

Coroner to Probe Mrs. Black's Death Tuesday Afternoon

Eye Witnesses Tell Story of Fatal Attack on Woman by Man She Scorned.

Inquest into the fatal shooting of Mrs. Grace Black, 26, by Ole Mortenson in the front yard of the home of Fred Leonard, on the Sarpis Mills road, Saturday night, will be held today at 9 a. m. in the Brewer morgue on the South Side.

Mrs. Margaret Larson and Mrs. L. Olson, 5405 South Thirty-second street, were eye witnesses to the shooting. Mrs. Larson told the following story of the tragedy.

Mortenson arrived at the Leonard home in an automobile about 11:30 p. m. He climbed out and walked toward Mrs. Black.

"You're Going to Die."

"Mrs. Black, you're going to die," he said, and drew a revolver. Mrs. Black fled to the rear of the house. Mortenson fired. The woman fell at the back doorstep, crying, "Ole, you have killed me."

Mortenson brandished his pistol and shouted, "Who's next? I'm going to get the bunch." He was overpowered and disarmed. Frank Skrupa, 4515 South Twenty-sixth street, passing in an automobile, was hailed and took the wounded woman to South Side hospital. Mortenson went along. Surgeons pronounced the Black woman dead when the party arrived at the hospital and police, who had been notified of the shooting by Ed Paltine, garageman, 5131 South Twenty-fourth street, arrested Mortenson there.

"She Didn't Love Me."

"I shot her because I loved her and she wasn't true to me," Mortenson said at the hospital according to Dr. F. O. Beck. "She left me four days ago and took her two children with her."

Mrs. Black had been Mortenson's housekeeper for the past year. Her husband, Edward Black, lives in Tulsa, Okla. Mortenson was wounded by L. A. Gray, soft drink proprietor, Forty-third and Q streets, just a year ago, when Gray accused him of assaulting the Black woman and Mrs. Olson in his establishment.

Fired at Man.

Mortenson told Captain Briggs of the South Side police this morning he did not intend to shoot Mrs. Black, but fired at a man with whom she had gone to the Leonard place. Mortenson told Briggs he was jealous-mad when he shot.

He declared he gave his pistol to Leonard when he saw he had shot the woman.

Omaha's "Climbing Pastor" Scales Mountain 44 Times

Dr. Joseph B. Cherry half way up Pike's Peak.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 25.—Presenting Dr. Joseph B. Cherry of Omaha, the climbing pastor. Dr. Cherry believes in elevating the body as well as the soul.

The Omaha pastor has a recipe for saving doctor bills which he has practiced successfully on himself. He has one for saving souls which he uses on "sinners."

For the 44th time Dr. Cherry has stood on the summit of Pike's Peak and looked eastward to the Kansas line, or somewhere near. He has made the walk over 15 different routes, which means considerable to anyone who has attempted to walk to the top of the mountain on the regular trail.

Always Takes Time.

Although the climbing pastor is 63 years old, he declares a trip up Pike's Peak is just like a visit to the women's missionary society—maybe not so tiresome. He has never made any attempt to break time records. He takes his time, eats his lunch, drinks at all the mountain streams and enjoys the scenic splendor of a mountain trip.

Although Dr. Cherry has climbed the peak more times than any man in the world, he is out for greater gains. At present he is gaining in flesh about as fast as he is in climbs, which may mean that the day will come when Dr. Cherry will have about as much chance getting to the top of Pike's Peak on foot as Irvin Cobb, or "Fatty."

In his last climb Saturday he won a race to the peak from four younger men.

Bold Bandits and Brave Sheriff

Bloodhounds Take Up the Trail, But the Trail They Follow Leads Only to Frightened Assistant of the Village Smithy.

Carroll, Ia., July 25.—(Special.)—Exciting things do happen in Carroll. A night or so ago Bernard Tanter, a gay village lothario, chose to take his maiden fair riding in his car.

They were busily discussing Freud's theory of psycho analysis or the moon or some other interesting subject when a lone and heavily armed bandit interrupted them.

He stepped from a nearby cornfield and, being original, ordered them to "Stick 'em up."

Bernard might have stopped the car, engaged the bandit in mortal combat and have won a smile from the maiden fair. But he didn't. He "stepped on the gas," to use the vulgar expression, and "burned up the road" toward home.

His first stop was the home of Sheriff H. V. Janssen. Sheriff Janssen, in his pajamas, listened to Bernard's tale of the thrilling encounter and escape. He summoned Deputy Sheriffs Langfield, Glen Weeks and Tony Manneman. Armed to the eyebrows they started out in Bernard's car to find the bandit.

"Bring on all your bandits, we'll show 'em," boasted a member of the party as they slowly rolled on.

