Scores Joyce at Divorce Hearing

Counsel for Wife Says He Will Paint Millionaire in True Colors Before End of Tral.

Chicago Tribuna-Omaha Bee Legard Wire Chicago, June 10 .- "It it were not for the James Stanley Joyces there would be no 'kept' women in this world. Before we get through with this case we will paint him in his true colors."

Weymouth Kirkland, chief coun-sel for Peggy Joyce, thus closed his dramatic address which he be-gan yesterday in endeavoring to prove to the court that Peggy was entitled to $10,000 a month alimony and $100,000 counsel fees.

"Peggy Joyce stands before this court presumably innocent and pure, entitled to plenty of money for defense. They will paint her as black as they can. But when they are trying to make her out an adventuress, a charlatan, a Magdalene, a vampire and enchantress, a siren uring innocent young men, remem-ber that James Stanley Joyce left the arms and caresses of Charlotte Johnson to take up his new plaything. He was not the poor simpleton he has represented himself to

Attorney Kirkland demanded that the court protect Peggy's interests in the $250,000 mansion Joyce built for her in Miami, Fla., and which he has recently deeded over to his brother. "Joyce has employed a small army of spies and detectives. He has subsidiesed bellhops, taxicab has subsidised bellhops, taxicab drivers, chamber maids, head waiters in Europe and America, to bear false witness against his wife. His agents have tapped telephone wires Leaves for City of Mexico at great expense. She is entitled to a sum large enough to enable her

> He made her believe he was re-ceiving an income of $1,000,000 a year and he encouraged her to live it up to live at the rate of $10,000, which was the minimum Joyce allowed her from the beginning." Joyce sat through Kirkland's tirade quietly. His brother, David G. loyce, was with him and the court room was packed. At the request of Alfred S. Austrian, Joyce's attorney, who declared he wanted to question some new witnesses, the hearing was continued to next Wednesday. No action was taken upon Austrian's informal motion of yes-terday that Peggy be brought here from New York to answer questions regarding the disposition of her jewelry.

Romance in Origin Of Superstitions

The Bride and the Mirror.

There is an old superstition, still much in vogue, that a bride should not look in the mirror after completing her toilet. That is that after leaving the mirror at which she has dressed for her marriage she should add some article for her toilet-a glove or a ribbon perhaps.

This is a survival of the manner in which the ancients regarded their own reflected image which was as a part of their spiritual self-their soul, or at least their "external soul." SOUTH PRONT; 5 rooms; suproom; frame and stucco bungalow; garage to match, Alfred Thomas & Son. Jackson 0064. Some savage races so regard their reflections today. The shadow of a man's reflection had to the primitive man a like relation to the man himself. They partook of the nature of what the modern "theosophists" call a man's "astral body."

This belief is at the base of the reluctance of conservative savages. and of some old-fashioned civilized people of superstitious turn of mind, to "have their pictures taken"-of why the breaking of a looking glass brings death into the family. It is an inheritance from untold ages of the notion that "the soul goes out of the body with the reflection," as one writer puts it. Now the bride, having partially dressed herself before her glass, turns away and completes her attire. The reflection of herself partially attired has vanished -been drawn back safely into herself. Fully attired she must not venture another projection of her exterior soul, her astral body, lest some accident should happen . it, which might react upon herself, causing death or disaster in the near future. And brides upon their wedding day, like very young children, have always been regarded as particularly susceptible to the influence of "black
