

Single Day Catch Prize in Fishing Contest Dropped

Anglers' Protest That It Would Place Premium on Slaughter of Fish Recognized.

Since announcement last Sunday of the official opening of The Bee's champ fisherman contest for Nebraska and Iowa anglers protests have been made by several sportsmen against one of the awards offered. They contend, with reason, that the offer of a prize for the biggest total catch by one fisherman in one day appears to be dangling a reward for the slaughter of fish which the fisherman may not be able to use.

It is the idea of The Bee to conduct the contest in the manner most pleasing to the anglers themselves and there is no intention to run the possible risk of encouraging needless depletion of the supply of fish in Nebraska and Iowa waters. In the interest of preserving a contest in which all anglers may gladly enter the offer of a prize for the biggest total catch is withdrawn.

The total prize will remain at $50. A prize of $25 will be awarded for the biggest fish, $15 for the second largest and $10 as third prize. Closes July 23.

The contest closes July 23. Conditions of the competition follow:

Each claim for a prize award must be accompanied by a photograph showing the catch upon which the claim is based.

It must also be accompanied by a statement of when and where the catch was made and a few words describing the incident.

There are no restrictions regarding size of the photographs. It is necessary that the fish shall have been caught in a Nebraska or Iowa stream or lake by rod and line.

Claims for championship honors may be based on fish caught at any time since June 1, 1921.

All claims for awards, accompanied by photographs, must be brought or mailed to The Bee office by midnight of July 23.

Prizes will be awarded by a committee of sportsmen to be named during the progress of the contest.

Pictures of 'Em.

Photographs of the prize winners and the "big fish that didn't get away" will be published in The Bee following close of the competition.

For verification purposes in awarding prizes, each entrant in the contest should be prepared to furnish affidavits from himself and one other person regarding the catch on which the claim for champ honors is based.

These affidavits, however, need not accompany the original filing of the claim for awards.

You will find the smooth and easy progress of this competition by sending in your claims early. Address Champ Fisherman Contest, The Bee.

Suit Against Estate Settled Out of Court

Aurora, Neb., June 28.—(Special.)—The case of Sylvester R. Robey against the late John Nicholson was settled just before his trial started in the district court. Elmer Nicholson, brother of the administrator, purchased the land from Robey and the latter assigned his contract, receiving $7,600 in cash.

This suit involved land near Aurora, which was purchased by Robey from Carl Nicholson about a month before Nicholson killed his wife, three children and himself at the home of his father-in-law, M. E. Plank, in Bradshaw. The division of the Carl Nicholson estate will be settled in county court at York on July 11.

State Reformatory Will Have No Warden

Lincoln, June 28.—(Special.)—There will be no warden at the new state reformatory.

The head of the institution will be known as the superintendent.

Such was a statement today by L. C. Oberlies, chairman of the state board of control.

"And the superintendent will be chosen P. D. Q.," Oberlies said. "Life has been burdensome since we announced the location of the reformatory because of the large number of job seekers."

The salary of the superintendent probably will be $2,000 or $2,500 a year, Oberlies stated.

Society of Composers Plan To Collect Tax on Music

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers served notices yesterday through their attorney, Eugene N. Blazer of Omaha, that a tax of $100 a year must be paid to the society by any hotel, movie house, club or cabaret in which their musical pieces are played.

Prosecution of those who refuse to pay the tax will be made through copyright laws, Blazer stated.

Rug Peddler Arrested, Held For Investigation

City detectives arrested yesterday a man who gave his name as A. D. Green. Flomar hotel, after he had obtained information that he had sold a number of valuable rugs.

He is held for investigation in connection with the robbery of the Cortes-Aldous-Hunt store, Twenty-fourth and Farnam streets, two weeks ago, when rugs worth $12,000 were stolen.

Deaths and Funerals

Mrs. P. E. Jackson, 76, mother of Mrs. Paul A. Hoagland, died yesterday of heart disease at the Radium hospital. Funeral arrangements are pending from Mrs. Hoagland, who is now at Altadena, Cal., with her family for the summer.

Mrs. L. E. Hummel, 43, died Monday at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Hummel, 3215 S. 24th street. She is survived by her husband, parents and brothers and sisters in Montana. Funeral services will be held at the Rumpson Wednesday afternoon at 4. Burial will be in Graceland Park cemetery.

