Trade Exhibit.

The trade exhibit held in Benson during the past week scored a big success, the attendance each evening far surpassing all expectations. The entertainment feature was the most part home talent. Besides a six-piece orchestra, many vocal numbers were rendered and screen pictures shown. On Thursday night the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor staged the play, "Bill Perkins Proposing Day," a series of vocal selections were rendered by Miss Marie Maney. The exhibit closed Saturday night with drills by the Modern Woodmen team and a street dance.

Installation of Officers.

A Charming Breakfast Room Or Small Dining Room Suite At a Demonstration Price.

ORCHARD & WILHELM'S, Sixteenth and Howard, are offering at a special demonstration price a delightful suite for small dining room or breakfast room, an appealing buy during the month of May. Send for an illustrated folder which furnishes pleasing descriptions of each piece. The craftsmen of Berkeley & Gay have brought out the richness and glow of the birch and curly birch in this suite, the finish in shellac rubbed to a dull gloss. Panels in a dull blue and tones of rose and green and gold give an air of gaiety and good cheer further emphasized in the cretonne upholstery of the chairs. For economizing space the drop leaves on the table are admirable besides giving an unusually pleasing quaintness to the set. A pair of chairs in Berkeley & Gay furniture is at once noticeable. Write to this office for a folder.

Summer Frocks Bloom Like Flowers

In the Lamond Specialty Shop, second floor Securities building, Sixteenth and Farnam. And just as the flowers appear each day anew so do the dress models change in this shop of novel apparel. A stunning black and white in one of the new blocked gingham has an overdressing of white organdie with unusual edging of bias lattice work in half diamonds. A bit of fullness at each end of the plain skirt is a touch of bodice where the tunic is attached is no more pleasing in effect than the dainty sash ties on each side! The price is one to bewitch, but $14.50! Inexpensive, too, are the vivid little organdies in high shades, persimmon, cinnamon, tomato, Neptune green, Royal Blue, many of them with corsage of French inspiration. Organdies, swisses, tissues, organdies and taffeta combinations, ravishing frocks for summer.

There's a "Homey" Feeling About a Hartmann Wardrobe Trunk.

The outside appearance of your Hartmann Wardrobe trunk, which is now being shown at the Freling & Steimle company, 18th and Farnam, is so attractive and so practical that it is bound to be a source of pride. Handsomely mounted in finest quality metal, it is substantial and quietly conservative. But it's the inside which appeals to the heart of every woman. Every conceivable convenience has been provided to make it a source of pleasure. No uncomfortable bending over the old-fashioned trunk to find the elusive necessary in dressing; the Hartmann trunk stands open just like a wardrobe in the home with a promise of prompt furnishing of just what she wants in the twinkling of an eye. No danger of leaving anything in the hotel either, for each garment is at once replaced in the wardrobe trunk after being used. Write for illustrated folder of the Hartmann trunk if unable to call. We'll also be glad to send prices.

Jade green is still extensively used for trimming.

Colorful Silken Shades For Lamps or Candles.

The art department of the A. H. Hospe company music and art store, 1513 Douglas, has a complete showing of double silk shades for lamps and candles in tones most desired by interior decorators. Bits of chenille, lattices of gold and silver lace add greatly to the artistry of these shades, now specially priced. A four-inch shade is $1, a five-inch size is $1.50. The combination of color, is $4. This department has some new Japanese silk nasturtiums with generous grouping of foliage, bits of color for the living or sunroom, at 15c each.

Airy Summer Frocks

FROCKS that prophesy sunshine days—days for bright linens, brilliantly checked gingham—and dancing nights for billowy ruffles and gaudily dotted swisses and soft clingy French tulle, claiming the colors of the summer sunsets, are the frocks which one sees when visiting the Ideal Button & Pleating Co., third floor Brown block, Sixteenth and Douglas. Each frock is made individual by many pert ruffles, picot edged, lace sheernesses added to fabrics by a hemstitched heading, net in double folding on organdie being one of the newest notes. Embroidery in lavish stitchery on the long-lined frocks of crepey lure, little "petties" for wear with sports skirts scalloped round the hem, all stitched by decorators of women's wear who know how to stitch charm and individuality into every tracery, seam and frill. Send for a catalog, and price quotation on the work you wish done.

