> Problems That Perplex BEATRICE FAIRFAX

In Doubt About Love. 25 and engaged to a man 13 years my senior. This man is kind and considerate and would do anything to please me. At times I feel that I love him dearly, and again, I am doubtful. Will you kindly tell me what love really is? Is one when in love happy always or do they at times feel as I do-doubtful and undecided? Does a person pick their mate among the characteristics they prefer, and, liking these preferences, love the person so endowed or is a person in love so afflicted that they care for nothing but the company of the loved one? VIVIANA. Love is never an affliction. But those who love most sincerely and deeply realize that a life to be a full, rounded thing requires more than a single interest and stimula-Of course, you'll have interests outside those your lover brings to you. Of course, you'll see the world as a large place in which you two are but atoms. As you write of your contemplated marriage, you seem to lack only the basic attraction withwhich two are not perfectly mated. Seek Other Places. Dear Miss Fairfax: Is it wrong for a refined girl who is a very good dancer to go out to dances frequent-ly? I am a girl of 17 and I enjoy dancing very much, but my mother insists on saying that a girl re-ceives a reputation she doesn't deserve when she attends too many dance halls. Does that mean that I must give up my favorite pastime?

Can't you dance less and at more exclusive places than the public dance halls, which often indeed are the sort to hurt a girl's reputation and even her standard of living? How about some neighborhood clubs? Or the homes of your friends? You mustn't let the things you enjoy blind you to the value of home and improving your mind.

Blue Eyes: A girl 13 should not go with boys against her mother's will. She may think she knows better than mother but the probability is that she does not. (Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.) Keep the skin clean as the best

PYROS GOES AFTER PYORRHEA AND GETS IT!

Thousands of Advanced Cases Completely Healed - Diseased Mouths Made Sweet and Clean.

Spongy, Bleeding Gums Are Made Firm—Teeth Loosened by Pyorrhea Are Tightened.

Pyros Is Guaranteed, if Fairly

Tried, Regardless of How Severe the Case May Be. Countless hundreds of nature's own hunan teeth have been saved for years upon years of service through the proper and timely use of Pyros for Pyorrhea. Thousands of diseased and unhealthy mouths have been cleaned up, purified and sweetened, stained teeth cleaned and whitened, decay arrested and four breath made pleasant and wholesome through the use of this highly scientific mouth wash and dentrifice.

What a wonderful thing this highly estringent, penetrating and antiseptic Pyros is. What a blessing it is for those who suffer from sore, bleeding and spongy gums, trench mouth and pyorrhea-infected eeth to know that absolute and positive relief is at hand in a form as easily used and applied as washing your teeth with an ordinary dentrifice.

Used the sample of Pyros on a pa-tient with the most wonderful results. Kindly send me three bottles, two to the above address and one to Miss Wilde, 5829 Norfolk street, W. Phila-delphia. J. S. SULLIVAN, D. D. S. fice of your own natural teeth for false ones with their disagreeable plates And not only that, Pyros guards your health by clearing up and dispelling the poisonous pyorrhetic pus sacks which form at the tooth roots and spread through the body, causing rheumatism, stomach trouble, insanity and countless other ills unless they are antisepticised with Pyros. Pyros is a highly scientific liquid preparation, which is used just as any ordinary aration, which is used just as any ordinary mouth wash or liquid dentifrice is used. But it has a wonderful "kick" to it. The minute you apply Pyros its potent power is felt, and you will appreciate its difference from the wishy-washy, perfumed and flavored waters that are merely made to taste good, but do no actual good. Pyros doesn't taste good at first—but it sure does the work. It goes right after Pyorrhea, sore, bleeding or receding gums, loose teeth or trench mouth, and cleans them up completely.

Get a bottle today. An 8-ounce bottle costs a dollar and it will last a month. Follow the diffections carefully and use it faithfully. Dilute it at first if your mouth is very sore and tender. Then if it fails to give you absolute and positive relief; if it doesn't completely heal up, purify and sweeten your mouth and breath, if it doesn't tighten up your pyorrhea-loosened teeth and in every other way do all we claim for it, go right back to the drug store from which you bought it, or write in to the laboratory and get your money back.