Two Rescued From River After Row Boat Capsized

Carl Nordin, left, and Hugo Nordin, right, who were rescued from the Missouri river yesterday morning. Carl and Hugo Nordin narrowly escaped drowning in the Missouri river yesterday morning, when their rowboat overturned near Gibson. The current carried the two men, clinging to the boat, one-half mile to Childs Point, where they were rescued by three fishermen, Frank Vonaske, Frank Frederick and James Enright.

'Sweet Sixteen' And 'Grass Widow' Judge Advises Girl Divorcee Not to Marry Again Until She's 25.

"I won't marry again if I live to be 90!" That's the oath Nora Cobb, 16-year-old "grass widow" took yesterday when District Judge Leslie granted her a divorce from Le Roy Cobb, 20.

They were married last September. The divorce appeared in court with her hair in a braid and tied with a big hair ribbon.

"I was in love with love," she told the judge. "But LeRoy wouldn't work to support me."

The judge advised her not to marry again till she was 25 anyway.

"Some one ought to spank you and put you to bed without supper if you ever try it again before you're 25," he told her.

Her maiden name, Brittain, was restored to her.

Business Woman Makes Suggestions to Lions

More personal contact between employer and employe that the employe might be able to advance in the work in which he is engaged was urged by Miss Lennie Montgomery, of the Business and Professional Women's association in an address before the members of the Lions club at the Rome hotel at noon Tuesday.

Miss Montgomery said that by giving the employe the benefit of the employer's experience and by taking an interest in them employers could make work more interesting and help their employes to advance.

Charles Gardner, secretary of the Ak-Sar-Ben, made a brief talk on what the Ak-Sar-Ben is doing this year.

The Lions will not meet for two weeks. Each member present at Tuesday's meeting pledged himself to bring another member, July 12.

Italian Colony Leader Dies From Auto Accident Injuries

Joseph Salerno, 55, 723 Pierce street, leader in the local Italian colony, died yesterday at St. Joseph hospital from injuries received June 19, when his auto, stalled on a street car track, was struck by a tram car.

His widow, mother and two children are still under physicians' care because of their injuries.

A son, Sebastian, held by the police for investigation into the killing of Margaret Foley Hyland, was released when police learned of the father's death.

Prisoner Believed Prowler Who Terrorized District

For prowling about the neighborhood of Thirty-ninth street and Dewey avenue at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, Edward Goodell, 1915 Chicago street, was arrested by Special Officer Adams.

Detectives believe he is the man who has terrorized fashionable districts for the past two months. Mrs. F. R. Getty, 2812 South Thirty-second avenue, attacked twice in her home, will be asked to identify Goodell.

Flood Waters Rise in North Omaha Bottoms

River Backing Into Carter Lake Drain in East Omaha Flooding Acreage on West Side.

Flood waters of the Missouri river in the North Omaha bottom lands rose two inches Monday night, according to Julius Molnar, whose land is inundated just north of Florence lake.

The river is also backing into the Carter lake drain in East Omaha, flooding acreage and sloughs on the west bank of the river.

A little tar papered shack just south of the Illinois Central drawbridge, occupied by "Bill" and Dave Cook, is surrounded by the rising waters.

Boats and barges belonging to Woods Bros., contractors, at the bend of the river north of East Omaha, have been moved from their anchorage by the flood waters.

Farmers in the North Omaha bottoms are working to throw up temporary dikes about their lands.

None has moved his household belongings as yet to escape the flood waters.

Residents of the neighborhood of Ninth and Himebaugh streets called on Mayor Dahlman yesterday and asked for immediate assistance there to check the flood waters which are rising rapidly into their homes.

The mayor turned over the call to the office of Commissioner Hopkins, who sent grading equipment to the vicinity to work on a dike.

Electricians Hear Address by Zimman

Harry P. Zimman, city commissioner, stopped being a city commissioner for a short time Tuesday noon and assumed the role of lecturer and philosopher when he addressed about 75 members of the Omaha Electrical Industrial association at the Chamber of Commerce.

During his address Mr. Zimman touched on civic questions, finance, industry and commerce and never once uttered a word about politics.

The electricians liked his talk so well that he has been invited to address them again in the near future.