A page from grandmother's style book the lace mitts of black or white silk shown in one of Omaha's smart shops this week at $1.50 a pair.

You're Very Welcome

To shop with Polly—by mail of course—that is if you feel sufficiently acquainted with her taste and judgment to trust to her selections for your wardrobe. Please try to be explicit in your ordering—it saves time—both hers and yours. State price, use to which you'd like to put the garment, style of wearables usually bought. Then leave it to Polly, she'll be glad to shop for you, charging no commission for her services.

Let's Go Shopping with Polly

I stand beside this roadway old,
A thing unloved, alone,
Save for the lilacs whose sweet scent
O'er fifty years has blown.

I know the glance of passerby
Who through each window sees
The quiet rooms that shelter still
The ghosts of memories.

They pass the garden's weedy aisles,
Where roses long have died,
And see the bitter herb-of-grace
Profuse on every side.

But they shall know why peace is mine
And have contentment, too,
When ivies climb the grayling years,
And rose has changed to rue.—

AN OLD HOME SPEAKS—Arthur Wallace Peach, in Munsey's.

Homemade Cakes Delivered.

JUST discovered is the baker of most delectable homemade cakes—Phone Kenwood 0460 and state your preference in deliciously dainty cake and it will be baked and delivered to you at once. Angel food cakes are a specialty in this great airy kitchen, while little cakes for evening parties are a delight. Out-of-town orders receive prompt attention.

Kodak Books Delightful Graduation Gifts.
THE Schmitz Photo Supply Shop, Merritt Drug Store, 309 S. Sixteenth street, have made a special tie offering on all kodak books and albums in their extensive stock. Books from 98c to $4 offer excellent value for the commencement gift. Developing is done free with no extra charge for glossy prints.

A summer evening wrap of picot-edged petals of chiffon has a huge ermine collar.

Special Prices On Hair Switches.

THE Delit Hair Parlors, fourth floor Karbach block, Fifteenth and Douglas, are offering their finest quality French hair switches at very low prices. An unusual opportunity for that addition to milady's tresses for which she has longed.

A Gift Shop Unusual.

THE John Henriksen Jewel Shop, Sixteenth and Capitol, has been adding to its gift lines in preparation for the graduation period of the year and presents an appearance of festiveness quite in keeping with the gayety of commencement time. Rings for both boy and girl graduates have been especially well chosen. Blue, pink and gold sapphires offer delightful gift suggestions. These may be had as low as $7.50. Black and white or pink and white cameos, striking rings, are offered from 85 up. Pearls, daintily appropriate giftlings, are lovely when mounted three in a ring for $5. The newest styling in rings for boys are the smooth-cut, square mounted tourmalines in dark colorings to be had at $35. Sterling buckles for belts make splendid gifts and are sold at $17.50. The leather belts which may be bought separately are $1 each. Ivory novelties for the dainty dressing table are offered as low as 50c, appealing gifts when wrapped in dainty box, crisp white and gold seals. Every boy or girl will be delighted to receive a gift in a Henriksen box!

My Dearest:

One could enthuse for pages over the adorably wrought stylings to be found in the shops today, the colors alone quite inspire a person inclined to give a thought to fashions. Such delectable shadings as rose-wood, jade, beige, honeydew, peacock, orchid, tomato, and canary prove irresistible when evolved in the season's newest fabrics. Canton crepe, mignonette, georgette crepe, crepe de chine, taffeta, tricotine, kitten's ear crepe, weavings of rare loveliness. One of the big shops of Omaha has a sale of model hats, sports models of delicious sports line, fringed ribbon hats, wool pulldown with bits of leather trim, ribbon hats, unusual buys at $6.75, easily $20 and $25 values. Dainty little tub frocks are pouring into the shops at prices unusual, $14 to $25, the nicest kind of frocks. Sweaters are lovelier than ever, the sports coats clever, indeed, while the little separate skirts for wear on every occasion leave nothing to be desired.

