The New york Times.

Chiengo Tribune-Omaha Bee Lensed Wire, panies.

Despite all these conflicting circumstances, it is possible to draw one common and not unfavorable inference from all of them, which is that the trying process of reaction, liquidation and readjustment has been very complete and has already removed the great part of those obstacles which, for more than a year, have stood in the way of return to anything like normal business.

Output of steel and iron at the present is so far below the country's actual requirements that nothing except such a blockade of credit facilities as prevailed last year could prevent the ultimate resumption of purchases, and, in fact, the buying movement can hardly fall to be resumed the instant it is believed that prices have reached their low point.

If the release of frozen credits in the south has been slower than in the west, the machinery for effecting sale of accumulated cotton and the consequent discharging of old debts is none the less unmistakably at work. Behind all these considerations stands the astonishingly strong banking position. As a whole the credit organism of the country bids fair to enter the autumn on a sounder position and with a higher percentage of banking reserve to banking liability than at any time since the United States came into the war in 1917.

Reason for Rail Slump Problem Before Senate

Commerce Committee Must Decide Whether Car Loading Decrease Due to High Rates or Depression.

By HOLLAND.

Increased earnings of the railwhole, which were reported for the four weeks of June and three subsequent weeks of July, are attributed by those who have studied the situation, to the rates allowed by the Interstate Commerce commission for the movement of grain and also for the hauling of sand, stone and gravel. If the inference drawn from these figures be correct, the rates charged for the movement of these commodities have not interferred with the traffic. Of course, there is a possibility that if the rates were lower the traffic might have increased, but that would have been By ALEXANDER DANA NOYES, at the expense of the railroadd com-

Hogs—With 4,500 hogs on sale this morning, trading was rather quiet, but flees were well maintained and most of the supply sold at figures steady to about 10c higher. Shippers bought rather sparingly and demand from packers was also limited. Best light hogs made a top of $19.75, and bulk of the receipts sold from $19.75, and bulk of the receipts sold from $2.75 6910.00. The market this week has been featured by a higher tendency on early days, followed by reaction. Current higher, as compared with a week ago, and the advance is more clearly shown on hogs of bacon weight.

Couragement naturally prevails again products, it will be discovered that although there was a severe falling off in the transportation of other products excepting sand, stone and gravel, nevertheless there was an increase in the number of cars employed in moving grain and grain products. As for instance, in the second week of July the number of cars loaded with grain in 1919, was in round numbers 45,000. In 1920 the number of cars thus employed was nearly 34,000, but in 1921. long deferred trade revival that dis-couragement naturally prevails covered that although there was a
