

Millionaires Are Stingy Husbands, Says Edith Gould

Actress Says Hers Gave Her Costly Things, But Always Let Her Know He Owned Them.

By AMBROSE LAMBERT. London, July 3.—"Millionaires are stingy husbands; at least mine was." This remark was made by Edith Kelly Gould, some time consort of Frank Gould, millionaire of the well-known Gould family of the United States. Miss Kelly was an actress, or rather in the chorus of the Gaiety, 14 years ago, when her romance with the millionaire New Yorker began. She is again an actress and again at the Gaiety, and this time with her name Edith Kelly Gould in big black letters that run right across the playbills.

In view of the matrimonial difficulties that seem to be epidemic among American millionaires like the Stillmans and Joyces, I thought perhaps she would have some pertinent observations to make on millionaires as husbands, expert advice to give Mrs. Stillman and Peggy Hopkins in the solution of their problems.

Back Earning Living. "Advise Mrs. Stillman," she repeated, with a startled tone, that dropped to the pathetic as she continued, "I wish she'd advise me. She seems to know how to make her husband provide an income for her. I haven't been able to make mine give me a penny. Now I am back on the stage earning a living. Isn't the whirligig of time wonderful?"

The interview was taking place in one of the star's dressing rooms at the Gaiety theater. Mrs. Gould was dressed in a costly costume, with huge befeathered hat and fluffy skirt and polychromatic waist that the "Harriets" so love, waiting to do her dance in the De Courville revue, "Pins and Needles."

Stingy Husbands. "Fourteen years ago," she said, "I left this stage to marry Frank Gould. The next year I bought the theater and I sat in the stage box covered with jewels and dressed in the latest Paris fashions as wife of the millionaire owner. Now I am back working, and working hard. "Being the wife of a millionaire isn't the elysium girls think it is. Millionaires are stingy, as husbands. Mine was. Mine used to dress me up in the latest and most expensive fashion and cover me with jewels to gratify his eyes, but he never neglected to tell me that the dresses and jewels were his—absolutely. He presented me with a beautiful flower garden and then forbade me to pick a single blossom. He gave me expensive automobiles, which I could not use without his permission, and then he would figure the distance I was going and measure out the gasoline."

Always About House. "Once when I took a car out he discharged the chauffeur for driving me. He was always about the house, checking up the housekeeping bills, and even the washing. He would complain severely if a servant wore more than two chemises a week. He hadn't anything else to do. Then there was the regular recital of the 'millionaire's litany.' 'Millionaires are above the law. They are so rich that they can buy anything or anybody.' You are constantly made to feel that your very existence is on sufferance. They dress, ornament and feed you, let you live in beautiful houses, but they do not seem to think that a woman needs a little spending money. It isn't happiness. My advice to girls is, don't marry idle millionaires. Marry working men."

Largest Watch Known Is Exhibited by Government Washington, July 3.—The largest watch ever known to be manufactured is being exhibited in the price-less collection of the government and housed in the National museum. It was manufactured by a big watch making company of Lancaster, Pa., and was loaned to the government for two months for exhibition purposes. This mastodon among chronometers measures 19 1/2 inches in diameter, is 11-2 inches thick and has a main spring 9 feet long. It is an exact duplicate of the standard 23-jewel watch of commerce, the jewels being synthetic stones. The time-piece was constructed at a cost of $5,000 and represents some of the finest workmanship of its kind in the country. The "train," the wheels which run it, is of solid gold, with the cogs in the teeth treated specially to run them against wear. The winding wheel is of steel. Although it has a nine-foot mainspring, the watch is run by a weight.

"Chu Chin Chow" Is No More; Last Show Given in London London, July 3.—"Chu Chin Chow," Oscar Ashe's musical extravaganza which enjoyed a world's record continuous run of five years at His Majesty's theater, was performed for the last time June 9. More than 5,000,000 people witnessed this production in London, apart from those who witnessed the American version, produced by Morris Gest and F. Ray Constock. The last performance was a gala one, beginning early and ending late, for many of the old popular scenes and songs which were replaced during the long run were restored, while the existing favorites were retained.