Into the Cornfield.

At this moment stepped forth the bandit, his rifle leveled. One of the deputies opened fire. The bandit replied with a single shot, dropped his gun and disappeared again in the cornfield.

The sheriff and his deputies were all eager to follow the bold highwayman, of course, but Bernard, who was at the wheel, accidentally "stepped on her again" and a few minutes later the party roared back into Carroll.

But the efficient sheriff was undaunted. He telegraphed to Waterloo for a bloodhound, and blocked off the road that the bandit's scent might not be lost.

Woof, Woof, Bays Hound.

The bloodhound arrived, and with a deep bay started the chase. The sheriff and deputies, carrying large quantities of ammunition, followed. Strange to say the bloodhound led them directly into Carroll. Stranger still he led them directly to the door of Earl Brown, an honest and respected assistant to the village smithy.

The officers of the law gave up in despair. Brown proved beyond doubt he had been elsewhere when the attempted holdup occurred. The bloodhound was given transportation back to Waterloo.

Only Two Boys.

Officially the story has ended. But they do say down in Carroll that Sheriff Janssen was called into conference by a priest; that he listened with the good father, to the confession of two very frightened youths of 16, who have no aspirations whatever to become holdup men, and who simply wanted to "scare somebody."

No arrests have been made. The sheriff doesn't deny a conference with the priest was held. He is in possession of a single shot .22-caliber rifle dropped by the bandit.

Preparations Made for County Fair at Table Rock

Table Rock, Neb., July 25.—(Special.)—The board of directors of the Pawnee County Fair association are preparing for the annual show this fall. Workmen are painting the Auditorium and grandstand and arrangements are almost completed for the erection of a new cattle barn. The race track is being worked every day and will be in excellent condition by fair time. Generous purses are to be offered by the association.

Auto Smashup On D-L-D Road May Cost Life

Richard Hamann in Critical Condition at Millard Hotel Following Accident Sunday Afternoon

An accident which may cost one life occurred Sunday afternoon on the D-L-D road just west of Millard. Richard Hamann is under a physician's care at the hotel in Millard with possible internal injuries.

Hamann was lying under his big touring car making repairs at the side of the road. Down the hill from the west came E. E. Anderson of Newman Grove, Neb., driving a big car.

Just as Anderson arrived opposite Hamann's car, three youths in a Ford shot out of a small side road which was concealed from Anderson's view by a cornfield and a big tree.

Trying to avoid hitting them, Anderson swayed toward the Hamann car. But he was too late. He struck the Ford, tearing off both front wheels and then hurtled against the car under which Hamann was working. This car was overturned and Hamann was picked up unconscious and hurried to Millard.

Mr. Hamann had just completed arrangements to settle in Omaha and was driving to Denver to bring his family here.

Murdered Lad's Body Found Near Cheyenne; Head Crushed by Bar

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 25.—(Special Telegram.)—The body of Harry Moll, 13, son of W. E. Moll, San Francisco, was found late Sunday afternoon in an empty warehouse west of Cheyenne, the head crushed in with an iron bar.

The lad disappeared from the municipal campground a mile north of the city Thursday morning. After securing a dollar from his mother he went into town, ostensibly to attend a picture show. He was reported to have been seen Friday morning at the Indian camp at Frontier park.

Four cents he heard of him until discovery of the body. An iron bar used by the murderer was found in a shed. There are no other clues. Police are without knowledge of a motive for crime. Condition of the body shows the lad had been dead at least 60 hours, physicians say. Four cents were found in pockets of the clothing.

C. F. Embury, chief of police, says the boy apparently was killed elsewhere and the body carried to the warehouse with the bar. Coroner Finkbinner will hold an inquest Monday morning.

Airmen Gather Here to Form State Club

High Rents Force Fremont Families To Live in Tents

Fremont, Neb., July 25.—(Special.)—Housing shortage in Fremont is so acute that two families are living in tents, which they have pitched just north of the Sixteenth street road near the race track.

One of the families of permanent campers is that of a Fremont veterinary, who has equipped his "residence" with a telephone and other modern conveniences. Three other families who gave up rented houses in the spring are camping near the Platte river. Rents in Fremont at the present time are the highest they have ever reached.

Ex-State Senator Dies at Red Cloud

C. R. Besse, Pioneer of Webster County, Found Dead On Porch of Home.

Red Cloud, Neb., July 25.—(Special Telegram.)—The body of C. R. Besse, 74, was found early Sunday morning in front of his home in this city. Death had resulted from a stroke of apoplexy, according to physicians.

The body was found by Clair Pope, one of the proprietors of a local cafe, as he was going home from work. He notified the city marshal, also summoned medical assistance. County Attorney Fee decided that no inquest was necessary.

