

Killing of Page County Sheriff Is Re-Enacted

Witnesses Tell of Shooting at Trial of Hickman Brothers for Murder in Atlantic.

Atlantic, Ia., Aug. 24.—(Special Telegram.)—Witnesses in the trial of Arthur and Ben Hickman, charged with killing Albert Patton, Page county deputy sheriff, following the holdup of a crap game at Shenandoah, February 12, re-enacted the holdup and the later shooting of the officer at Bingham.

Under pressure of the court the jury was completed last evening. It is composed of Fred Clausen, Louis Holste, Jesse Knoke, Harry Marlow, Nels Neilson, Lloyd Neff, P. C. Pedersen, Emil Rabe, Lester Smith, Fred Wollenhaupt, R. A. McGrew, F. Nelson. Nine are farmers, two are merchants and one is a clerk.

J. F. Bloom, Harry Mace, Lacey McKee, W. H. Atwood and other witnesses identified the defendants as the pair who staged the holdup in the railroad yards at Shenandoah.

Witness Gets Laugh. McKee brought a laugh from the audience, when he told of the generosity of the bandits. They had taken all his money and he asked them to leave him enough for supper. They gave a dollar. McKee said he had tried to hold out on the bandits, but without success. They took $65 from him and Atwood lost $30. He and McKee were the heaviest losers. Most of what McKee had was winnings in the game.

The killing of Patton was described by Atwood, and J. P. Garrett, city marshal of Shenandoah. Both were positive Patton fell following the first shot fired and which, said the witnesses, came from a pile of ties near the station at Bingham, to which place Patton and his companions had gone to capture the holdup bandits. As the train pulled into Bingham, Atwood recognized the Hickmans walking along the track, so he testified. It is the contention of the state the Hickmans took refuge behind the pile of ties and shot the deputy sheriff.

Became Excited. Atwood admitted he became "very excited" after the first shot had been fired and that he sought safety on the train. Garrett says Patton fell following the flash of a gun from the direction of the tie pile and expired almost immediately.

In his opening statement to the jury, Attorney Hess, for the defense, declared the state must prove conclusively which of the two Hickmans, if either, fired the shot which killed Patton. In case the state fails in this, the jury must find the defendants not guilty, declared the attorney.

Woman Socialist Is Abducted by K. K. K.

Mason City, Ia., Aug. 24.—Mrs. Ida Crouch Hazlett, socialist speaker, was abducted and carried into the country by a group of men identifying themselves as "the Ku Klux Klan" when she attempted to speak here last night. She was taken beyond Nora Springs, an hour's automobile ride from Mason City. Two men who attempted to defend her are reported to have been slightly injured. A large crowd gathered and interrupted her speech by throwing eggs. A band also followed her around from one point to another when she attempted to get away from its noise. After her abduction, the literature which she had left behind was burned by the crowd.

Pastor Arraigned On Murder Charge

Alleged Slayer of Priest Is Given Preliminary Hearing.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 24.—The preliminary hearing of Rev. E. R. Stephenson, charged with murder in connection with the shooting to death of Father James E. Coyle, Catholic priest, was adjourned late yesterday until this morning after examination of half a dozen witnesses. The hearing is expected to be completed today. The grand jury began its session Tuesday and is expected to act on the case today, regardless of the outcome of the preliminary hearing, according to County Solicitor Joseph Tate.

Chief Deputy Fred McDuff, one of the witnesses, told of a conversation with Stephenson in the hospital ward of the county jail soon after the shooting of Father Coyle. McDuff testified that Stephenson declared he was passing the rectory when Father Coyle called him in and informed him that his daughter had been married that day to Pedro Gussman and that the priest had performed the ceremony. Stephenson, according to Deputy McDuff, said he told the priest he had "treated me like a dirty dog." Father Coyle told him not to repeat that statement, he quoted Stephenson as saying, and when he repeated the words Coyle knocked him down, hurting his side and foot. The priest then moved his hand toward his hip pocket, Stephenson claimed, according to the deputy, whereupon he fired three shots. One bullet passed through Father Coyle's head.

Nation's Dry Chief Won't Say When His Job Will End

Federal Prohibition Director Admits He Has Gigantic Task—Predecessor Said Would Take Century.

By W. H. ATKINS. Washington, Aug. 24.—Roy A. Haynes, "dry" battler of Ohio, now prohibition chief of the United States, is a double-barreled optimist. But as a prophet he's as shy as a March hare.

Just ask Haynes what he thinks about the future aridity of America, and he will tell of his hopes, his ambitions and his air-tight plans for liquor control.

But as for a flat prediction of when the United States will begin to reduce its present "wetness and become actually dry, in fact as well as in theory, he settles back in complacent silence and merely smiles.

To those who are yet to know the liquor law boss at close range it may be said that he wears an expansive and gracious smile that invites admiration because the man who wears it perceives must smile, or fall in despair in a task that means constant vicissitude.