Graceful Grafting London, July 3.—If you lose your thumb by accident it may be satisfactorily replaced by your big toe. A French surgeon has performed the operation with complete success. The patient, however, must remain for a fortnight with his hand attached to his foot before the toe is completed severed.

Church Site Sold for $95 Manchester, N. H., July 3.—The East Free Will Baptist church at East Andover, near here, was sold at public auction, by a receiver for $95. The action is said to be without precedent in the state. The church was used for more than a century.

MOVIES

Downtown Programs. Sun—Will Rogers in "Boys Will Be Boys." Strand—Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed." Rialto—Dorothy Dalton in "The Idol of the North."

Neighborhood Houses. Grand—Tom Mix in "A Riding Romeo."

Rogers a Comedy Star. Will Rogers, the eccentric screen star, never had a part that fitted him so well as his latest role as Peep O'Day in "Boys Will Be Boys," at the Sun theater this week. It is a story of a "town character," who, having been reared in an orphan asylum, grew to a ragged and grime manhood. Unexpectedly, he falls heir to a fortune in far away Ireland, and determines to make up for lost time and buy the red-topped boots he craved as a boy, and all the candy he could eat. There is a delightful love story in the picture.

The Lyric Four offer exception harmony as a prologue to the picture. Plenty of Speed for Reid. "Too Much Speed," which opened yesterday at the Strand theater, is one more rollicking, thrilling reason why Wallace Reid is the screen's most popular actor. The picture is a romance of race track, love and business, roaring with daredevil-driven speed cars. Agnes Ayres plays opposite Reid.

Dorothy Dalton Again. The thrills of the days when the gold seekers crowded the "trail" to Alaska are lived again in Dorothy Dalton's latest picture, "The Idol of the North," which was presented at the Rialto theater last night. The author has framed a story with all of the rough and ready atmosphere of the Canadian north-west, much of the action taking place in the Aurora Borealis saloon and dance hall of "Totem City," which is modeled after the Dawson City of the gold rush days. Miss Dalton is seen as a dancer, who, because of her energy in "trimming" the miners, is called "The Idol of the North." The miners seek revenge on her by forcing her at the point of a gun to marry Martin Bates, derelict drifter to the north-west. She succeeds in not only making a man of him, but actually loving him.

Mix a Gentle Wooer. The gentle art of wooing is portrayed in vivid manner by Tom Mix in his latest vehicle, "The Big Town Roundup," which opened yesterday at the Moon theater. The popular star appears as a young ranchman of Arizona who falls in love with a society belle—and, of course, wins her. But he wins only after a series of stirring adventures and narrow escapes that are said to thrill the spectator.

Saint Mihiel Folks Bewail Apparent Neglect by U. S. Saint Mihiel, France, July 3.—The Americans have forgotten Saint Mihiel.

This is the plaint heard on all sides in this little village of the Meuse, where the American expeditionary forces, operating independently as a unit in 1918, gained one of the most brilliant victories of the war. American tourists are visiting every part of France, but this little corner. Those interested in the devastated regions visit the sections close to Paris. Saint Mihiel, which before the war had 7,000 inhabitants was captured in the German advance in 1914 and was held by them for four years. For this reason it was never bombed by the French artillery and the center of the town was not greatly destroyed. The damage in the outlying districts, however, is very great. Great surprise is expressed by the French that this center of a great American triumph should be neglected.

Backers of Three-Plane Navy Plan Fight in Senate

Advocates Claim Bill as Revived By House, Ignores Important Lessons of World War.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, July 3.—When the conference agreement on the naval appropriation bill comes up in the senate Tuesday for final action senatorial advocates of the "three-plane" navy are going to make a last ditch fight for the submarines and airplane carriers which the house cut out of the measure.

Senators contend that the naval bill, since its recent revision by the house, ignores some of the most important lessons of the war, particularly in relation to aircraft and submarines. While the bill appropriates $900,000,000 for continuing the 1916 building program, composed largely of capital ships, the provision for aircraft and submarines is pitifully small.

The two airplane carriers provided for in the senate bill at a limited cost of $26,000,000 each, have been stricken out by the house, although information from abroad is to the effect that the British navy is building six of these carriers, each capable of tending 80 airplanes. Some of the foremost American naval experts are strongly of the opinion that at a comparatively early date the airplane carrier will displace the dreadnaught as the capital ship of the modern navy.

