The marriage of Miss Mercedes Jensen, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Coad Jensen, and Edward Robinson of San Antonio, Tex., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson of Austin, Tex., took place at St. Cecilia's cathedral Tuesday. It was a quiet family affair. Following an eastern trip of two months Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will be at home in San Antonio.

By the Rocking Chair Brigade Are Tales Relayed

By GABBY DETAYLS.

Gossip's wheels whirl merrily these lazy summer days and the girls are telling many things in as many different ways. Now there's a tale about Miss C. and one about dear Bess; a third we hear in regard to Sue, there are dozens we confess. The best ones, though, are never told except in whispers hushed and low; but somehow they are noised about in a manner far from slow. The rocking chair brigade yet rocks, each woman chats and chats; but yet they would offend be it Gabby called them "cats."

LAST summer, Blue Eyes was madly in love, yes madly (she told us so herself). She was in love with Sir Neighbor Boy and he was in love with her. Ah, it was a wonderful summer to Blue Eyes.

This season, though, all is changed. She of the starry eyes spent last winter in the east attending school and without a thought she immediately transferred her affections to the brother of one of her classmates. But when it came time to return home she wondered just how she and Sir Neighbor Boy would agree on the subject.

It didn't worry her long, however, for upon her arrival she discovered that he had transferred his affections to a university miss who lives out in the state. "Fine," each one declares of the other. "It settles things so easily." And now that their affairs of the heart are running smoothly Blue Eyes and Sir Neighbor Boy are "flushing" each other continuously. "You see we each take turns talking about our sweethearts and neither one gets bored. Oh, its lots of fun," trills Blue Eyes.

"I LOOK so lopsided," wailed the Bobbed-Haired Miss as she gazed at her countenance in the mirror. All the trouble was caused by the fact that she had decided to save money by trimming her unruly locks with the result that the right side was only an inch shorter than the left. "Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do? 'He' will soon be here and I look so-so aw-aw-ful."

But the little B. H. M. is quite a resourceful creature and when the handsome young man arrived he found her seated in the comfy porch swing with head bent over a magazine. "Sit right here beside me," quoth she. Fifteen minutes later the B. H. M. decided she had been quite successful in her ruse. The H. Y. M. evidently had not seen (she had been careful that he should not). Then from the sky fell the terrible thunderbolt—"I do believe you look sort of queer tonight. What's wrong with your hair?"

The girl gulped, choked and then lied bravely. "Oh, you see, Jim went away today and he asked for a lock of my hair and—and I gave him one."

Now the H. Y. M. might have been considerate but he wasn't. He immediately told every one of her admirers with the result that she was beseeched with requests for "just one little lock."

"If this keeps up I'll soon be bald," sighed Miss Bobbed-Haired Miss, as she presented herself at the beauty shop.

"Why—er—but surely you don't want a switch made up when you have bobbed hair, do you?" the proprietor asked. "No," she replied. "I don't want a switch made up. I just want you to sell me a couple of strands of artificial hair to match mine. I want it for—er—for a purpose."

WATCH out girls! He has a larriat! It has just recently been acquired and he is now busy mastering the tricks of its use. "He" is our confirmed bachelor, a fine matchmaker for others, but as his friends put it—"no good for himself."

Upon his return a short time ago from a trip through the wild and woolly west the bachelor brought home many trophies, among them quantities of the little summer pet called sunburn. However, in regard to the girls, we have it from himself that he intends to "rope one in now." It is a fine larriat and—if he ever learns how to use it—beware girls, beware!

Are We Up-to-the-Minute? Yes Absolutely

Dame Fashion always leads the world a very merry race. But Omaha is capable of equaling the pace. Whatever the latest fad may be our girls will find it out. And then before the night is o'er Dame Fashion's put to rout. Designers have experimented with almost every accessory to dress and now their hobby is the bag. Dark blue or black crocheted silk vanity bags beaded in steel are equally as popular as the crocheted bags of yarn. Miss Eloise West, who is spending the summer on the eastern coast, has one of the dark blue variety while Katherine L. Ineburg, Margretha Grimmel, Miriam McMartin and Angeline Rush have the yarn bags, in green, orange, rose and black and white. The lacy yarn scarfs which are fast becoming popular on the western coast have also made their appearance in Omaha. Miss Phyllis Waterman has been wearing one of yellow and white with sport costumes.

Travelers' Plans

Mrs. Frank Carpenter and daughter, Miss Eleanor, plan to spend July 4 in New York and in the evening will go abroad the Aquitania, on which they will sail July 5 for Liverpool, England. They will remain abroad a year, traveling in various parts of the European continent. A month in Paris, a month in Holland and several months in Switzerland are included in their itinerary. Miss Carpenter spent 15 months attending a private school in Lucerne, Switzerland, entering the institution shortly before the opening of the European conflict in 1914. She was graduated this June from Wellesley college.

Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Foote announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Foote, to Edward Kennedy McCament of Pasadena, Cal.

