Landsis to Bar Freed White Sox From 'Pro' Ball

National Commissioner Declares 'Regardless of Verdict, No Player Implicated Will Play Professionally.'

Chicago, Aug. 3.—None of the American league players who were acquitted last night of an alleged criminal conspiracy to throw the 1919 world series, has any immediate prospect of being restored to organized base ball, according to a statement issued today by Judge K. M. Landsis, national base ball commissioner. 'Regardless of the verdict of juries,' said the statement, 'no player that throws a ball game, no player that entertains proposals or promises to throw a game, no player that sits in a conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers, where the ways and means of throwing games are discussed, and does not immediately tell his club about it, will ever play professional base ball.' 'Of course I do not know that any of these men will apply for reinstatement, but if they do, the above are at least a few of the rules that will be enforced. 'Just keep it in mind that regardless of the verdict of juries base ball is entirely competent to protect itself against the crooks, both inside and outside the game. Johnson Is Disappointed. Failure to secure conviction in the trial of seven White Sox players was disappointing to President Ben Johnson of the American league but he declared in a statement today that a 'very good lesson had been taught.' 'The trial of the indicted players and gamblers which closed yesterday uncovered the greatest crime in the history of professional base ball,' President Johnson said. 'The fact that the outfit was freed by a Cook county jury does not alter the conditions one iota or minimize the magnitude of the offense,' he added. In a formal statement today, Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, declared he would have nothing to do with the men acquitted until they could explain satisfactorily their confessions. 'Cicotte confessed to me that he had helped throw the world's series of 1919,' Mr. Comiskey added. 'He also implicated the other seven players and gamblers, and as Cicotte can explain to my satisfaction that confession, I will have nothing to do with him or the seven men he implicated in his confession.' Weaver Wants Back. Of the players acquitted last night only 'Buck' Weaver, former third baseman of the Chicago White Sox and Swede Risberg, former shortstop, indicated an immediate intention to apply for reinstatement. Joe Jackson, slugging outfielder, said he had such work as to do and would devote his time to a store he has opened here. 'Chick' Gandt, who had been with the White Sox, said he would play semi-professional ball. Eddie Cicotte, famous pitcher, said he would play professional ball. He had talked once in the criminal courts building and would not dare do so again and 'Hap' Felsch, centerfielder, reiterated his innocence, but announced no plans. Took One Ballot. The seven former White Sox ball players and two others on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the public through throwing the 1919 world series, last night were found not guilty by a jury. The jury took only one ballot, but two hours and 47 minutes of deliberation, but was not returned until 40 minutes later, Judge Hugo Friend being out of court when the decision was reached. The defendants were Buck Weaver, outfielder; Charles Risberg, shortstop; Arnold Gandy, first baseman; Claude Williams and Eddie Cicotte, pitchers; Joe Jackson, outfielder, all former White Sox players, and Carl Zerk of St. Louis and David Zeller of Des Moines. Announcement of the verdict was greeted by cheers from the several hundred persons who remained in court for the final decision and shouts of 'hurray for the Clean Sox!' Weaver Wants Job Back. Jurors refused to talk to reporters. 'We voted not to tell what happened in the jury room,' they said. 'They all seemed proud of their verdict and all greeted me like school boys as the players and attorneys crowded around them. 'Everybody knew I had nothing to do with the conspiracy,' said Buck Weaver as he shook hands with the judge. 'I believe that I should be given my old position back. I'm going to fight for it.' 'I'm through with organized base ball,' announced Joe Jackson. 'I've got a store here in dear old Chicago. This will be my home. I'm going to play ball with Williams in Oklahoma for a while this summer. At present I'm contemplating taking a position as coach for a university team in Japan. I've also had an offer to go before the footlights.' 'All I want to do is to get to Detroit,' Cicotte said gaily when interviewed. 'Talk did you say? Not here. Will Quash Indictments. All indictments remaining against the acquitted ball players will be quashed, it was announced by Robert L. Crowe state's attorney. 'As far as I am concerned, the case is a closed book,' said Mr. Crowe. Investigation of the disappearance of the waitress in immunity signed by Cicotte, Jackson and Williams, and which are said to have been sold to eastern gamblers for $10,000, is still going on the state attorney said.

