Brother of Will Adams Upsets Dope by Trimming Veteran — Duke Accounts for Old Score.

Joe Adams will up hold the honor of the Adams family this afternoon at 2:30 when he meets Ralph Powell, city and state tennis champion, in the final round of the city tennis tournament.

Adams defeated Guy Williams in the semi-finals, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, while Powell had an easy time with Harry Koch, former state champion, winning by the score of 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

Adams has never figured in the finals of a tennis tournament until this year, although he has played much tennis. Will, brother of Joe, the tennis expert of the Adams family, was defeated by Powell in the semi-finals Thursday. Powell is a big favorite, because of his easy victories to date.

Delay Selection of Jury to Try Eight Former Ball Players

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.

Chicago, July 15.—work of selecting a jury to try eight former White Sox and their alleged gambler associates in the 1919 world series was further delayed yesterday by a wrangle between attorneys over a motion made yesterday by the defense, asking the state to produce its two witnesses—Bill Burns and Joe Gedeon, former White Sox and Washington player, and one time keystone sacker of the St. Louis Browns.

The state insists it has neither of these men in custody, but the defense insists Ban Johnson, president of the American league, employed the Pinkertons to hold them in custody and that they can be produced at any time.

Judge Friend finally decided that the defense might grill both witnesses and secure an outline of their testimony before the trial begins.

The four jurors already chosen were peremptorily challenged by the defense on the grounds they had heard lawyers for the state say that Cicotte and others had confessed their guilt.

The state announced that one of its witnesses would be Chief Justice McDonald of the criminal court, who started the grand jury investigation of the scandal. It is claimed Cicotte, Jackson and Williams told their stories to Judge McDonald prior to their confessions in the grand jury room.

British Golfers Do Not Do So Good in Shawnee Open Meet

Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., July 15.—Willie Ogg of Worcester, Mass., led a field of 124 starters in the first day's play of the Shawnee open golf tournament here with a total of 145 strokes for the 36 holes.

George Duncan, 1920 British open champion, had one of the worst rounds of his career in the afternoon. His grand total for the day was 164 strokes, putting him hopelessly out of the running. Abe Mitchell of England also ruined his chances with an 82 in the afternoon, making his total 159.

Any local or out-of-town team wishing games with the Fort Crook club is urged to write or call Lieutenant McDonald, Post E and R officer at the fort, or Field Clerk Heath, Fort Crook 61, or after 6 p. m. Bellevue 77.

Fashion Changes In Player Names

"They say," said an old Cub fan, "that there's nothing in a name, but I claim there is. Take the old Cub mob, for instance. There was Frank Chance and Joe Tinker, and Artie Hofman, and Jimmy Sheckard—all guys with regular names.

"But look at the birds they've got today. There's Clarence Twombly and Percy Jones, and Virgil Cheeves, and so on. Don't tell me the game hasn't changed!"

Carpentier Waves Goodby to His Many Yank Friends as LaSavoie Pulls Anchor and Steams for France

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire.

New York, July 15.—Georges Carpentier sailed for home yesterday aboard the French packet LaSavoie.

His leave-taking was typical of the man himself. There were many flags and much cheering about the pier. The flags might have been there because it was Bastille day, but the cheers were all for Carpentier. From the time the big open touring car in which he made the journey from uptown arrived at the foot of West Sixteenth street until his figure was only a speck on the upper deck of the rapidly-disappearing ship the French fighter was the cynosure of all eyes as he waved goodby to his hundreds of admirers.

One of Carpentier's last acts before the boat weighed anchor was to present his colored sparring partner, Joe Jeanette, with a leather wallet, inscribed "G. C. to J. J.," and generously filled with gold coins. Joe made a valiant effort to thank him in French, but ended by wringing his hand and saying nothing.

Accompanying the European champion on his visit to France are his manager, Francois Descamps, Pierre Mallet and his chef, "Battling" Marcot. Trainer Gus Wilson and his other French sparring partner, Paul Journee, will remain in the United States, awaiting Carpentier's return.

Carpentier will be back about the first of September and will train for his October bout here at the Mathews farm in Manhasset, where he prepared for his bout with Dempsey.
