

Woman Divorced Here Will Marry Windy City Man

Mrs. Nancy J. Moore, Principal in Sensational Suit Eight Years Ago, To Wed Business Executive.

Mrs. Nancy J. Moore, one of the principals in a sensational divorce suit here eight years ago and former wife of Roy W. Moore, treasurer of the Kirkendall Shoe company, is to marry A. V. Martin, a prominent Chicago business man, president of the Martin Hardware company, Martin & Martin Shoe company and other enterprises and a member of the Chicago Athletic club and South Shore Country club.

The engagement was announced at a breakfast last Wednesday at the Drake hotel, Lake Shore drive and Michigan avenue, Chicago.

Mrs. Moore sued her husband, Roy W. Moore, then a salesman for F. P. Kirkendall & Co., here for a divorce, April 28, 1913, alleging that he had called her vile names and that his final word to her was that he "didn't care a damn for her or their boys." They were married in 1894. Moore fought the suit and there was much sensational testimony in the trial in district court. A decree was granted her on November 26, 1913, with $1,500 alimony and the custody of the two boys, Mendel, 17, and Clare, 16.

For some time she continued to reside here and just before leaving Omaha about two years ago she lived at the Hotel Fontenelle.

She moved to Chicago with her two sons and lived at 63 East Division there.

No date has been set yet for the wedding of Mrs. Moore and Mr. Martin.

Railroad Offers $500 Reward for Recovery Of Inspector's Body

Reward of $500 is being offered by the Illinois Central railroad for recovery of the body of William L. Logan, inspector in the company's employ, who is believed to have been drowned near the retards under construction on the Iowa side of the Missouri river near Council Bluffs, July 1.

Logan was last seen when he entered a canoe to paddle out to inspect the retards. The canoe was found later near the Iowa side of the river, floating upside down. A search of the river failed to locate the body.

The inspector was 35 years old, five feet eight inches in height and weighed about 160 pounds. He had black hair and blue eyes. At the time of his disappearance he carried a South Bend watch and wore a Purdue university alumni ring, bearing the letter "P." He was supposed to be wearing dark gray wool trousers and a light shirt. Finder of the body should notify C. C. Westfall, engineer of bridges.

Declares Britson Finances Are Sound

Stockholders in Company Have No Cause for Alarm, Asserts Director.

Stockholders in the Britson Manufacturing company have no reason to be alarmed as to its condition, according to E. G. Taylor of Loup City, Neb., a director of the company, who is now in Omaha.

Mr. Taylor declares that the directors have followed the law through-out their management of the company's affairs. A great majority of the stockholders, he said, have congratulated them upon their judgment in not erecting a building under wartime conditions.

"I am the largest stockholder outside of Mr. Britson," said Mr. Taylor, "and while I have never advised anyone to buy stock in the company, some may have done so because they knew me. To these, my advice is to have nothing to do with the so-called 'stockholders' committee.' This committee has made serious charges and, if not proven, may find itself liable to action by those whom they have accused.

"The company's money is invested in good securities and bonds, satisfactory to the directors."

Johnson to Name Own Inspectors On County Paving

Commissioners Act in Accordance With Request of Good Roads Committee; Work May Be Torn Up.

The board of county commissioners passed a resolution yesterday, in accordance with the request of members of the joint good roads committee made last Monday, giving State Engineer Johnson the right to appoint his own inspectors on the three paving jobs now under way in Douglas county.

This is the outcome of the controversy as to whether sufficient cement is being put into the concrete base. The county already has three inspectors on each job, but the good roads representatives said they wanted qualified engineers as inspectors.

"The state engineer could put his inspectors on without our action," said Commissioner Unitt last night. "It was just like saying, 'I have the right to do it. Now ask me.'"

Paving May Be Relaid. Lincoln, Aug. 5.—(Special).—The last three-fourths of a mile of Lincoln highway paving laid to date in Douglas county will have to be torn up and relaid because of shortage in the cement content of the base, according to unofficial reports making the rounds here.

Three and one-half miles of the highway are paved. Tests on the first mile should be completed soon and present indications are that they will reveal specified cement content.

However, when the base of operations was moved at the completion of the first two and three-quarters miles, the plans of mixing also were changed and the alleged shortage of cement in the base appeared.

Quality Undetermined. Quality of the two and three-quarters miles paved first cannot thus be determined positively until the state tests are complete but it is believed to be up to specifications. This is likewise true for the last three-fourths of a mile. The result of the tests on this will be late because it is the last paving laid. Officials here who started the paving controversy with the Douglas county commissioners declined to make any definite statement regarding the possible relaying of this last three-fourths of a mile.

Judge Troup Favors Grand Jury Probe of Defunct Firms Here

Presiding Judge A. C. Troup of the Douglas county district court declared himself yesterday in favor of Attorney General Davis for investigation into recent blue sky stock transactions in the county alleged to have caused a number of the recent business failures.

Judges Redick, Sears, Day and Wakeley are out of the city on their vacations. Judge Troup said he would call a conference of the judges within 10 days to propose the impaneling of the grand jury.

He hopes to have at least seven of the judges present and declared it "ought not to take more than 10 minutes to decide the question."

Damaged Pavement Will Be Repaired

The center of the pavement in Eighteenth street, Burt street to Capitol avenue, will be restored next week, according to Herman Beal, city engineer.

This thoroughfare was opened last winter by the Katz Construction company in connection with sewer work. The contract with the city required the Katz company to replace the concrete base, which work was allowed to go until this time.

"Mr. Katz called on us this morning and gave assurances that work will be started next Monday," said the city engineer. "The city has a bond for the replacement of the base, which should have been attended to sooner."

Rescue Home Is Dedicated By Gov. McKelvie

State Executive Lauds War And Peacetime Work of Salvation Army at Cornerstone Laying.

Cheers and applause went up when Governor McKelvie laid the first trowel of mortar on the cornerstone for the new Salvation Army Rescue home at Sixteenth and Grace streets yesterday afternoon, dedicating it to the service of humanity. A large crowd was scattered over the extensive grounds during the ceremony.

The governor lauded the war service of the Salvation Army as well as its peacetime efforts.

He said that laws and their enforcement were weak in their power for reclamation, as compared with the voluntary efforts of charitable organizations.

"We've had more laws put on our statutes in the last 10 years than ever before, but we have three times as many prisoners in the state penitentiary today than we had two and a half years ago," he declared.

Dunn, Back From Trip, Strong for Incinerator

Omahans will be requested to wrap their garbage each day in paper before placing in cans for the haulers. That will be the rule if this city adopts the incineration system of garbage disposal.

Police Commissioner Dunn, accompanied by City Commissioner Hopkins and City Clerk Bossie, have returned from Des Moines, where they investigated an incinerator plant.

"Health Commissioner Puto and myself are favorable to the incineration plan," said the police commissioner. "No doubt it is the most sanitary method, but is more expensive than the hog-feeding method of disposal. We will investigate other cities where incineration has been adopted. In Des Moines householders are required to wrap all garbage in papers and the wisdom of this was evident to us."

Commissioner Dunn estimates that the cost of garbage removal and operation of an incineration plant in Omaha would amount to approximately $90,000 a year.