No Catch Weight Bouts in New York

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Aug. 3.—According to William Muldoon, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission, there will be no more championship matches allowed in New York state at catch weights. Contestants in the various divisions will be compelled to make the required weight governing their classes on the day of the contest. It is explained by the boxing board that such a ruling will prevent a repetition of the Wilson-Downey rumpus which gave the game such a black-eye in Cleveland. It is understood that Wilson weighed 174 pounds when he went into the ring with Downey and was in no sense representing the middleweight division. With this in mind the New York commission has adopted the rule as a precautionary measure. Pro-boozers claim that more men are out of work. That's easily explained. Birds out of work are same bar patrons who used to do mooching around saloons. Now, they seem to be out of work because they have no place to loaf.

There's one thing about this Australian champ. In victory or defeat he will always be a Shade to the good.

BILLY SHADE is coming back home. And he's coming with bells on. This announcement doesn't mean a lot in cold type until one stops to consider just who this fellow is and what he has done. Briefly, this Shade is a light-heavyweight boxer by trade and a Californian by birth, who has cleaned up everything in Australia and will return to America to seek laurels in his division. News of Shade's return is of interest to such able battlers as Tom Gibbons, Georges Carpentier and other light-heavyweights who can see in Shade a future opponent who may be depended upon to keep up interest in the light-heavyweight class. A recent announcement to the effect that John Wren, Australian sportsman, is willing to back Shade in a bout against Tom Gibbons to the extent of $50,000 created some real interest in the Californian. If he thinks that well of him in the Antipodes he must have something; he must be the sort of a battler we all like to see break into the spotlight. Shade has won the middle and light-heavyweight titles of Australia. His most recent victory, according to the very latest mail from Sydney, was scored over Al Lloyd, former heavyweight champion of Australia, in 14 rounds. It was a technical knock-out after Lloyd had been down for two long counts. Referee Joe Wallis stopping the contest. The boxing public will welcome Shade home, and if he is all they say of him he will not pine for action. There's one thing about this Australian champ. In victory or defeat he will always be a Shade to the good.

Whitey Glazner Is Holding Center of Spottlight in Big Show

By FRANK G. MENKE. (Copyright, 1921, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.) THE darbiest slinger uncovered this semester is the property of Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh. The youth answers to the name of Glazner. At the baptismal font they prefixed 'Charles' to it. But in later years, when he developed a crop of very blonde hirsute adornment, the Charles was supplanted by 'Whitey.' And so it's a 'Whitey' Glazner who is the huge warrior in the great fight the Pirates are making for possession of Pennant Heights. Fighting comes rather natural to Glazner. He got a lot of it in France. He was there with the 321st infantry, sniffed much battle smoke, plus poisoned gas and was in the thickest of the battling, especially during the closing months of the titanic warfare. Glazner was among the last Americans to go 'over the top.' It may be recalled that the armistice was signed at 11 a. m. on November 11, 1918. Six hours earlier Glazner and his mates were sent into 'No Man's Land' to make a gallant and winning charge on the Germans. Many of 'Whitey's' mates went down in that onrush—to 'ise no more. But Glazner escaped a leaders' death—and came back to pitch his way to big league greatness. 'Whitey' encased himself in a 'pro' uniform for the first time in 1915, when he wandered from Sycamore, Ala., the old home town, to play with Anniston in the Georgia Ala. league. He served time there until 1916, when he 'graduated' to Winston-Salem, in which place he won 21 games in 25 trials. The following season found him slinging for one of the teams in the Steel league. Then 'Whitey' went to war. After his return from the other side, he hooked up with Birmingham. His very first game brought