Mrs. Margaret E. Waterman announces the engagement of her youngest daughter, Miss Phyllis Waterman, to William Sutherland Latta, son of the late B. R. Latta of Tekamah. An interesting circumstance in connection with the announcement is that it is being made on Miss Waterman's birthday.

No definite plans have been made for the wedding, but it will probably be an event of next spring. Miss Waterman is a popular member of the younger set here and considered one of the most beautiful of the debutante girls. She is a petite brunette type and most attractive in manner. She formerly attended Central High school. Her two sisters are Mrs. May Davison and Mrs. Blanche Paterson. Miss Waterman has taken a prominent part in benefit entertainments for local charities.

Mr. Latta has attended Lawrenceville and Roxbury schools. Miss Edith Latta of Tekamah is his only sister. Mr. Latta is a well-known club man in this city, being a member of the Omaha club, the Athletic club, and the Omaha Country club.

One of the first large affairs to be given in honor of Miss Waterman is a luncheon, next Friday, at the Howard Baldrige home when Mrs. Baldrige will be hostess.

Major and Mrs. C. W. Carlisle, Whiting of Columbus, Ga., arrived Saturday for a visit with Mrs. Whiting's parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Charles Addison Sweet, en route to Estes Park, Col., where they will spend the summer. Mrs. Whiting was formerly Miss Elizabeth Sweet

Washington, July 2. Washington is having its quietest week-end since last fall. Every one who could possibly get out of town for the patriotic celebration on Monday, combined with a restful Sabbath, has gone. The President and Mrs. Harding have gone week-end in New Jersey as the guests of Senator and Mrs. Frelinghuysen. Their party includes Senator Hale of Maine and his mother, the widow of the late Senator Eugene Hale; the Speaker of the House of Representatives and Mrs. Gillett and General and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer, formerly of Marion, O. They made the trip yesterday to "The Hill," which is between Raritan and Somerville, N. J., by automobile rather than by water on the senator's beautiful and well equipped yacht, Victoria, which lies in the harbor here at Washington. There are many merry parties on board while it lies here, tea parties and evening suppers where the breezes are cool and plentiful. The presidential party will return here on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Edwards went to Norfolk, Va., yesterday to be the week-end and Fourth of July guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Williams who are having a house party. Mrs. Williams will come to Washington the middle of this month to be the guest of Miss Kearney at Wardman Park Inn, for a week or so. Mrs. Dean Currier of Chicago, will be Mrs. Williams' guest early this month. Mrs. Currier was formerly Miss Anna Thomas and Mrs. Williams was one of her attendants at her wedding. She is visiting her parents at Elliott City, Mo. Mrs. Williams' eldest daughter, little Miss Sally Ann Williams is with her grandmother and great grandmother, Mrs. Russell Harrison and Mrs. Alvin Saunders in Omaha, for the summer. Mrs. Stanley, wife of Lt. Commander E. D. Stanley, formerly of Omaha and Lincoln left this week with their children for Cape May for the remainder of the summer. The President and Mrs. Harding have had as their guest at the White House the former's father, Dr. George Tryon Harding of Marion. The president and his father were the only ones of the White House family to attend church on last Sunday. They occupied the

Hikers Prepare for Mountain Outing

During the hot nights in July many an Omahan will envy the members of the Omaha Walking club who will be sleeping in the open enjoying the cool mountain breezes of Colorado.

The party will leave Omaha by train for Denver July 16. From there they will go by automobile over Berthoud path to Grand Lake, where the 100-mile hike through the Rocky Mountain National park begins.

The hikers expect to make ten or twelve miles daily through the mountains. Seven nights will be spent in the open in sleeping bags and six under shelter.

Shep Husted, well known guide, has been engaged for the party, which includes the Misses Allie Houston, president of the club, Corinne Armstrong, Maude Watson, C. Norris, Bess Turnek, Irene Higby and Messrs. Edwin Jewell, S. O. Barneck, Homer F. Pennock and John Bath. They will return to Omaha August 1.

Miss McMahon Is a Mother To Many

"And now abideth faith, hope and charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."

Charity in the true sense lies not in the giving of the rich to the poor. Charity is a kind of gift which every one, though he be of small means or great, has the power to give others. It is kindness, consolation, a tactful word, a cheerful smile, sympathy and understanding.

Miss Minnie McMahon holds one of the most unique positions of its kind in this city. She is in charge of recreation room and rest room for girl employees in a local concern. Here she daily gives the most devoted care to those who need her attention. She has a small first aid outfit in case accidents occur or the girls become ill. A row of narrow cots in one room are a vivid reminder of a hospital ward and Miss McMahon in her trim white uniform is a most competent nurse.

To spiritual needs as well as physical, this gracious gray-haired woman ministers and the girls find in her broad understanding and a fund of advice which she can give in such a gentle, kindly way. To those who are homeless or far from their relatives she becomes a second mother who shares their joys and sorrows.

