Textiles Show Trend to Return To Normal Times

Large Mills Have Orders in Excess of Capacity and Get Help From Smaller Concerns.

By HOLLAND.

In late October of last year the managers of one of the large textile corporations, whose mills are in New England, discovered hints ..ot strong but yet encouraging which gave promise of a change for the better in that industry. This corporation had figured up its losses, charged them off and also began to liquidate its obligations to the banks. Late in December the orders had come in sufficiently to justify the resumption of operation in some of the mills. This was one of the first indications that a change was under way. Today this corporation is op-erating its various plants to full capacity. It is in every vay upon easy street, according to its managers, and there is confidence that this prosperity will continue and will also be shared in by other textile
