

Officials Lay Foundation for Budget System

Six Hundred Persons Who Guide Destinies of Government Hear Explanation By Director Dawes.

Washington, June 30.—President Harding, the cabinet and 600-odd officials who guide government expenditures, met yesterday with Director Dawes of the new budget system, to lay what was hailed as the foundation for a new era of economy in federal administration.

The new director, Mr. Dawes, promptly jumped off the platform "to get mentally closer," he said, to his audience and in the 45-minute talk which followed, alternately cajoled, threatened and reassured his auditors, addressed the president and personally.

"These men of whom I am one, realize the perplexity of your position, realize that the business of the country is prostrate, that its working men are out of employment, that we are faced with the inexorable necessity of reducing expenditures and we propose, just as we did four years ago to win the war, to try to do it. And that's all we can do."

Auditorium Jammed. The little auditorium set aside for the gathering was crammed to its doors, sweltering in heat when the secret service men forced their way through the stage.

"You have a right to the information," he said, turning to President Harding, "just as the president of a business corporation has the right and needs to use it, for yours is the responsibility."

"I have the powers of the president to get the facts," he exclaimed, swinging back to his audience, "and they will be exercised."

"Burn Night Lights." The first "picture" he had to make, with the assistance of the congressional reorganization commission, would be of present appropriations, he explained, and he wanted budget representatives on the job in each department.

"Let me submerge now that we've got on this job," he said to the newspaper men, "for you can't imagine any man running a street railroad or a manufacturing with 30 or 40 of you gentlemen running in to ask questions every day. Wait till we get out a budget and then remember to give the credit to the bureau chiefs here. If we ever get down where we want to get, it will be these men who do it."

"We propose just the organization which is the backbone of every business," he said. "Under the old system, it's always been the practice of a live bureau to hold up congress for everything it had a chance to spend. I know because I did it myself when I was running a bureau before."

Now they had to go the other way and just for my reputation, I have got to suit the $220,000 appropriated for the budget bureau just 25 per cent, if it takes my salary this year."

Court Reverses Order Of Trade Commission

Cincinnati, June 30.—That the practice of oil companies in supplying tanks and measuring pumps to retailers is at present not only conducive to competition but extremely advantageous to the public, is stated by the United States circuit court of appeals in an opinion handed down by Judge Maurice H. Donahue, reversing the orders of the federal trade commission at Washington, directing the oil companies to "ease and desist" such a practice.

The opinion was on the petitions to review the trade commission's order filed several months ago in appellate court by the Standard Oil company of Ohio and several other oil companies.

In their petitions, the oil companies contended that as they do purely an interstate business so far as gasoline distribution is concerned, the federal trade commission has no jurisdiction to make any such order.

'Enemy' Located In Record Time By Army Blimps

Airmen Score Hits in Bombing Tests, With Battleship Iowa as Target. On Board the U. S. S. Nevada, Sea, June 30.—The radio-controlled battleship Iowa, representing an enemy fleet attacking the Atlantic coast, was located in a few minutes less than two hours by army dirigibles today when about 50 miles off Cape Henry.

More than a score of bombing planes, manned by naval and marine corps, rushed to the scene in response to radio messages from the blimp that the "enemy" had been located, and hurled 80 dummy bombs of various sizes at the Iowa, registering two hits in the forecastle.

The case with which the air forces located the Iowa, knowing only that the vessel was somewhere between Cape Hatteras and Cape Henlopen, a distance of about 215 miles, was a source of surprise to most of the naval officers who witnessed the bombing, and of gratification to the army men.

At 8 a. m., the "zero hour," the Iowa was about midway between Cape Hatteras and Henlopen and 60 miles off shore, steaming directly toward the coast. Accompanying the Iowa were the Ohio, control ship, the battleship Pennsylvania and Nevada, the transport Henderson and a number of destroyers and mine sweepers.

It was 9:57 when the observers on the Nevada sighted the first army blimp coming up from the Virginia capes, and 13 minutes later the army dirigible D-4 came into view. The blimp sent radio messages to the air force commander on the U. S. S. Shawmut, off Cape Charles, to Langley field and Cape May, Delaware, where the airplane bombing groups were stationed. A few minutes after the dirigibles located the Iowa, the Delaware capes, sighted down the Delaware coast, sighted the target and wireless the vessel's position.

The first bombing planes, a division of F-5-Ls, arrived on the scene at 11:25 and dropped two concrete bombs at the Iowa. One landed within 200 feet of the vessel's bows and the other about an equal distance to one side. The planes were shortly joined by other divisions, until more than 20 planes had attacked.

Government Contracts for Truck Trains Are Cancelled. Mexico City, June 30.—Government firms engaged in transporting merchandise from border points to Mexico City by private trains have been cancelled by Ramon P. Denegri, director of the national railways.

A desire to consolidate operation and systematize the railroads, which have been congested for months, was given as the reason for the action.

The new director has promised the Oregon administration a thorough and speedy reorganization of the Mexican lines. Congestion which recently threatened to paralyze industry already has been greatly relieved.

Silk Industry in U. S. Has Grown Three Fold in 5 Years. Washington, June 30.—The silk goods industry in the United States has grown nearly threefold in the last five years, the total value of silk products in 1919 being $688,946,000, as compared with $240,000,000 in 1914, according to a statement issued today by the census bureau.