WHAT HOLDS MEN BACK

IN LIFE, IN MANY CASES, AND MAKES THEM WEAK, NERVOUS AND IRRITABLE WHEN THEY OUGHT TO BE IN THEIR VERY PRIME.

As men grow older the iron in their blood is apt to thin out and as a consequence their nerves and will power become weakened and they may rapidly lose both bodily and mental vigor. A New York physician says that more than one-half the population of America perishes before middle age and that one of the chief contributory causes of this terrible waste of human life is the devastating weakness brought on by lack of sufficient iron in the blood.

There are 30,000,000,000,000 red blood corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron. When your blood is starving for iron, no mere tonics or stimulants can put you right; starving blood must have iron the same as a starving person must have food—iron is red blood food. But when you take iron not in metallic or mineral form which people usually take, metallic iron is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron, while organic Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach and apples. It quickly helps make rich red blood and revitalizes your worn-out exhausted nerves. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you are not in an entirely satisfactory condition. For sale by all druggists.

The-BEE BOOK SHELF

Lovers of animal life will find in "The Yellow Horde," a novel by Hal G. Everts, a decidedly interesting and thrilling story.

At Sand Coulee Basin lives one Collins, the "Wolfer," who long has recognized the coyote bark and cry, and condemning the little devil, chuckles, "men can't wipe them out." Millions will be left to howl when the last man dies." Then in the stillness of night the "wolfer" catches a new cry—that of a breed-wolf, one across between coyote and wolf, one possessing the cunning of the coyote and the strength of the wolf.

Changes in the wild were brought with the coming of Breed, the coyotes learning to run with him and hunt in a pack, it being no uncommon sight when hunting the pack to find deer and elk on the ground that had been brought low by a severed hamstring.

Collins swears to get Breed, but so cunning was the breed-wolf that bullet and trap and poison failed. The wolf hunter owning a half wild pet, "Shady," a cross between a coyote and dog, finds his pet has been lured to the hills by the incessant bark and call of Breed. The life of these two cross-breeds over the ranges and mountains, through several of the northwestern states and into the Canadian north, their encounters with the wolf hounds and the gray wolf, "Flatear," are told in a manner that can only be told by one who loves the great outdoors and knows well the habits and traits of these fleet-footed pests that still range over the mountains of the northwest.

With "Legends" Amy Lowell has added another book of poetry to her already growing list of successes. This book will undoubtedly be received with as much and probably more acclaim than any of her previous volumes. In this book the author has chosen legends and myths for her subjects and has clothed them with draperies of beautiful imagery. Although several of them are well known and have been selected by other authors as themes for their poems, Miss Lowell has succeeded in clothing them with such delicacy and beauty as to make them appear new.

The first poem, "Mommorandum Composed by a Yucca to a Passion Vine," has its setting in Peru. It is a legend filled with quaint humor, of the adventures of a fox looking for the moon.

"Funeral Song for the Indian Chief Blackbird" pictures the ceremonies accompanying the burial of that chief. This poem is not up to the standard of that attained in another poem, "Many Swans," which also deals with the North American Indian.

The poem which perhaps discloses the real genius of Miss Lowell is "A Legend of Porcelain." In this poem a girl of China whose father is noted for the beauty of the chinaware he manufactures is so deeply in love she forgets her duties to her gods. Misfortunes come, and to appease the anger of the gods whom she has offended, she redeems herself by laboring before the hot porcelain furnaces. In this poem the descriptions are really beautiful. Houghton-Mifflin company, New York, publish the book.

Unidentified Man Hangs Self in Lincoln Building

Lincoln, June 28.—(Special.)—An unidentified man, 45, committed suicide sometime Tuesday night by hanging himself to rafters in an empty building here. His body was found suspended from the rafters by workmen today. A gold ring, bearing the initials, "T. H. K.," was found on his finger. He was well dressed. Everything that could be used to identify him had been destroyed.

Council to Re-Advertise $950,000 General City Bonds

City council voted yesterday to re-advertise the $950,000 general city bonds on the motion of Commissioner Butler.

The new bids will be opened July 12. Bids received and opened last week all were rejected on grounds they were illegal.

"We hope to get better bids this time," Butler said. "If we don't there will be a lot of public improvement projects tied up, that's all I've got to say."
