

Motor Bandits Rob 2 Couples In Elmwood Park

Halt Auto in Which Young People Riding and Take Wallets From Men—Don't Harm Girls.

Two couples were held up and robbed by a trio of motor car bandits in Elmwood park about 1:45 a. m. yesterday.

The two girls in the holdup were unharmed by the highwaymen. The girls were Irene Ingoldsbey, 2636 St. Marys avenue, and Frances Rayne, 3802 Howard street.

Their escorts were J. A. Flynn, 1412 North Thirty-fifth street, and E. L. Bundy, 419 Broadway, Council Bluffs.

"We were just driving along near the southwest corner of Elmwood park," said Flynn, "when another car with three men in it drove up alongside of us from behind.

Ordered to Stop.

"They ordered us to stop and then two of the men jumped out and leaped on our running boards, displaying big revolvers.

"The third man sat at the wheel of their car, the motor of which he kept going.

"The other two jerked us by the backs of our coats behind our machine and searched us.

"They didn't touch our watches. But they took our money and bill folds. Bundy asked them to let him have his bill fold back because of papers in it he needed for his work.

Gives It Back.

"They kept it, but one of the fellows looked through mine and said: 'Want yours back, too, buddy?'

"I don't care. Suit yourself, I told him, and he gave it back.

"Then one of the fellows said, 'Well, what'll we do now?' and the pair whispered to each other.

"How about the girls?' he asked his companion. 'Hell with 'em,' said the other, and telling us to climb back into the car and drive ahead of them straight out the Dodge road, they got in their own machine.

Followed for Mile.

"They followed us for about a mile out the Dodge road and then turned south. We skipped back to the police station and reported them."

The highwaymen got $6 from Bundy and $15 from Flynn.

"Nope, we weren't any of us afraid," said Flynn. "The girls didn't peep and there wasn't anything for us fellows to do so long as they let the girls alone."

Ogallala Believes It Leads for Reformatory

Ogallala, Neb., June 22.—(Special Telegram.)—Reports coming from the state capital say that Ogallala is still leading in the race for the new state reformatory. Out of 22 cities applying, all have been eliminated but Ogallala, Broken Bow, Ashland, Lincoln and Fremont. It is firmly believed here that the board of control will finally decide on Ogallala, as in so doing it will please nearly 40,000 people in the western half of the state, where at present there are only two state institutions. Western Nebraska people feel that the eastern half now has more than its share of state institutions.

Plattsmouth May Start Municipal Light Plant

Plattsmouth, Neb., June 22.—(Special.)—City Attorney C. A. Rawls, in a lengthy opinion to the city council, holds that the city under the law is without authority to regulate the light and gas rates to private consumers. Several months ago the Nebraska Gas and Electric company announced an advance in the price of both light and gas, since which time the city dads have been endeavoring to arrive at some means of forcing them to abide by the terms of the ordinance covering their franchise and laying down the rates to be charged private consumers.

Flies Over Flood And Saves Life Of Dying Woman

Omaha Flyer Pilots Plane Furnished by U. S. Mail Officials on Physician's Plea for Aid.

An aged widow lay dying at her home but two miles south of North Platte.

A physician was by her side, but an operation was necessary to save her life and the nearest surgeon was in North Platte.

He had called the surgeon and asked him to hurry to the bedside. But between the widow's home and North Platte raged the swollen waters of the South Platte river, out of its banks, with bridges swept away.

Cut Off by Flood.

Colorado flood waters had forced the South Platte out of its banks and forcing the swollen stream was out of the question.

The dying woman was Mrs. Anna Jandebauer, 65, and her physician who needed surgical aid was Dr. J. S. Simms.

Dr. Simms had called Dr. C. A. Selby in North Platte and begged him to hurry out.

Dr. Selby telephoned to every town within a radius of 20 miles, seeking to find a place where the river might be crossed. At every turn it was the same disheartening story, bridges out and no way of fording the turbulent waters.

Just when all hope seemed gone Dr. Selby remembered something. Somewhere he had read how Postmaster General Will Hays was "humanizing" the Postoffice department.

He ran to the telephone and asked C. A. Sluder, superintendent of the North Platte air mail field, to take him across the raging river in an airplane.

"Sorry," said Sluder, "but I couldn't without getting authority from higher up."

"But the woman is dying," urged the surgeon.

"In that case," replied Sluder, "we'll send you while we wireless Cheyenne for the authority."

Permission Given.

Dr. Selby raced to the air mail field, where he climbed into the plane with Mail Pilot H. G. Smith of Omaha-Cheyenne division.

Just as they were about to hop off, Souder ran out with the permission for the trip flashed over the wireless from Superintendent Humphrey of the Cheyenne division.

Pilot Smith took Dr. Selby on the trip and back safely.

The operation was performed and Dr. Simms made the return flight with Smith and Selby.

The aged widow will recover, Dr. Selby predicted.

"And all because the Postoffice department has been humanized," he smiled.

A report of the flight was made "through channels" to the office of Postmaster Hays, who, Washington dispatches state, was probably the happiest man in the national capital that night because his department had saved a woman's life.

Jail Delivery in El Paso Thwarted As Trustees Tell

Night Jailer Attacked and Keys Taken From Him by Prisoners Under Sentence to Penitentiary.

El Paso, June 22.—A wholesale jail delivery probably was thwarted here last night by the timely warning given by two trustees serving sentences here for prohibition law violations. As the night jailer was making his rounds he was attacked, disarmed and his keys taken by six prisoners who had cut their way out of their cells. The trustees, hearing the jailer's cries, jumped to the elevator and made their way to the sheriff's office before the prisoners could put the elevator out of commission.

The jail is on the sixth floor of the county court house and in a few minutes the big building swarmed with officers. The fire department was called out and extension ladders sent up to the jail, but here the firemen were halted by the heavily barred windows.

Access to the jail was impossible for the officers, but with the night jailer's keys the prisoners could reach any floor of the court house by way of a heavily barred stairway, the other keys to which were in possession of the absent day jailer.

An hour's search of the building resulted in the finding of the six prisoners crouched in the basement. They surrendered without firing a shot. All of them were under sentence for felony and were awaiting transfers to the penitentiary. More than 300 prisoners were in the jail, about half of them under sentence or awaiting trial for federal offenses. None save the six left the jail.
