

Ft. Crook Street Cars Immoral, Officer States

Overcrowding Charged by Suburb Residents at Hearing on Application for Better Service.

Fort Crook street cars are so crowded that the conditions of riding on them are not only unsafe but "immoral," Lieut. Col. V. S. Chamberlain of Fort Crook testified in the council chamber of the city hall yesterday at a hearing of an application for better street car service before Chairman Taylor of the Interstate Railway commission.

Army officers, soldiers and residents of Fort Crook and Bellevue testified at the hearing. Lieutenant Colonel Chamberlain also described the "overwhelming odor of stock yards and bootleg whisky" at Twenty-fourth and N streets, point of transfer from the Fort Crook cars.

The committee asking better service desires that Fort Crook cars run into downtown Omaha instead of Twenty-fourth and N streets. The committee also asked the railway commission for half-hour service.

Attorneys for the Omaha & Southern Interurban Railway company stated the road has lost money in its 15 years of operation.

Tot Swallows Poison; Dies in Convulsions

Two poison tablets caused the death Sunday night of little Gordon Davis, 15-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davis, 4406 Pinkney street.

The babe awoke from his afternoon nap and toddled aimlessly about the house looking for his mamma. He found two little pellets on the ground near the door and swallowed them.

The child went into convulsions. His mother, attracted by the child's condition, summoned neighbors. The babe died before a doctor arrived.

Citizens To Discuss New Playground Plans

For the establishment of a new playground in one of the congested districts of the city, public-spirited citizens will meet Thursday, probably at the Chamber of Commerce, to discuss plans.

Dr. Harry A. Foster of the Board of Public Welfare is heading the committee. S. S. Caldwell, Fred Rogers, Randall Brown and George A. Roberts are among the interested men.

The aim is to get the playground ready for use this summer.

Omaha's Baby Plane Flown From Here to Red Oak, Ia.

Omaha's baby airplane, the "Kite," constructed by A. H. Fetter, and Edward Greer, was flown from Omaha to Red Oak, Ia., yesterday.

R. L. Wagner of Red Oak piloted the tiny ship. He made the 40-mile air line journey in 34 minutes.

The "Kite" will be exhibited at the airplane tournament which will be held at Red Oak Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The "Kite" was named after the late Warren Kite of Grand Island, who recently was killed. Kite was the first man to fly the baby plane.

U. P. Settles One Suit

A $50,000 suit against the Union Pacific railroad was settled yesterday between Pat Kelly and the railroad for $5,000. Pat still has a $50,000 suit pending which he filed last month, alleging that a beautiful siren in the employ of the railroad "vamped" him to withdraw his suit.

"Dry Foot"

Stops Throbbing, Burning Swollen Feet

A few applications of Dry-Foot of your druggist and mix it up as per directions on package. Apply solution freely direct to the feet, allowing it to dry. Then, no more foot misery, no more swollen feet, no more corns, bunions or calluses. Mfg. by Baker Chemical Co., Haverlock, Neb.

ITCH!

Money back without question if HUNT'S GUARANTEED SKIN DISEASE REMEDY fails to relieve itching, burning, redness, blisters, or other skin diseases. Try this treatment at once.

Sherman & McConnell 5 Drug Stores.

No Soap Better For Your Skin Than Cuticura

Quickly relieves Constipation, Biliousness, Loss of Appetite and Headaches, due to Torpid Liver.

666

A mild system of treatment that cures Piles, Fistula and other Rectal Diseases in a short time, without a severe surgical operation. No Chloroform, Ether or other general anesthetic used. Cured. Write for book on Rectal Diseases, with names and testimonials of more than 1,000 prominent people who have been permanently cured.

DR. E. R. TARRY Sanatorium, Peters Trust Bldg. (Opp. Bldg.) Omaha, Neb.

Grain Man Awarded Medal for War Work Under Herbert Hoover

Charles T. Neal

For notable service performed during the war as vice president of the United States Grain corporation and working in conjunction with the food administration of which Herbert Hoover was head, Charles T. Neal of the Neal-Conklin Grain company has been rewarded with a medal received from Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Dead Child Donor To Bee Milk Fund

Parents Include Name With Those of Living Children in Loving Memory.

A little angel came down from heaven yesterday to grace the list of benefactors for The Bee's milk and ice fund for needy babies.

Sweet memories of her, gone two years now, induced her parents to include her name with their other two precious babies when they sent a check of $5 to help furnish cool and refreshing milk to the babies of the poor.

The little angel, who would have lived 6 years old yesterday had she lived, appears as "Ruth" in the line, "Ruth, Edward and Gertrude."

"We like to think of her as yet alive—not gone from us forever," said her mother.

Milk and ice purchased from this fund is distributed through the Visiting Nurse association.

Previously acknowledged: Oscar Kayer, Bellevue, Neb., $3.48; Ruth, Edward and Gertrude $5.00.

Total $8.48.

Government Post Given Veteran U. P. Engineer

N. F. Harriman, for 18 years engineer of tests of the Union Pacific system, has been notified of his appointment as engineer in charge of standardization in the bureau of standards, Department of Commerce, in Washington, D. C. This is a new department in the bureau of standards. Mr. Harriman will enter upon his new duties at once.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Secretary Hoover was a guest and following the banquet he presented each with a medal bearing the caption "For Notable Service."

During the war Mr. Neal had charge of buying and selling of all grain in Nebraska and Wyoming and was under the direct command of Julius H. Barnes, president of the grain corporation. The grain corporation was a branch of the food administration and for three years guarded carefully the grain sales and purchases of the nation.

Mr. Neal, in company with 24 other executives of the United States Grain corporation, met last week at the Biltmore hotel, New York, where, after a banquet, a permanent organization was formed for social purposes and for continuing friendships formed during the war.

Playground Heads Given Lesson in Patriotism

City Commissioner J. B. Hummel gave 12 women supervisors of Omaha playgrounds a lesson in patriotism and housekeeping yesterday at a meeting in the city hall.

"You ought to teach the children in your care the real meaning of Independence day," Mr. Hummel said. "Get out of their heads the idea that the day is set aside merely for shooting off fire crackers and drinking red pop."

The park commissioners also admonished the supervisors to do a "little house cleaning in their parks."

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

BURGESS-NASH COMPANY.

"EVERYBODY'S STORE"

Tuesday Is Bargain Day

In the Downstairs Store

Dainty and Cool Looking

Mina Taylor

Dresses

at $2.95

For morning wear, yes and for street wear, these cool-looking gingham dresses are very appropriate. Most of them are in dainty light shades, but there are also darker colors for those who desire them.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in patriotism, telling them to teach the children the real meaning of Independence day.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr. Hummel also gave the supervisors a lesson in housekeeping, telling them to keep the playgrounds clean and free from weeds and trash.

He also told them to see that the children are properly supervised and that they are kept from playing on the streets and in the yards of private homes.

Mr