Establishments in the knit goods industry reported products made from silk valued at $207,370,000, a business five times greater than that done five years ago. Pennsylvania with 373 silk establishments led the country in production, its trade showing 33.6 per cent of the total value of silk turned out.

Jefferis Fights Proposed Cut in Size of House

Inconsistencies of Contemplated Reapportionment Are Outlined by Omaha Congressman.

By E. C. SNYDER.

Washington Correspondent, Omaha (Special Telegram).—Opposing the contemplated reapportionment of the house of representatives by raising the ratio of citizens to each member of congress and thereby reducing the membership of the house to a figure considerably less than at present, Congressman Jefferis today told the committee on the census that proposed reapportionment was both economically unsound and politically unjust.

The Omaha representative urged that the house retain the present apportionment until conditions were more stable. Among other things "Big Jeff" said:

"Nebraska and the central west would lose six representatives if reapportionment were passed at this time. This would be a penalty on patriotism. The census of 1920 was taken during the time that thousands of our middle-western boys were in various army camps and in the trenches abroad. We of Nebraska had no great centralization camp, and the sons who left our borders were unjustly listed as citizens of the state in which they were in camp. Under such conditions can you fairly reduce Nebraska's representation from six congressmen to five. There is but one answer."

"If our committee takes the opposite view and favors reapportionment it is my candid opinion that the house should be enlarged. Our forefathers in their wisdom allowed one representative in congress to every 30,000 inhabitants, but they never had in mind that the national governments should assume so many of the powers and duties of the states as we are doing today. I am opposed to further centralization of government in Washington. I believe we have gone too far in that direction already. But if the present tendency toward centralization continues, and there is evidence that it will, we should have more representatives, thus keeping the people in closer touch with affairs in Washington. On the other hand, if we permit the states to reassume their normal and proper functions and cease encroaching on their constitutional prerogatives, I believe the present membership of the house of representatives is sufficient."

Reorganization of 'Dry' Forces Effective July 1

Washington, June 30.—Reorganization of the federal enforcement forces along lines previously announced, will become effective July 1, Commissioner Hayes said today. On that date the new state directors will succeed the present district directors and the flying column of agents for interstate work directly under the commissioner will take the field.

The reorganization plans, Mr. Hayes said, had been given remarkable endorsements "from all parts of the country." "The country is expecting a vigorous, sane and efficient law enforcement policy," he said. Much valuable experience has been gained in the first year of the operation of the prohibition organization.

Huge Octopus Killed After Attacking Boy

Eureka, Cal., June 30.—Word received here today that a 16-foot octopus was killed at Samoa, Humboldt county, yesterday after it had seized in its tentacles Earl Peterson, 8, son of a Eureka captain.

According to the reports, the boy was standing in shallow water at the beach while two older sisters were paddling about in a boat. When the octopus attacked the boy his screams alarmed the girls and they attacked the sea monster with their cats.

The octopus lashed out with the other tentacles and wrenched an oar from the hands of the younger sister. The other girl, using her oar, bayonet fashion, partly stunned the animal, which loosened its hold on the boy and crawled to nearby rocks, where it was beaten to death.

Turks and Soviets Plan Uprising in Constantinople

Plot Is Reported to Contemplate Revolt to Be Accomplished by Destruction of Public Works.

Constantinople, June 30.—(By The Associated Press.)—Turks and bolsheviks are reported to contemplate a vast uprising in this city, which would be accompanied by the destruction of public buildings.

This morning allied troops marched through the city and raided hotels in search of bolsheviks. British soldiers, with fixed bayonets, entered a building occupied by the bolshevik organization and seized large quantities of arms. Several alleged leaders in the anticipated uprising were arrested.

British troops also raided the offices of the bolshevik trade delegation and arrested an assistant of Bronislau Koudish, soviet commercial delegate here, and other members of the bolshevik mission. It was announced in British official circles that the raid was carried out because the presence of bolsheviks in Constantinople menaced the security of allied troops here. It was asserted that the plot for an uprising had been frustrated through the vigilance of the police.

Greek forces have withdrawn from Ismid, 65 miles southeast of this city, and the Turkish nationalists are believed to have a clear road to Constantinople. Reports are silent, however, relative to any advance in this direction.

ADVERTISEMENT. WHAT A WOMAN SHOULD DO WHEN SHE IS WEAK AND NERVOUS. THOUSANDS OF WOMEN HAVE SURPRISINGLY INCREASED THEIR STRENGTH, ENERGY AND ENDURANCE IN TWO WEEKS TIME BY THIS SIMPLE EXPERIMENT.

On account of the terrible weakness, nervousness and alarming symptoms, which are often produced by iron starvation of the blood, the sufferer frequently never suspects the real cause of her trouble but thinks she has some other ailment. As a result of iron starvation you may suffer from headaches, dizziness, shortness of breath or heart palpitation, pains across the back, loss of memory, weak will power, melancholy or the "blues," disturbed digestion, loss of appetite, sleepless nights, night sweats and so on. In such cases do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in state of nervous prostration, but eat more spinach and green vegetables and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron with them for a while and see what a difference it makes. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron—having estimates of iron in your system is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Beware of substitutes. Look for the name "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.