Senator King of Utah, democrat, is going to make a final appeal to the senate to insist on its amendments and to send the bill back to conference again. He contends that it would be far better to take some of the money appropriated for dreadnaught construction and use it for airplane carriers and additional submarines.

The latest official report shows a total of 73,000 unemployed in the city of Glasgow.

Woman Spends Last Cent For Soap, Finds Gold Piece

Berlin, July 3.—A message from Cologne states that a German housewife saw in the window of a grocer's in the Neumarkt, soap at 3.50 marks a cake, and as the same kind of soap was sold everywhere at 5.50 marks, bought 11 cakes, paying all the money she had with her. Her husband, when he returned from work and was told of the cheap soap, growled, "Probably filled with sawdust," and cut one cake in two. A 20-mark ($5) goldpiece was disclosed. Each of the 10 other cakes contained a similar gold coin. Husband and wife hurried back to the shop, where a big box of such soap had been exhibited for sale. But the whole stock had been sold.

Famed Continental Who Led Inauguration Parades Dies

Worcester, Mass., July 3.—James F. Babin of Worcester, for years the central figure in the famous tableau of "The Spirit of 1776," that headed the Worcester continentals in every parade, is dead, aged 55. He, together with his son, won national fame for the Continentals in parades at the inaugurations of presidents of the United States and in many other cities on many occasions.

New Moral Uplift Program Started

Voters Urged to Demand Passage of Anti-Dope and Gambling Bills.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, July 3.—The International Reform Bureau with Rev. Wilbur Frost Crafts as editor, has issued a new quarterly and launched a new moral uplift program. A national lobby, by telegram, letter and in person, is urged by Mr. Crafts.

"This is your capital at Washington," says he, showing a picture of the capitol. "Everybody who is not 'senator' or 'representative' belongs to the third house and should by letters, telegrams, petitions or deputations ask for laws and make it harder to go wrong, especially for the Volstead prohibiting enforcement provisions in the Jones-Miller bill to prohibit dope smuggling and peddling; the Banding-Sterling-Sheppard bills to prohibit interstate gambling and for the Jones marriage and divorce amendments to the national legislation."

The Twentieth Century Quarterly is the name of the ministers' reform paper. Advance sheets carry confessions from Mr. Crafts and other professional reformers that, although the country has fought rum, red light districts and gambling, conditions are growing worse. Mr. Crafts denounces picture producers, the scandalous divorce bills, seven-day newspapers and "automobile immorality." He denounces the American Legion "for not fighting crime instead of demanding a bonus."

She May Catch Your Breath And Then You'll Be Sorry

Chicago, July 3.—Gentlemen with thirsts trained in Scranton, Pa., Atlantic City or Denver are warned away from Chicago. It's going to be different in the future. Uncle Sam now has a woman federal district attorney in charge of prosecution of prohibition violations. She is Miss Mary D. Bailey of Atlanta, Ill. She will help to prosecute bootleggers, rum-runners and hotch-pottlers.

The American Drug Manufacturers' association proposes to raise a fund of $10,000 to finance a project for a Chinese translation of the United States Pharmacopoeia.

Fourth of July Not a Happy Day For Tots of Poor

While Other Children Are Joyously Setting Off Fire-crackers, They Suffer for Lack of Milk.

It's the Fourth of July. Happy day for most kids. "Daddy" buys them lots of firecrackers to celebrate as he himself used to mark the great day.

But for the children of the poor there is scant money to buy fireworks. Much worse, there is no money in some homes to buy sufficient milk to sustain life, or the ice to keep the milk fresh.

While thousands of dollars will "go up in smoke" today, hundreds of poor little children in this city are in need of milk. If you're spending lots of money for fireworks, Daddy, send a little to The Bee milk and ice fund for poor kiddies, too. The fund stands as follows: Previously acknowledged $632.12 Ruth Margaret Cain 2.00 Mrs. E. S. Frew 1.00 Margaret Cathron 2.00 A. M. B. K. Menden 5.00 Total $637.12
