U. G. Powell Testifies in Behalf of Lower Grain Rates -Shows Hardships Now Imposed.

By E. C. SNYDER.

Washington, Aug. 23 .- (Special Telegram.)-Nebraska got its second wind at the grain and hay railroad rate hearing before the Interstate Commerce commission when Sate Railway Commissioner Thorne Brown of Lincoln, who is representng Nebraska at the hearings, called U. G. Powell of Lincoln, expert rate man and statistician of the Nebraska railway commission, to the witness

Mr. Powell was in the witness chair for less than three-quarters of an hour and made what was considered a good witness for those contending before the commission for railroad rate reductions.

Earn More Than Share.

In testyfing and in cross-examin ation by attorneys for the railroad, Mr. Powell insisted that grain earns for the railroads more than a fair share of the revenue when compared with other freight that moves in large quantities. He also contended that coarse grain, particularly corn is unduly burdened now by freight tates by reason of the fact that Direcor General McAdoo, in 1918, had raised the corn freight rate up to the wheat rate, thereby giving it an extra upward jump compared with

Mr. Powell showed that at the time this was done corn was worth about as much as wheat and so it stood the extra increase, as he ex-pressed it, "quite handily." Now, however, he said, the price of corn has slumped so much fister even than the price of wheat that when coupled up with the extra increase in the freight rate, which it received during the past four years, it is far too heavily oppressed.

Compares Earnings.

To support his testimony that both wheat and corn earn more than their fair share of the railroad sevenue, he compared the carload earnings on various grains with such other commodities as cement, petroleum, ap ples and lemons from California outter and eggs from Iowa and Ne braska to Chicago, agricultural implements from Chicago and lumber from the south.

With Mr. Powell's testimony the group of middle west states completed their case in asking the Inter-state Commerce commission to Interstate Commerce commission to grant rate reductions and tomorrow the carriers will present their side of the question. It is expected they will consume about two days in testi-

Going to the World's Series:

Won't cost you a cent--The Bee pays all expenses

Do you want to go to the world series at the expense of The Bee? Would you like to see the galaxy of stars fight for the championship this year? We know you would. We'll make a bet that every fall since you got out of short trousers you have envied the fellow who has been to see the world series games, and have wished more than once that you were lucky enough to be in his boots.

Now you have a chance. The Bee will pay your expenses to see the world series games, and you can get this wonderful trip without it costing you a cent. This means railroad transportation both ways, Pullman berth, meals enroute, hotel expenses and grandstand tickets. What more could you want?

The opportunity is here! But not for sleepers. You'll get caught napping off second unless you get busy and let it be known you want to go. Go to The Bee office and see Mr. Parsons, or write and let him know you want to make the trip. Call him by phone and make an evening appointment if you can't get around in the day time.

Not a Contest

Call on Mr. Parsons at The Bee Office for details. If you live out of town, write a letter
