WORK CLOTHING FACTORY SUPERINTENDENT WANTED
A thoroughly established middle west concern, now operating three work clothing factories, wishes to secure the service of a thoroughly experienced, competent general superintendent.
The qualifications are complete and satisfactory experience in the manufacture of overalls, one-piece garments, work shirts and children's rompers.
The applicant must understand the details of all modern factory operation.
The concern in question is planning to greatly increase factory production within the next few years, beginning immediately. Factories for the manufacture of other lines will be established as soon as consistent with good business policy.
This position, therefore, offers exceptional opportunities to the thoroughly trained factory executive who would like to make a connection which will be not only permanent, but which will offer unlimited opportunities for advancement.
If for any good reason applicant is not now employed, this fact alone will not necessarily adversely affect his application.
The salary will depend largely upon applicant's experience and ability, but will be commensurate with the responsibility required.
All correspondence will be considered strictly confidential, and should satisfactory arrangements be concluded applicant will have ample opportunity to leave any present connections.
In answering this advertisement give complete details regarding age, experience, names of past employers or connections, present salary, and any other information which will prove of interest.
Address Manufacturer, P. O. Box 333, Chicago, Ill.

PROGRESS OF THE CROPS.

Weekly Crop Bulletin of the Agricultural Bureau of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

The improved weather conditions for corn in all Mississippi valley states, noted last week in this bulletin, is reflected in all the official reports this week. More moisture came to most of the territory last week, especially to the more southerly districts and there seems to be no further occasion for anxiety on the score of lack of moisture to make the crop. The cool nights since August 1, which have kept temperature averages from 3 to 6 degrees below normal throughout the corn belt, coupled with large rainfall, have retarded maturity of the corn plant until now some anxiety is beginning to be felt lest such condition continuing may result in a soft corn crop. This feeling is more pronounced in the Kansas City district, where some stations report more than six inches of rain within the past week. In the northern stretches of the corn belt, particularly in the Dakotas and Minnesota, the crop has made steady progress throughout the season and is now so far matured that a very good crop is assured. In the drouth district, although conditions have improved so greatly, there is a certainty that many of the fields will prove to have a large per cent of nubbins and still more of it will be shallow in the grain. Under such circumstances and with considerable damaged areas in the eastern cotton states and in the west a large part of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, extending into southwestern Nebraska and eastern Colorado still needing moisture, it would seem that much larger reductions in estimates of the crop than the 99,000,000 bushels of the August 1 estimate should be made. The states in the Mississippi valley drouth area had approximately 35,000,000 acres in their suffering sections. They were given a maximum crop prospect on July 1. It would be easy indeed, therefore, to scale the estimate three times the reported decrease.

Thresher return reports from the spring wheat belt are very meager and are given in the most general terms. One gets very little light on the actual crop yield from that source. The current reports of wheat yields one gets from the market reports are not enlightening, either, since they so frequently appear to be "doctored" for market propaganda. But in as much as the new future trading act penalizes the circulation of false market reports, we will hope for a future of truth and righteousness in the grain business.

The cotton states had much grain from the Red River valley north and east and very high temperatures. All crops made good progress except cotton. The boll wevil, which is the great present enemy of cotton, works most in wet weather, which washes off the poison dusted on the plants and which is efficient only in dry weather. Also shedding of bloom without fertilization of the flower occurs when there is much rain. The cotton crop may, therefore, be regarded as having deteriorated during the past week. Fruit and truck have been very plentiful in the south and the Georgia peach crop which has been practically all marketed, will not pay the present excessive freight rates and leave a fair return to the grower. Arizona has started her cotton gins on cotton made from volunteer seedings. This will suggest that the high standard of cultivation expected from growing cotton under irrigation farming is likely to prove a disappointment.

The coast and mountain states have had mostly continued dry weather with high temperatures along the California coast. No important changes have taken place in agriculture in that territory. Dry farming is at further disadvantage and in Oregon the unirrigated apple orchards are showing the lack of moisture.

The late reports from fruit growing districts in the east are disappointing. The New York state apple crop, which is the largest source of supply in the east, suffered heavily from the June drought and will probably give only one-third of a normal crop. The Canadian provinces and Michigan, which furnish the main part of the eastern surplus, outside of New York state, make a better showing as Ontario and the lower St. Lawrence valley report normal crops of apples. In the west we have continued fair prospects for fruit in the mountain valleys and Puget Sound country except as noted above. It is expected that much of the Puget Sound and California fruit will be sent to Atlantic coast cities by water transportation through the Panama canal. Should this occur, the middlewest, which is nearly destitute of a local fruit supply, will be dependent on the intermountain states. The apple crop is already coming to market from the Pecos valley in New Mexico.