The Something Different in Sheer Organdies
MAY be due to the witching bit they're stitching into them at the Van Arnan Pleating Shop, fourth floor Paxton block, Sixteenth and Farnam. You'll find their work excellent, indeed, in all lines, button-making, pleating, hemstitching, and embroidery.

"Tell Me Of A Reliable Shop For Between Season Reduction On Remaking My Hat"

A REQUEST that comes daily to the desk of Polly. And the reply for your information might be found to read thus: "You'll find the Kruger Hat Shop, third floor Barker block, Fifteenth and Farnam, reliable in every way. They'll reblock, retint and refashion your hat in stylish way. Remake the old feathers, furs and marabou or do your dainty bit of hemstitching."

Dress Becomingly in the Kitchen

When I had been married a year or so all my impracticable working clothes, the pretty little frilly aprons and dresses of my trousseau, were worn out, stained or faded, and I found myself quite in the same box with the famous Miss Flora McFlimsy as far as kitchen things went—I had "nothing to wear."

So profiting by experience I made out a list of things I knew I needed, went into town and bought the cloth and engaged a little seamstress who went out by the day to do plain sewing to come to the house for a week and fit me out.

The things were so satisfactory that I want to pass on the ideas to the spring brides who are making their trousseaus and haven't had the experience I have had. One of the problems of the young housewife, who usually does her own work for the first few years, at least these days, is dressing in the morning so she is perfectly presentable when she goes to the door. And the problem is as great in the afternoon, still be able to get dinner without spoiling one's pretty afternoon dress. Really one shouldn't cook in a taffeta or serge even covered with an apron; it gets saturated with that kitchen smell that every housewife wants to leave behind her in the kitchen.

The famous bungalow aprons are all right for some things, but they are not awfully pretty, and one doesn't feel like running out to the store with them on. My morning dresses are as easily washed and ironed as these aprons, just as easy to get into, but are much prettier. I found a very pretty pattern of a straight dress with kimono sleeves, but it had a narrow white front in that extended to the belt in front, with long narrow revers and cuffs. I got enough pink and white checked gingham, plain Nile green chambray and dark blue percale for three. The fronts and the collars were made up separate and snapped into the dresses with snaps. I used a fine ribbed pique for them and had two extra ones made so they could be washed whenever necessary. The cuffs I baste in. They go on over the head like an apron, but when the collar and front are snapped in and the belt on they really look like little afternoon dresses. Then I had aprons made of the same materials to match. Such a pretty pattern I found for them, too, a nice bib, with a full skirt and wash. I had them made with two big pockets and long enough so they covered the hem of the skirts. So often aprons are not long enough. I trimmed them with white rickrack braid. Then I made pretty little sweeping caps to match. I know now that lacy hoodoo caps are not the thing to wear around the kitchen. Now when I go to the door I can take off the cap and apron and look as well as I used to when I started for the courts for a game of morning tennis. And somehow work seems so much pleasanter when you know you look well dressed.

For my afternoon dresses I used wash goods, too. You can get such pretty mercerized things nowadays that they look quite like silk. I had them made with straight skirts and slipon waists that come on the outside. They look dressier than smocks and are just as easy to get into. Hanging on a hook by the sink I have an apron made of white oilcloth bound with pink tulle, and there is another in the laundry, so when I have to wash out some things down there, I can tie it over my dress and not get it wet. I have made such pretty aprons for the garden, too; black cretonne with bright flowers scattered over it, bound with plain colored tapes. And I have a long, narrow apron made of black oilcloth for the garden, too; long enough so I can kneel on it and won't get my knees grubby and stained.

There is really no excuse these days for a woman to wear her old street clothes around the house; they never look right, and they are never comfortable. But if you are becomingly and neatly dressed you will find that you feel better and work better. Maundy task that was a bugbear becomes a real joy. Try it and see.

It's May and Salad Days Are Here.

A GOOD salad is always refreshing, but it is especially enjoyed during the summer, when one's appetite craves something light and tasty, yet satisfying too. It really is an art to know how to prepare a salad just right, but their salads will many new friends daily. When you're hungry for "something" and don't know just what it is, you'll find it at The Flatiron Cafe, 1721 Howard street. Try the complete business luncheon at 35c, a Flatiron feature.
