Sale of $7,500,000 Rail Securities Made at Par Value

New York Firm Takes Trust Certificates Held by Government Following Announcement Last Week.

Chicago Tribune-Omnha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, Sept. 12.-The sale of $7,500,000 par value of railroad equipment trust certificates by the United States railroad administration to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York at par, plus accrued interest, was announced by the director general of railroads. Officials expressed themselves that a market would similarly found for from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 of the securities. The announcement confirmed officially reports in circulation in fianncial eircles in the last week that the railroad administration would sell railroad securities held by it and use the money thus obtained in making final settlements with the railroads for the period of federal control. The railroad administration has approximately $310,000,000 of equipment trust certificates which it obtained when it funded for 10 years at 6 per cent, indebtedness of the of equipment certificates was the first of a series of sales of those securities which they said will be sold in lots as offers came in for them at par. Some officials ex-pressed the belief that the government would be able to sell as much as $250,000,000 of the securities.

Officials pointed out that if a large part of the railroad securities now held by the government can be disposed of, it would not become necessary, when congress has passed the ending railroad financing bill, to use the power conferred by that measure to as great an extent as would be necessary had the government found itself unable to sell the

Theirs is one of the stellar offerings this week at the Orpheum, and another is that of Wilfred Clarke, who is capitally assisted by an excellent company in the presentation of the laughable comedy, "Now What?" The show this week has two featured acts. One of these, a song cycle, is presented by Rita Gould, and the other is a clever comedy skit, "The Young 'Uns," effectively done by Avey and O'Nell. In point of combined artistic and popular elements, the show this week rises higher than any of the previous entertalnments offered this season,

One of the most wonderful casts ever assembled is the one which interprets the 50 characters in 'The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse,' Rex Ingram's remarkable visualization of Vincente Blasco Ibanez's novel, which is the attraction at the Brandels all this week with matiness daily. Rudolph Valentine and Allice Terry head the company, which includes such fine actors as Wallace Beery, Stuart Holmes, Pomeroy Cannon, Mabel Von Buren, Nigel de Bruller, "Bull" Montana, Virginia Warwick, Joseph Swickard, Jacques d'Auray, Bripstey Shaw, Brigetta Clark, Broadwitch Turner, John Sanpolls, Derek Ghent, Nobel Jokason, Harry Northrup, Edward Connelly, M'lle, Dolorez, Beatrice Dominez, Ibabel Keith, Mark Fenton and many others of equal repuie. A tremendous musical setting has been arranged for "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," by Ernest Luz, and it will accompany the picture at every performance rendered by a symphony orchestra of 20 pieces.
