Youth Is Given Term in Prison For Bad Checks

Judge Turns Deaf Ear to Plea For Another Chance and Gives Prisoner 18 Months.

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde presented two characters no more contrary than those of J. T. Crowley, 23, sentenced to the penitentiary for 18 months by District Judge Troup yesterday for passing spurious checks.

J. T. Crowley, the writer of spurious checks, the neglecter of his wife and little babe, is the "Mr. Hyde." Yet J. T. Crowley, when he is in his "Dr. Jekyll" character, is a young athlete, a noted basket ball player a former foot ball player at the University of Omaha. Moreover, he is a man who does not drink, smoke, chew or indulge in any other of the bad habits of man.

It's the most unique case I know said Ray Abbott, his attorney, in Judge Troup's court yesterday.

Rube Hands Nervously.

Crowley, a tall, dark, well-dressed oung man, stood nervously before the bar of the court. His wife, a beautiful, fresh-complexioned young woman of education and refinement, a teacher by profession, sat with their baby near by "I am disappointed in you," sai

"When you stood be-Judge Troup. fore me just a month ago and paroled you, you promised to get work and support your wife and little

"I'm disappointed, too," said Crow ley, rubbing his hands nervously. "But when I was in trouble before I hought I could get work. Rev. Titus Lowe promised to help me, but it seemed when I did get a job they'd only keep me a few days. I had to have money to live."

"One More Chance."

"Yes, but you didn't give a cent that you got from these checks to your wife!" exclaimed the judge.

"He admitted to me," said Adult Probation Officer O'Brien, "that he hasn't supported his wife since they were married."
"She promised to take me back if

I'd get work and make good," said as their birthplace, and 3,266, Ne-"Give me one more

"That is just what you said and promised a month ago," said Judge Troup, "The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the state penitentiary for a period of 18 parents born there:

Russia, 1,662; Italy, 1,793; Canada, 195; England, 333; Hungary, 666;

City Dads Accept Resignation of

Detective Who Slew Joyrider Says Too Much Feeling Against Him to Stay on

Force. Members of the city council voted unanimously to accept the resigna-tion of John W. Herdzina, city detective, yesterday.

Motion to accept the resignation was introduced by Superintendent of Police Dunn, to whom the resignation was addressed. Herdzina was acquitted several weeks ago in district court of manslaughter for the shooting of Joseph Howard, a member of a party of joyriders. Shortly after his acquittal he called on Dunn, asking to be reinstated on the force.

A Surprise.

Commissioner Dunn refused to reinstate him, declaring there was so much feeling against him that he didn't want him on the force. He requested Herdzina to resign and at the time said if he did not do so he would file charges which would put he case up to the city council.

Herdzina's resignation came as a urprise, however, for the detective held that having been acquitted of the charges in court he considered it his right to be reinstated on the His resignation reads as follows:

Tenders Resignation.
