a western appearance May 23, taking on Battling Ortega, California challenger, in a 10-round no decision bout at Milwaukee. Both battlers are to weigh 162 pounds at 3 o'clock. Frank Mulkern will promote the show.
