Questions Asked.

F. M. Deweese, representing the Farm bureau and rural subscribers, asked Pratt these questions:

Why can the farmers in Hamilton county operate a company system and charge $1 a month while you charge $1.97 a month?" "Why can Dodge county farmers operate a line at $1.25 a month against your $1.97 a month?" Why does the Lincoln telephone and telegraph charge $1.60 a month for their farm phones and you charge $1.97 a month?"

Why did the Lincoln company, which operates in one town in Hamilton county, reduce its price from $1.60 a month in that county to $1 a month?"

i'ratt declared that the farm lines his company did and declared they dian't furnish the service his company did.

The reasons his company charged celn company was because telephone girls cost more in the North Platte Tald the commission.

Prattt stated that the persons-toperson call took 54 per cent more time of the operator than the ordinary long distance call and that at present it cost patrons only 25 per cent more. For the time being the company is asking only 40 per cent more than for regular calls, he said. Pratt sai dthe company was paying 8 per cent on borrowed money and while it was only asking a fair return on valuation of $15,000,000, it had a right to demand a valuation on a $25,000,000 investment, which, he declared would take in going value and present production value.
