Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Bridal Shower.

Dear Miss Fairfax: We are a club of nine girls and want to give one of our members a bridal shower. The color scheme decided upon is yellow and white. But we want to know what kind of a shower we ought to have and we want suggestions as to the kind and quantity of refreshments required for 30 guests.

HAPPY "NINE". The planning of a bridal shower is quite as much fun as the actual realization. The miscellaneous shower is worthy of consideration. For a club member may give what she personally wishes to give and afford. In one miscellaneous shower a bride-to-be received silk lingerie, silk stockings, table linen, bed linen, fancy pieces of linen, boudoir novelties, such as a pin tray, punchbowl, telephone cover, electric lady lamp, a set of dust clothes, a mixing bowl, a wooden fork-and-spoon salad set, tiny salt and pepper sprinklers, a gingham apron and many other things.

A novel idea, if the size of the gifts allow, is to conceal the gifts in a Jack Horner pie. Since you have chosen yellow and white for your color scheme, the pie may be of white crepe paper and the gifts may be attached to pretty yellow daffodils. The use of crepe paper tablecloths is also to be commended. The tablecloths come in excellent imitations of the choicest damask, and napkins to match may be obtained. A vase of green pottery filled with yellow buttercups makes an attractive centerpiece. The yellow and white daisies which grow wild in many vicinities are also attractive. The wild California poppy is a charming decoration for a yellow and white color scheme.

Three four-pound chickens will give ample chicken salad for 20 guests. In fact, the portions will be quite generous. Cook the chickens the day before. Remove the meat from the bones and skin. Cut the edible meat into half-inch cubes. Then wrap it in a clean towel and place it in a bowl in the ice chest. The celery, likewise, may be cut into cubes, wrapped and put into the box with the chicken. It takes but a few moments the day of the party to season the mixture, moisten it with mayonnaise and place it on leaves of lettuce. A salad, as well as the plates upon which it is served, should be as cold as possible. If tuna fish seem desirable because of its lower cost, substitute it for the chicken. A salad may be garnished with olives, slices of hard-cooked eggs, strips of canned pineapple, or bits of bottled beets. Small rolls with butter, or bread and butter sandwiches, iced coffee or iced chocolate, with whipped cream, as well as small cakes with white or yellow icing are appropriate. Orange ices in pretty yellow or white crepe paper cups carry out the color scheme and give an appropriate finish to the refreshing repast.

Miss M. C.: You can get names of residents in the cities of Kansas by consulting directories. Libraries in the larger cities everywhere carry directories of other large cities. I know of no way you could get names of people who live in the country and smaller towns.

A harmless wave of the hand to a passing train is only a bit of good-natured fun. But to follow it up with calls upon trainmen is not advisable. The probabilities are that most of the men who have waved at you are married and are not taking the matter as seriously as you are.

I believe I would let the young Scandinavian write to me first. If he cares about you, he will do so.

Hawaiian Canned Pineapple In a More Convenient Form Crushed or Grated

When baking pies, fixing salad, making puddings or frozen dainties, you will find it much more convenient to use Hawaiian Canned Pineapple in its Crushed or Grated form.

Like the sliced pineapple with which you are more familiar, the Crushed or Grated is real, sun-ripened fruit, picked in the first few hours of its prime, and packed before sundown that same day.

All of the lusciousness and native flavor of the natural Hawaiian Pineapple is preserved by this process.

Buy Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Canned Pineapple at your grocer's in half dozen or dozen lots; then you will always be ready for the emergency. It is packed in several sizes of cans to suit your needs.

It will keep perfectly on your pantry shelf until you are ready for its use, and it requires no preparation whatsoever.

At the soda fountain, ask for a Pineapple Sundae. It is made with ice cream and Crushed or Grated Hawaiian Pineapple.

Send for our booklet containing many dainty methods of serving Hawaiian Crushed or Grated Pineapple.
