

White Man Now Sought by Police In Fogg Murder

Drug Addict Seen in Store Shortly Before Crime—Contradictory Testimony Given at Inquest.

"Frank Fogg, druggist, 2802 Farnam street, came to his death from a gunshot wound in the hands of unknown parties," read the verdict of the coroner's jury which held inquest yesterday into the death of Frank Fogg, who was killed in his store last Saturday night. Fourteen witnesses gave evidence to the jury. Virgil Price, negro, who was arrested following the shooting, did not testify.

The jury refused to make any recommendations in regard to Price, but according to Chief of Police Dempsey, Price will be released from custody tomorrow.

Search for Drug Addict.

Evidence given by several witnesses caused police to search for a white man said to be a drug addict and a police character who was seen in the store glancing over some magazines shortly before midnight.

Emil Rokusek, proprietor of a bakery one door west of the drug store, who lives at 214 South Twenty-eighth, arrived at his home, he testified, at 11:45. He stated that he saw a white man with a light gray or checkered suit in the drug store. Five minutes after going to bed he heard two shots from a revolver. Getting out of bed he looked out of a window and saw a man running north on Twenty-eighth street. When he reached the rear of the Nash Motor company he ran east up a small embankment.

Rokusek stated that he did not know whether the man running was the same person he had seen in the store a short time before.

Dr. P. A. Connolly, acting coroner, stated that he examined Fogg's body and believed that he lived only 15 minutes after being shot.

Saw White Man Running.

Mathew Hunt, 111 South Twenty-seventh, who, according to the police, said Saturday night that he saw a negro running after the shooting, stated in the witness box that in his opinion the man he saw was white.

Albert Douglas, 504 South Twenty-fifth street, who was with Hunt, substantiated Hunt's statement that the man he had seen was white. He gave the following description: White man, five feet, four inches tall, weight 140 pounds and wore either a grey or checkered suit and cap.

Robert Bank, 504 South Twenty-sixth avenue, H. Baugh and Fanny Byrd, 2714 Douglas street, testified they saw Price at Twenty-seventh and Douglas street about 11:30 Saturday night. They stated that he had bruises on his head.

Evidence Contradictory.

Their evidence was contradicted by Paul Holliday, Council Bluffs, who testified that he saw Price at Ninth street and Capitol avenue about 9 o'clock and about 11:30, Holliday and Johnnie Moore, owner of a resort in the old Third ward, took Price to a hotel on South Thirteenth street.

Other witnesses were Thomas Wagner, 211 Park avenue; George Jensen, 211 Park avenue; L. V. Kuhn, 523 South Twenty-ninth avenue; W. P. Barnett, 119 South Thirtieth street; C. R. Hunter, 2510 K street; Violet Mullen, 405 South Twenty-fifth avenue, and policemen assigned on the case.

Following the inquest Chief of Detectives Van Deusen stated that he hoped to clear the mystery in a few days with the arrest of a white man. Police are not divulging any news which might lead to the source of their information.

Tent Company Head Married Secretly to His Private Secretary

The marriage of Al C. Scott, president of the Omaha Tent and Awning company, to his private secretary, Gladys Thornton, took place in Kansas City, Kan., two weeks ago.

Scott, a widower, is active in various communal movements. Husband and wife returned to Omaha separately after the wedding and kept their secret dark until Sunday night when they left for a month's honeymoon in the Canadian Rockies. On their return, they will live in a new home at 5124 Cass street.

After his first wife's death, Scott sold their home at 302 South Fifty-second street. Scott is 38 and his bride 22.

Spaniard Caught Stealing Deported as "Public Charge"

Emilio Ortiz, 21, a Spaniard, was placed aboard the "deportation special" by John Gurnette, local immigration officer, early this morning, to be sent back to his home in Spain. "Becoming a public charge" is the cause of his deportation. Ortiz was arrested in the act of stealing an overcoat last spring.

A group of prisoners from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth also was brought here to join the party.

Sunderland Says Colonial Got No Cash From Bonds

Stockholder in Guaranty Securities Company Explains Transactions of Defunct Companies.

Any knowledge of the disposition of bonds of the defunct Colonial Timber and Coal Company of West Virginia, mentioned with the crash of the Pioneer State Bank of Omaha and the Guaranty Securities company, is denied by Ralph E. Sunderland, stockholder in the Guaranty firm, now spending the summer in Toledo, O.

No cash was ever received or used by the Colonial corporation from these bonds, according to Mr. Sunderland, who declared all working capital was secured through the sale of stock by the stockholders.

No Salary Waste.

"The salary and expense account of Colonial represents no extravagance or waste," declares Mr. Sunderland, "the officers being paid less than they could and would have earned elsewhere, relying for their profits upon the ultimate outcome of the business."

"I have not been connected with Colonial for some time. I resigned because there was not enough working capital to justify continuing without reduction of expense to a minimum. The disposition of my stock was a voluntary act, the transfer being made in favor of the Guaranty Securities company to strengthen its position. It did not yield me any remuneration."

Claims Titles Good.

"I have had no financial transaction with the Pioneer State bank or Guaranty Securities company involving money, credit or equivalent. Any statement that the Colonial titles are not good is a mere opinion, for the matter of West Virginia titles is usually one of legal adjudication incomprehensible to the northern mind until fully conversant with the peculiar local conditions."

"I believe if Colonial bondholders should now acquire all of the assets of Colonial, and pursue the course already well laid out and in operation, with more than two years of valuable progress already made, they would be immensely rewarded ultimately."

"I am a stockholder in the Guaranty Securities company and will share with all other stockholders whatever loss arises from its bankruptcy."

Demand Made for Tests of Paving on State Highways

State Inspector on Jobs Also Asked by Good Roads Committee—Blame Put on County Engineer.

"We want to be sure that we're getting what we're paying for." This creed is contained in resolutions passed by the joint good roads committee in session at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon with State Engineer George E. Johnson, asking that the state highway commission put an inspector on the three paving jobs now under way in Douglas county.

These jobs include the Washington highway, the O.L.D. highway and the Lincoln highway. The resolutions are the outcome of charges made by State Engineer Johnson that insufficient cement content was being used in the laying of the base for paving of the Lincoln highway.

Want State Inspector.

Presence of a state inspector on the jobs would keep the work up to standard and would influence the contractors to exercise a little more care in the laying of the paving, according to the resolutions, a copy of which is to be presented to the county board of supervisors tomorrow.

Tests of the paving when completed also would be made under the terms of the resolutions.

Besides the state engineer, those present at the meeting were: P. L. Nesbit, J. E. George, A. B. Waugh, L. C. Sholes, Randall K. Brown, J. L. Hasinks, J. Stewart White and J. H. Lionberger. W. B. Check, president, is out of the city, and in his absence Vice President Nesbit presided.

The committee is composed of representatives from eight civic organizations of Omaha.

Blames County Engineer.

Blame for carelessness in the Lincoln highway paving project was laid at the door of Lew Adams, county engineer, by State Engineer Johnson yesterday.

"It's unfortunate his job is elective, not appointive," he commented. "Inspectors are not to blame; they were doing what Adams told them to do. He admitted the inspectors made daily reports but he didn't examine them," said Johnson.

Part of the recently laid road may be torn up and repaving ordered, if tests show that the base is defective, he said.

The contractor had no right to make allowances for shrinkage in the cement mixture because specifications did not so designate that he might according to Johnson.

Honolulu has 170 miles of paved streets.
