

Liberals Again Win Victory at Baptist Meeting

Conservatives Fail to Force Through Test Creed for Use in Churches, Schools and Colleges of Denomination.

Des Moines, Ia., June 24.—(Special Telegram.)—Efforts of the conservative wing of the Northern Baptist convention, in 14th annual session here, to force through a test creed for use in the churches, schools and colleges of the denomination are doomed to failure, it was apparent today.

In the report of the committee on denominational schools, submitted to the convention proper Thursday, the liberals won another and decisive victory. The report is practically a vindication of the schools and colleges supported by Baptist funds from charges that they were not being operated in accordance with Baptist teachings.

Added importance is attached to the report by the fact that the chairman of the committee, Frank W. Goodchild of New York City, which has been investigating the denominational schools for the past year, is himself a prime mover in the ranks of the fundamentalists, who are seeking the adoption of a written creed. The issues involved in the report are the most important to come up before the convention. The report will be considered for adoption on the floor Friday.

Violent Controversy.
After what is described as the most violently controversial session in the history of the convention which developed unheralded from a program apparently devoid of grounds for a fight, the delegates sitting as the Home Mission society, voted to accept an anonymous gift of a trust fund valued at $1,750,000 with certain restrictions. The bequest is said to have come from a man living on the Pacific coast.

Filibustering and tempestuous disregard of parliamentary rules featured the oratorical battle, which lasted practically all afternoon. The fight upon the acceptance of a creed had apparently been banished from the delegates' minds the preceding day. During the reading of the report upon Baptist schools today, the friction between the two factions had been obviously repressed.

Delegates were surprised when an attack was started upon the acceptance of the unknown donor's gift. The attack started immediately following the reading of the report upon the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society by Dr. Charles L. White, executive secretary of New York.

Heckle Chicago Man.
After a series of speeches, the Rev. M. P. Boynton of Chicago charged that "trust funds in the past have been basely betrayed by those who have handled them." This was taken up by delegates in the galleries who demanded to know "who?" "name them" and "who's guilty?" Dr. Boynton turned to the hecklers and answered "I will tell you if you want to know," he shouted. "I refer to the University of Chicago Divinity School."

Dr. Boynton's charges were branded as false by an unknown delegate, who answered: "As a graduate of the University of Chicago, I deny the statement and brand it false."

Insistent sounding of the gavel brought the delegates to order following the naming of the Chicago school by Dr. Boynton.

Repeated demands were made by the delegates to know the names of those who Dr. Boynton charged with betraying the trust funds. Dr. Boynton, however, did not comment further on his charges except to answer his heckler by saying: "I am

Oh, Doctor, I Had Some Snake Poison, Quick, the Likker!

Snake bite has been known to be a most fashionable and popular affliction. Especially in these days of Volsteadism.

But the pain of the bite, just for a shot of whisky, has driven this form of disease into the vale of unpopularity.

Steps forth now Russell Williams of Overton, Neb., who has written a letter to Omaha which bids fair to revolutionize prohibition.

"Can you tell me to whom I could sell the poison taken from rattlesnakes' venom sacks?" queries Russ. Omaha police are reported to be preparing for a flood of ambulance calls from Omahans hurt in the rush to Overton.

INSURANCE MAN RELATES FACTS ABOUT HIS CASE

For First Time in Two Years Well-Known Lincoln Man Can Eat Hearty Meal.

"For the first time in two years I can eat anything I want without suffering indigestion afterwards and it is all because of the first-class condition in which Tanlac has put my stomach," said C. L. Deats, well-known insurance man living at 1719 L street, Lincoln, Neb. "I had stomach trouble of the worst sort for two years and my appetite was so poor I barely ate enough to keep alive, and what little I did eat would make me suffer hours after meals. I suffered terribly from constipation, headaches and dizziness. I was very much alarmed about my condition as, in addition to these troubles, I had severe pains in my side and my nerves were so upset I couldn't get any sound, restful sleep."

"It certainly was a welcome surprise to me when I found that Tanlac was what I had been needing all along. It suited my case exactly. Eat? Why I eat like a farm hand now and sleep like a log all night long. In fact, I am just in the pink of condition, and if Tanlac had cost me a hundred times what it did it would have been cheap at the price."
