Fremont "Mute" Breaks Silence

Aspirant to Fame in Silent Drama Speaks After Four Days in Jail.

Fremont, Neb., July 14.—(Special Telegram.)—Posing as a mute for the last four days, Ray E. Lamming, alias Ralph E. Lessing, 23, was unable to withstand the mental strain of his superb piece of acting when taken to the photographer's to be "mugged" for the jail records. In place of the glassy, ignorant stare which covered his face a smile broke forth when he admitted that his attempt to gain sympathy for his apparent misfortune was a failure.

Lamming was arrested last Sunday night when he appeared at various homes in the city asking for assistance and claiming, by pad and pencil, that he had lost the power of speech and hearing while fighting in the Meuse sector in France. American Legion authorities were consulted and the alleged war victim was put through a two hours' grilling. He evaded giving his address and was unable to show a discharge. A wire to the address he finally gave proved to be useless. Under the observation of officers and fellow prisoners Lamming failed to make a break. It was decided that he might be mentally unbalanced and the judge ordered him returned to jail for 15 days for mental examination.

Enroute to the jail Lamming heard conversation between the officers relative to sending his fingerprints for confirmation to Washington. He threw a jolt into the officers by saying, "You win, I'm guilty." Lamming admitted that he was hiking across country on the bounty offered by the kind-hearted public. He wants to continue his trip to the coast, where he hopes to enter the movie. Police are positive that he will make good in the silent drama. Lamming is being held to serve out his 15 days while further investigation is made.

Lincoln, Neb., July 14.—(Special.)—Petition of the Lincoln Traction company for a continuation of the temporary 8-cent street car fare was granted today by the state railway commission. The 8-cent fare was inaugurated in 1920 as an emergency measure to offset losses in revenue which the company claimed.
