The marriage service was read by Dr. C. C. Cissell before the fireplace banked with palms and ferns. Two large baskets of white chrysanthemums were at each end of the fireplace and the mantel was covered with white roses, above which was smilar interwoven with white asters. Pink roses were used through the rooms.

Miss Katherine Allen, sister of the bride, and maid-of-honor, wore a gown of pink tulle and carried a basket of pink roses. In her hair was a ribbon ornament to match her gown.

The bride was gowned in white satin made with short sleeves and round neck trimmed with princess lace and with an apron effect of lace over the skirt. The long train was of white satin and her tulle veil fell from a dutch cap of lace made by an aunt of the bride, Miss Mary Mitchell. The bride's bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley with a shower of sweetheart roses. Victor Hallquist attended Mr. Dunham.

He said he had never seen anything like it in the countries of Europe or America where he has been.

Preparations had been made for 1,000 people and 2,500 presented themselves.