That Miss McMahon is splendidly adapted to her work is evidenced by the fact that she was matron for 11 years at the Girls' Industrial Home at Geneva, where she was most successful.

A bride of the past week is Mrs. Herbert H. Davis, who was formerly Miss Olga Metz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Metz. Her marriage to Dr. Davis, son of Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Davis, was one of the largest weddings of the month. It took place Wednesday evening at All Saints Episcopal church and was followed by a reception at the Metz home. Dr. and Mrs. Davis are now on an extended honeymoon trip through the west and Canada. They will return to Omaha the middle of August.

Independence Day Plans Lure Society From Capital

Mrs. Stanley, wife of Lt. Commander E. D. Stanley, formerly of Omaha and Lincoln left this week with their children for Cape May for the remainder of the summer.

The President and Mrs. Harding have had as their guest at the White House the former's father, Dr. George Tryon Harding of Marion. The president and his father were the only ones of the White House family to attend church on last Sunday. They occupied the residential pew in the Calvary Baptist church. General Pershing gave up "Highwood," the suburban estate of Mrs. H. C. Corbin, which has been his home and headquarters since he returned from France, and has taken a large and handsome apartment at 2029 Connecticut avenue for the summer. He will remain there after he becomes chief-of-staff and will not now occupy the spacious home of the chief provided at Fort Myer, and which has been the home of Gen. Peyton C. March and his family for many years. General March's family of course is a much larger one than General Pershing's, as Warren Pershing is the sole surviving member of his family.

Mrs. Wm. Orsdale, wife of Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals Josiah Wm. Orsdale, are established in their summer home at Beatrice, Neb., where she is entertaining Mrs. William Hamilton Bayly, for many years the president of the Y. W. C. A. of the District of Columbia, and her sister, Mrs. Barnes, of California and Canton, O. Mrs. Bayly and her sister expect to go to Europe later in the summer to visit the grave of the former's son, Lt. Lewis Hamilton Bayly, who lost his life with the United States army in France.

Mrs. J. Raymond McCarl of McCook, Neb., has joined Mr. McCarl, who has just been made controller general of the United States, a newly created post under the new budget system, although an independent department. Mr. McCarl has been secretary of the republican congressional committee for three years and previously was secretary to Senator Norris of McCook, Neb. Mrs. McCarl has been in Atlantic City for some time, and came to Washington from there on Tuesday. They have taken an apartment at Somerset House for the remainder of the summer. Mrs. McCarl formerly was Miss Ethel Barnett, daughter of Albert Barnett of McCook, and was married to Mr. McCarl about 12 years ago. They have no children, but Mrs. McCarl will be a delightful addition to official society. Mr. McCarl has been for many years a resident of McCook, but is a native of Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mulvane of Kansas are remaining in Washington and are being entertained and are entertaining almost constantly. Mrs. Mulvane, who was Miss Helen McKenna of Omaha, had a luncheon a few days ago with Mrs. Capper, wife of the senator from Kansas, as the guest of honor. Mr. Mulvane is a member of the republican national committee.

Miss May Kearney has returned from a week's visit to Mrs. Harry A. Williams, jr., formerly M. S. Marthens Harrison, in her home on the Jamestown boulevard, Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Kyhl Corresponds With Scharwenka

Mrs. Louis C. Kyhl and Children.

One of the city's most interesting young matrons is Mrs. Louis C. Kyhl, who before her marriage was Miss Helen Sadleir. Mrs. Kyhl is one of Omaha's most accomplished pianists, having completed her musical education in Berlin, where she studied two years under Xavier Scharwenka, famous conductor, composer and concert artist. Previous to the war Mrs. Kyhl corresponded with her former teacher and only last fall was the correspondent resumed. In his letters Scharwenka has written of the concerts which he gave in the two neutral countries, Denmark and Sweden, during the period of the recent world conflict. He also wrote of the wedding of his youngest daughter, Isolde, with whom Mrs. Kyhl was intimate while abroad. The great Liszt was the godfather of Isolde, who was named for one of the characters in the Wagner opera, Tristan and Isolde. Of the children of Scharwenka, this daughter is the only one who inherited her father's talents. One daughter is a painter of note and a son is a lawyer. Last January Scharwenka was 71 years old and stated in his letters to Mrs. Kyhl that he still was in his prime in spite of his years. He was at that time planning a trip to Italy for the month of April. Mrs. Kyhl has also been a friend for many years of the pianist, Homer Samuels, who recently married Galli Curci. They studied in Berlin at the same time and Mr. Samuels' mother welcomed all of the American students there to her home. At the present time Mrs. Samuels, who resides in Minneapolis, corresponds regularly with the Omaha matron. Though devoting much time to her two children, Robert Louis and Ruth Marie, Mrs. Kyhl does not permit her repertoire to suffer and she is ever a delight to her wide circle of friends among the musicians of Omaha.
