

Educators of U.S. Seeking Scalp of Commissioner

Train Guns Upon J. J. Tigert; Speaker Says System Will Topple Unless Politics Excluded.

Des Moines, Ia., July 6.—(Special Telegram.)—America's educators, in session today, were training their heaviest guns upon J. J. Tigert of Kentucky, United States commissioner of education, in preparation for a verbal barrage that would sweep him out of office.

The opening gun in the fight to displace the incumbent of the commissioner's office was fired at the first business session of the representative assembly by Miss Charlotte O. Williams, superintendent of the Shelby county schools and chairman of the committee on tenure.

Vigorously attacking the intrusion of politics into school matters, she declared that "unless efficient instructors are insured against losing their positions because of political change, the entire fabric of our schools will topple."

Attack on Appointment.
This statement is interpreted as a direct denunciation of the appointment of Mr. Tigert by the Harding administration to succeed former Commissioner P. P. Claxton.

In an address made before the formal opening of the convention last week, the present commissioner tacitly admitted that his appointment was entirely a matter of political expediency.

This admission caused a great furor among educators attending the convention here and the opposition Tuesday was taking definite form, with the promise that this matter will be treated in a resolution to be introduced by his opponents before the convention.

Opposition to the inclusion of education as one of the subdivisions in the proposed department of public welfare in the federal government, was expressed by Dr. George D. Strayer of New York, chairman of the legislative committee of the National Education association, at tonight's session of the convention.

The legislative committee, Dr. Strayer reported, insists that if the department of public welfare is created, education should be taken out of it that friends of education might be permitted to continue their efforts for an independent department of education.

Resolution on Taxation.
Lewis B. Avery of Oakland, Cal., presented a resolution to the committee on resolutions this afternoon recommending that the association affirm its belief that there exists a serious need of increased public intelligence regarding the purpose of taxation, the levying of and distribution of taxes and regarding standards of the relative validity of claims for participation in public funds. The committee announced it was making its recommendation to the convention as a whole Friday.

Mr. Avery's resolution further petitioned the association to go on record favoring the teaching of citizenship in the public schools.

The convention this afternoon voted to amend several sections of the association's by-laws. The amendments seek to give the individual departments within the association greater liberty in the handling of their own affairs.

School Funds Too Small.
Dr. John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, in speaking before the general session tonight said that "while the United States expends more money for educational purposes than any other nation, the amount is too small for the task of educating our people." He said there are more than 7,000,000 boys and girls in this country who are not enrolled in schools. He urged that teachers be given better pay that they might be induced to continue in the profession, and that young people might be influenced to take up teaching.

Dr. Tigert said that the greatest responsibility facing the teaching profession today is to make it possible for the country boy and girl to have real possibilities of education. "In spite of the progress made in consolidation," he said, "considerably more than two-thirds of all the schools in America are still one-room buildings."

Farmer and Business Man Die Following Sunstrokes

He was working in the hay field when overcome, and never regained consciousness. He was unmarried and was working a farm in partnership with his brother.

Decrease Shown in Foreign Farmers

Number of Alien Agriculturists Declines 13 Per Cent in Decade.

Washington, July 6.—The number of foreign-born farmers in the United States has decreased by 88,502, or 13.2 per cent, in the last 10 years, the census bureau announced today. The decrease, which was 81,148 among German-born farmers alone, was due, it was said, to the large number of foreign-born who returned to their native countries during the war.

Native white farmers, who numbered 4,917,305 in 1920, constituted 85 per cent of the nation's tillers. The remainder were divided as follows:

Foreign-born white, 581,054; negroes, 926,257; Indians, 16,213; Japanese, 6,899; Chinese, 638.

States showing the largest percentage of foreign-born white farmers in 1920 were: North Dakota, 46.7; Minnesota, 37.7; Connecticut, 33.7; Washington, 29.8; California, 29.1; and Wisconsin, 28.5.

The number of negro farmers increased 3.7 per cent during the decade. All but a little over 1 per cent of them were found in the southern states.

Japanese farmers settled almost exclusively in the far western states, the census showed. California led with 5,152; Washington had 699; Colorado 321 and Oregon 224.

Ole Kalder, treasurer of the fund, the newspaper charged, had overdrawn his account of more than $50,000 of league campaign funds on June 30 and said that "the league is facing the coming campaign empty-handed and it is necessary that some immediate and drastic action be taken."
