FASHIONS
BLUE BOOK

New York.—(Special Correspondence.)—To be or not to be! Really there should be no irresolution here. There is as much heading going on at present in New York as there is on any Choctaw reservation.

Suits are trimmed in this way. So are capes and so are frocks. On the late georgette and Canton crepe frocks a wide use is made of beads—usually round and often dull—in broad stripe effects. This presents many opportunities for delicate, or dazzling contrast of color, and we find black beads on a georgette frock of Turkey red, silver ones on another georgette of gray, and dull bronze on still a third of brown. And, by the way, various shades of brown and of henna are much to the fore in these new crepe frocks.

Today we show a white crepe trimmed with steel beads and with bands of Persian embroidery. The narrow girdle is black.

What's What
By HELEN DECIE

A correspondent in Akron (O.) writes: "Dear What's What—

Please tell me if vegetables should be served in small dishes to each person? Also, how should peas be eaten?"

It is only in remote country hotels that the traveler of today finds the numerous little oval vegetable dishes which used to make of every public dinner-plate an island entirely surrounded by "birds' bathtubs." Hotel and restaurant dinners are served in courses, the waiter presenting the vegetable dishes in turn at the left side of each guest; this is also the routine at a home dinner where a butler or waitress is kept. In the much more general "self-service" of the home table, after the meat has been served, the vegetables and sauce are passed from one diner to another, each helping himself.

As was explained in a former "What's What," peas and all other vegetables are eaten with a fork, held hollow side upward, in the right hand; a small portion of bread in the left hand may be used to prevent the peas on the plate from rolling away from the fork.

Problems That Perplex
Answered by
BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Introduce Carefully.

It is the rare man or woman who succeeds in making an introduction effectively. The common fault is to pronounce the names indistinctly and hastily, thereby leaving the persons in total ignorance of each other's identity and robbing the ceremony of its usefulness and meaning. Deliberation and distinct enunciation are essential to the adequate performance of this very important social rite. If by chance the name of a guest escapes a host or hostess it is proper to say quietly, "Forgive me, but I cannot recall your name at this moment," and then, having received the required information, to proceed with the introduction.

Special Introductions.

Not infrequently it happens that man or woman, for a special reason, desires, and manoeuvres, by previous requests on both sides, to bring strangers together through the medium of an introduction. In such a case, the introduction should be accompanied by an expression of gratification, as, for instance: "It gives me great pleasure to present Mr. Brown to you, Mrs. Jones," or "This is Mr. Brown, Mrs. Jones; it gives me great pleasure to present him to you."

New and then a hostess, when making introductions, can establish an immediate and pleasant understanding between her guests by letting them a clue to each other's identity and interests, as, for example: "Mrs. Brown, may I present Mr. Stafford? Like yourself, he has spent much time in South America," or, "Miss Cameron, I should like to have you meet Miss Fordyce. She, too, is an artist and can tell you all you wish to know of the summer sketching classes in East Gloucester."

In introducing one's relations less formality is observed than in other cases. Thus: "Mrs. Edwards, I want my sister to know you;" "Mother, this is Mr. Jones;" "Miss Hazleton, I don't think my father has yet had the pleasure of meeting you," or "Miss Hazleton, my brother asks me to present him, in the hope that you have a dance to spare," are all good modes of making presentations.

Several weeks ago (the last time I was out with her) I asked her if I could visit her once a week, telling her how much I cared for her. She answered that she was too sick, that she could not settle down to anything. Once a week was even too much to come to see her, in her estimation.

You might say, Miss Fairfax, that I have no right to ask this girl to go out with me once a week, especially when we are not engaged yet, but shall I take for granted that she wants to send me away?

The old maxim that faint heart never won fair lady seems about the best advice to give you. If the girl is worth winning she is worth wooing. In those modern, restless days perhaps a pleasure-loving young girl is foolish enough to be appalled at the thought of having a young man come to see her once a week. She is too likely to want pleasure, change, excitement. But once you make her realize that an evening spent with you is an evening well and interestingly spent, she may begin to conquer her foolish restlessness.

Particles in Eyes.

The next time something gets in your eye, go into a darkened room and remain there a few seconds. Then fix the eye on the electric bulb and turn on the light quickly. The sudden light will cause a violent reaction which washes the particle to the corner of the eye, where it can be easily removed.

Eyes Inflamed?

If your eyes are inflamed, weak, tired or overworked; if they ache; if picture shows make them feel dry and strained, get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets from your druggist. Dissolve one in a four-ounce glass of water and use as an eye bath from two to four times a day. Bon-Opto allays inflammation, invigorates, tones up the eyes.

Note: Doctors say Bon-Opto strengthens eye sight 30% in a week's time in many instances.

What to Use and Avoid
On Faces that Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire—must expel, through its pores, the waste material. Certain creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with perspiration and with the skin during the heated period. If more women understood this there would be fewer skin-complexions. If they would use ordinary mercurized wash they would have no hy complexion. This remarkable skin-lance actually absorbs a bad skin, and unclogs the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. The skin is new, complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Obtain an ounce of mercurized wash from your druggist and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or two, washing it off morning.

To remove wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment, which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve an ounce of powdered mercurized wash in half pint witch hazel and use as a face wash.

Removes Hairy Growths
Without Pain or Bothers

(Modes of Today)
It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delicate hair you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

Pimples and boils are signs of lowered vitality

A familiar food now used to correct them

PIMPLES and blackheads (acne) and boils are often the signals of a falling off in health. "A bad acne may indicate profound debility," writes a physician connected with a number of leading New York hospitals, and "the repeated occurrence of boils should always be looked upon as an indication of lowered vitality."

It has been found from actual clinical tests that remarkable results are obtained in treating these complaints with Fleischmann's Yeast.

Today Fleischmann's Yeast is everywhere recognized as a valuable "conditioner." It is a fresh food which supplies in rich quantities the newly discovered vitamins known to be lacking from many of our foods. It thus corrects lowered vitality which is so often the underlying cause of these minor ailments.

To protect themselves against these complaints many are making Fleischmann's Yeast a part of their regular diet. It is a highly digestible food assimilated like any other fresh food. You will like its fresh, distinctive flavor and the clean, wholesome taste it leaves in your mouth.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast before or between meals—from one to three cakes a day. Only one precaution: if troubled with gas dissolve yeast first in very hot water. This does not affect the efficacy of the yeast. You will like Fleischmann's Yeast spread on toast or crackers, dissolved in milk or fruit-juices, or just plain. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast and get it fresh daily.

Send 4 cents in stamps for the interesting booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." So many inquiries are coming in daily for this booklet that it is necessary to make this nominal charge to cover cost of handling and mailing. Address THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, 701 Washington Street, New York, N. Y.

To clear the skin

Treatment with Fleischmann's Yeast has proved very successful in clearing the skin of impurities and blemishes. In 17 cases of pimples and blackheads treated in leading hospitals Fleischmann's Yeast brought about improvement or cure in periods of time ranging from 1 week to 3 months. The same good results were seen in 8 cases of red, blotchy faces, and in 16 cases of boils the cure was remarkably quick.

To keep the skin clean and correct pimples or boils, eat 1 to 2 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily. In acute cases of pimples and severe cases of boils be sure to consult your doctor.