Getting Toe Held.

But behind this smile there may be much significance. Significance possible because Haynes, just getting a toe hold on his job, has begun to realize the immensity of the problems set before him for solution.

To Be Fair.

Haynes, in a good beginning, says he wants to be fair and square in liquor law enforcement. He does not want to grow frantic, acquiescing to demands of dry advocates regardless of the terms of the law, nor does he want to be so lenient that the bars will be let down for law breaking.

Former Governor of Michigan Slays Bear In Hand-to-Hand Fight

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 24.—Former Governor Charles E. Osborne of Michigan engaged in a desperate hand-to-hand battle in St. Mary's river Monday with a black bear and emerged victorious only after stunning the animal with blows from an axe and then choking it to death with his hands.

Mr. Osborne, who is 61 years old and said to be an experienced bear hunter, was alone in a small boat when the bear appeared, swimming toward him. Witnesses on shore saw the animal capsize the boat as it attempted to climb aboard while Mr. Osborne brought the axe down several times on its head. Realizing that his blows were having no effect, the hunter finally seized the bear by its throat and held on until the animal was dead.

As for beverage liquors, however, it is his ambition to slam the lid on so tight that the country will be as dry as the well-known Sahara. He is careful to qualify his hopes, however, with the emphatic statement that they are not linked up with a prediction.

Can't Predict.

"I cannot predict when the country will be dry," said Haynes. "That is scarcely possible now. We hope will be done to improve enforcement and banish liquor for unlawful uses."

Haynes does not wish to appear in the light of a prophet. He takes the view that one might as well predict when the world will come to an end. He expressed interest in the prediction of his predecessor, John F. Kramer, that possibly a hundred years would pass before prohibition becomes an actual fact. He weighed that prediction thoughtfully. He would say nothing to upset it, realizing that Kramer had had considerable inside knowledge of conditions and must have based his well-considered statement upon something else than loose guessing.

HAY FEVER

I Don't Ask a Cent of Pay Unless Orozoro Gives You INSTANT RELIEF

The man who comes along and tells you good people that he has a new cure or a new relief for hay fever is immediately under suspicion of trying to get your money for nothing. I have been victimized so often the same way that I don't blame you for being skeptical.

But my friends, let me tell you that I have really found an honest-to-goodness relief for hay fever, which I want to pass on to you. My name is M. E. MURPHY, I don't think anything will ever cure it.

Before I offered my preparation to the public I saw it work wonders—first on myself, then on my friends. I have seen men who couldn't sleep at night take one treatment and sleep like a babe. I have seen men who usually go away to a different climate for the season stay home and work as if they had no hay fever.

I am therefore so positive that my preparation (Orozoro) will give YOU no relief and practically INSTANT RELIEF that I will prove my claims or else charge you nothing. Just send me your name on the coupon below (don't send any money) and I shall send you by return mail a 12-course treatment (enough to last a season). When it comes you pay the postman my special half price (if $2.00). You try it one week. If it doesn't do what I say, fire it back and I'll return your $2.00.

M. E. Murphy, Orozoro Co., 318 Burkley Bldg., Omaha, Neb. Gentlemen: Please send me 12 complete treatments of Orozoro and mail's case at once. I will pay it one week, and if I find it doesn't do what you say to send back my money on receipt of returned unused portion.

Average Reduction on All Models Since Last Year

Price Now—$1895

And remember that for five years, including last year, when it sold at $2600, the Hudson Super-Six was the largest selling fine car in the world.

At its new price of $1895 doesn't it represent incomparably the greatest value in the fine car market?

No judicious buyer today makes his choice without comparing not only the present price of cars, but also their relative values as indicated by the position and reputation they have held for years.

Such comparison today directs intensified interest upon Hudson.

It Redoubles Hudson's Value Advantage

There is no need to call attention to the quality, ability and distinction of Hudson. Its leadership in this is a long acknowledged position. It is now in its sixth year as the largest selling fine car. In every way that proof can be offered it has established its right to that eminence.

Many of its official records are of five years' standing. They have been challenged incessantly. Isn't it significant that five years of intensive competition has produced no rival to outstrip them?

And consider that many Super-Sixes are today rendering smooth, dependable duty after more than 100,000 miles of service.

Does any car within its new price range deserve consideration upon the basis of comparative proofs?

And among higher priced cars where will you find any desirable quality that Hudson at $1895 does not give in equal measure?

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Why are They So Popular?

Is it price? Yes, but not entirely so.
Is it economical upkeep and maintenance? Yes, but that is not all.
Is it endurance? Yes, that has much to do with it, yet that is not all.

It is the downright dependability of the car, the fact that it is always ready and willing; the fact that it is easily handled and controlled in small spaces; the fact that it will go everywhere any car will go, and a great many places where others won't go.

It is all of these things that make it the every-duty car for business and for pleasure. Why not a Ford Touring Car—Now? Come in—let's talk it over.