Mr. Besse and his stepson had been living together and both had retired, but the former evidently had been taken ill or sought relief from the heat by going to the porch.

Colonel Besse, as he was commonly known here, came to this country from Maine about 1870 and took a farm near the present site of Red Cloud. A few years later he left here for a time and his absence was marked by the widow, H. S. Kaley, a prominent lawyer of the early days. His second wife died about a year ago.

Mr. Besse served this district as state senator in 1909, also was for some time a member of the city council. He had given $15,000 toward construction of the auditorium and sales pavilion which bears his name.

Des Moines Police Raid Socialist Meeting; Woman Speaker Held

Des Moines, Ia., July 25.—Arrested the speaker of the afternoon, Ida Crouch Hazlett of New York, and three members of the local organization, Charles Gay, Carl Moll and L. S. McGrillis, police broke up a meeting of socialists at a park here shortly after 8 p. m. Sunday.

About 300 socialists had gathered at the park for a picnic, following which they were to be addressed by Mrs. Hazlett, a traveling lecturer and organizer, on the subject of "Anarchy for Political Prisoners."

The lecture had begun when police officers appeared to arrest the speaker.

Man Killed as Engine Crashes Into Truck

Fairbury, Neb., July 25.—(Special.)—Harry C. Dean, an employee of the Interstate Concrete company, was killed instantly when a Rock Island engine crashed into his auto truck.

Dean was driving across the track near Belleville, Kan., when his engine stalled and No. 26 came down a steep incline, striking the auto squarely.

Dean came from Arkansas three years ago and was married two years ago. He is survived by his wife, who lives here.

DENVER MAN HAD SUFFERED FOR 15 YEARS

Smith Says He Has Taken on New Life and Energy and Feels Like Another Man.

"If I had been made completely over I couldn't feel any more like a new man than I do," said Robert Smith, 650 Pugsley avenue, Denver, Colo., in discussing his truly remarkable experience with Tanlac.

"My trouble began 15 years ago and up until the time I began taking Tanlac I was a confirmed dyspeptic and lived on a light diet all the time. It made little difference, however, what I ate, as everything disagreed with me. I was too nervous to sleep and would get up in the morning tired and worn-out and had a dull, listless feeling all day long."

"Tanlac straightened me right up. After I had been taking it a few days I was eating things I hadn't dared to eat before in years. Everything tastes good to me now and I have picked up several pounds in weight. I have taken on new life and energy and am just like a different man. What Tanlac has done for me I believe it will do for anybody else and I endorse it heartily."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by the Sherman & McConnell Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Misjudge.

Dear Miss Fairfax: This summer I met a young man who learned to love me, he says, and has asked me to marry him. I am fond of him, but doubt the sincerity of his declaration of love for this reason: I am a young lady with a profession and I am young, from being in any position to marry me and offer me as much as I now enjoy of the good things of life, has told me to go my way and if I can find anyone who can offer me in marriage more than he can, I must not consider him or his feelings if I part with him. Can he, Miss Fairfax, I implore you, really and truly love me and let me slip out of his life without even a thought of conquest against the someone, who can offer me more than he can give. Perhaps he is selfish as to give me up willingly to someone who can provide more amply for me than he.

PERPLEXED.

The solution of this attitude seems to lie in the man's pride, his selfishness and a certain weakness. Of course you'd admire him more were he to fight for the love he wants and to struggle to get ahead in the world so as to deserve it. But you must not misjudge his selfishness and his wish to see you have more than he can give. Perhaps he feels that if you really care, you will wait. Perhaps he has a masculine jealousy of your success. Be guarded about the thing and try not to judge entirely from your side of the question.

BETTER WAIT.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am soon to be 18, and feel a great affection for a certain girl, two years younger than I. In fact, we love each other. Now, I am about to graduate from a high school and wish to work my way through a five or six-year course in college. My friend is especially talented for music, and she desires that we both pursue our own fields for the next five or six years, after which time we should get married. Now, I do not try to hide this friendship from my parents, who object very strongly. This girl is slightly lame, due to an accident in her early life, and is not a very strong girl. I've tried to fight for her, but she doesn't like her, but I couldn't. Besides, my parents say that if I wish to go through a six-year college course I must forget about any girl, otherwise time and money will be wasted, for I shall not be able to complete the course.

PERPLEXED.

My dear lad, you are a child and the girl you talk of marrying is far too young to be choosing her life's partner. If only you had been two sensible young things and hadn't talked of romance and lived rationally, you might manage to be friends and enjoy each other's company now and then. But in six years you may develop along lines altogether different from those of her growth and you may have little or nothing in common. Don't indulge in any heart-breaking "farewells" and don't bind each other with pledges, but try to bring things down to a less hectic basis.
