The absentee hostess has come into vogue! And she will prove very popular with the men, so we hear. Why? Just because she will let the males have their "stag" parties absolutely undisturbed by the murmurings of the fair sex.

Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Diamond in the Rough. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 21, and during the past eight or nine months have been going about with a young man two years my senior.

This young man is very brilliant, rather good looking and has an attractive personality, so that I have decided I really like him. The trouble is, however, that he appears to everybody to be rough, inconsiderate and impulsive. I see all this myself, but I am quite sure that this is all a "pose" and only on the surface, because he doesn't want to give a girl the satisfaction of saying he likes her.

Behind all this I know he has a good heart and a noble soul and I am sure he cares for me. Now don't you think that a man like that is just as good as an even better than the polished and polite dandy who keeps on paying compliments all the time? Isn't real, true character to count? My people are very much opposed to him, but have decided to abide by your decision.

Of course character counts. But there's nothing to be gained by roughness and the consequent wounded feelings that must follow. Bad manners are a habit. If the man loves you he ought to make some effort to impress favorably those near and dear to you.

A Gingerbread Party. I am sure you would like a "Gingerbread party." The invitations to this delightfully novel party for little folks are made of heavy brown paper cut in circles the size of a ginger cookie. Each circle is scalloped around the edge and has this rime written on it in red ink:

Come to my party as many as can: Come for a romp with the Gingerbread Man. Gingerbread smiles on his gingerbread friends. Gingerbread buttons all neatly in place. Kisses the eyes that are watching for you.

Come to my party on Tuesday at two. These cookie invitations are placed in large envelopes, each having the child's name lettered on the outside, and in one corner instead of a stamp there is a little cookie man drawn with pencil and painted with brown water colors.

At each child's place at table there should be a gingerbread toy. These toys—horses, men, roosters and cats, made of hard gingerbread frosted pink and white—you can have made inexpensively at a good bakery. If they are not available, gingerbread men to stand at each place can be made at home of cookie dough.

The brown menu is simple but attractive because it is "different!" Peanut Butter Sandwiches. Curry of Chicken. Ginger Preserve. Ginger Nuts. Ginger Ice Cream. Ginger Cookies.

They other guests' favors may be toys chosen with a view to their general fitness for the scheme of entertainment. They are inexpensive, but most welcome to the children, and may consist of tin kitchen sets and wooden dishes for the girls, and toy animals for the boys.

Why not procure a copy of "The Little Gingerbread Man," by George E. Putnam, and, after a few merry games on the lawn, let the children hear read the story.

Give each child a bag of homemade ginger cookies to take home.

Mother: How about golf? You used to play and you remember how fine it made you feel? Women can get over more ground with less fatigue and effort at this game than in any other prescribed form of exercise.

It is nerve soothing, and I think the very thing you need to revive your interest and joy in life. The more fun you put into any form of exercise the more beneficial.

Yates Parent-Teachers Elect Officers. Mrs. Frank Field was re-elected president of the Parent-Teachers' association of Henry W. Yates school at the annual business meeting Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

Polishing Cut Glass. Wash cut glass in a good suds, rinse in quite hot water to which a tablespoon of bluing has been added, and polish with a tea towel. This gives a brilliant luster to the cut glass.

Stretching Out Canned Fruit.

When you have several persons to serve from a limited amount of canned peaches or apricots divide the fruit equally among the number to be served and arrange in comports. Pour over fruit the following custard and serve when cool: To each cup fruit juice add the well-beaten yolk of one egg and three table-spoons sugar which has been mixed to a paste with one rounding teaspoon cornstarch and a little juice or milk. Cook till thick, then heat in the stiff-white of an egg. One cup of juice made into custard will serve five or six generously.

Bachelors and Children. Commenting on John Galsworthy's book on childhood, "Awakening," and urtic remarks that men, and especially bachelors, are the best historians of childhood.

It was Charles Lamb who wrote "Dream Children." Lamb, by the way, was scarcely an inveterate bachelor, as he would have married Ann Simmons if she had been willing, and there was also "Alice W." as well as Fanny Kelly.

I USE LOTS OF ALAMITO MILK

"The children are always hungry, and I've found that plenty of bread and milk or cereals and milk satisfies them better than anything else. They thrive on it, too. Just look at them—did you ever see healthier youngsters?"

"I buy Alamito Milk because I know I've got to take my milkman's word for the quality of my milk. And under those circumstances it pays to trade with a strong, responsible company."

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Toilet Talks) A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. Sherman & McConnell 5 Drug Stores has appointed agent for Allamabus in this vicinity with the understanding that he will freely return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they received no benefit.
