Doctor Who Attended Dead Actress at Hotel Located By Sheriff—Arraignment Of Star Continued.

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—A missing witness in the Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle case, Dr. Arthur Beardslee, the Hotel St. Francis physician, who treated Miss Virginia Rappe before her death, was located in a telegram received from the sheriff of Douglas county, Nevada, at Minden.

Dr. Beardslee yesterday left for Bridgeport, Mono county, California, on a hunting trip, according to the notification given District Attorney Mathew F. Brady, who telegraphed to the Mono county sheriff to order Beardslee to proceed to San Francisco at once.

His testimony is expected to throw light on the condition of Miss Rappe the first day after the Labor day party in Arbuckle's suite at the St. Francis, from which her death resulted. Dr. Beardslee had been summoned as a witness at the coroner's inquest, but could not be located.

Arbuckle in Court.

Arbuckle's brief appearance in the superior court to obtain a continuance on the manslaughter charge pending against him completed his present schedule of trips outside the city prison until next Thursday when his preliminary examination begins before Police Judge M. J. Lazarus on the murder complaint sworn to by Mrs. Bambina M. Delmont, a member of the party in Arbuckle's rooms.

Mrs. Mae Tamm, another member of the party, was questioned by Brady, who said she persisted in her original statement that she was the person who called Assistant Manager Harry J. Boyle of the hotel on the telephone for assistance. At the inquest, Mrs. Delmont said she did the phoning. Brady said some important items of information were learned from her and her statements might lead to taking up certain new phases of the case before the grand jury Monday night.

Manager Thomas J. Coleman of the Hotel St. Francis and other executives and employees were called before Robert H. McCormack, assistant United States attorney in charge of liquor prosecutions, for questioning regarding the origin of 20 quarts of liquor said to have been consumed at Arbuckle's party.

Crowd Kept Back.

Today's trip from the city prison down the hall of justice to the court room of Judge Harold Lunderback was an uneventful one for Arbuckle, with no pushing, jostling, or curious crowd waiting for his arrival. Police kept the crowd off the court room floor.

There was no battle of attorneys over the future course of the case, as by consent of both sides the manslaughter charge preferred in a grand jury indictment was continued until Monday, September 26.

Seats in the spectators' section of the court room were plentiful for those able to penetrate the police group outside the door, while inside the rail the bulky film comedian was able to slide into a leather covered armchair at the attorney's table.

Prisoners from the county jail entered in handcuffs and sat in the dock, but the bailiff explained that Arbuckle was in custody of the city police, who did not always handcuff their charges.

A group of women from the women's vigilante committee occupied a front row of seats. Arbuckle's face bore the same downcast expression it has ever since he was looked for murder a week ago and as he left the court room he cast an appealing glance for sympathy at the newspaper men.

Reserve Board Head Raps Nebraska Banks

undertaken to say to a member bank just what particular loans it should call or ask be reduced.

"I was formerly in the banking business myself and know something of banking psychology. Banks as a rule, do not like to admit to customers that they are short of loanable funds nor do they like to stir up enemies in declining to make loans or in asking for reductions. I know that in many cases they have found the federal reserve bank or the federal reserve board a convenient buffer and have stated to borrowers or would-be borrowers that they would like to grant extensions asked for or to make loans desired, but that the federal reserve would not permit it. Such a procedure has a tendency to relieve the situation as far as the local bank is concerned, but it is not altogether fair to the federal reserve system.

"The federal reserve board has repeatedly issued public statements calling the attention of the banks of the country to the importance of granting adequate credits to farmers and cattle men and while the federal reserve board is not a central bank and can not discount any paper itself, it is assured by all federal reserve banks that they are ready to extend liberal accommodations to all member banks in the way of rediscounting eligible paper."

Mr. Harding says it is for the member banks primarily and the reserve banks secondarily, to determine whether farmers' warehouse receipts are acceptable as the basis of loans and rediscounts.

Shows Up Banks.

Showing up the profiteering by banks or rediscounts, Mr. Harding instanced 111 notes aggregating $1,031,835 discounted at 6 per cent for 21 banks by the Omaha reserve bank branch on September 9. On 52 of these notes, the banks had charged the borrowers 10 per cent, the Nebraska maximum, 21 notes, 9 per cent, 2, 8 1/2 per cent, 14, 8 per cent, 13, 7 1/2 per cent, 5, 7 per cent, 2, 6 1/2 per cent and 2, 6 per cent.

"Where a bank in Nebraska," says Mr. Harding, "is able to rediscount at the federal reserve bank at 6 per cent per annum, the profit is 66-2-3 per cent. If the paper is taken at 9 per cent the profit is 50 per cent, or if at 8 per cent, the profit is 33-1-3 per cent."

"I sincerely hope that banks generally will recognize the fact that by charging lower rates of interest they would be building up their own communities and would in the long run, reap greater profit themselves, than would be the case if they should continue to charge all the law allowed or all the traffic will bear."

"The abrogation of the progressive rate had made it possible for banks in Nebraska to make a large percentage of profit on their rediscount transactions with the federal reserve bank, but the daily statements made to the board do not indicate that the Nebraska banks, as a rule, have started this advantage with their borrowers. Is there any reason to believe that in case the discount rate at the federal reserve bank at Kansas City should be further reduced the Nebraska banks would give their customers lower rates than they do at present?"

Says Senator Glass Mistaken In Quoting Statements Made in Speech At London.

Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, Sept. 18.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, replying to an inquiry from the National Merchant Marine association, declares that Senator Carl Glass, former secretary of the treasury, was mistaken in quoting him as stating in a talk in London, that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own.

The restriction of the present shipping laws, Admiral Sims says, he pointed out, would make it difficult to develop an adequate trade fleet under the American flag. The American navy, he adds, would be of little defensive value if it were not for the American merchant marine.

The two versions of the London conversation are at variance, it is shown in the correspondence between the National Merchant Marine association and Admiral Sims. The letter of inquiry from the association, dated Washington, September 8, 1921, addressed to the admiral, asked him for a statement of his views.

Replying under date of September 12, Admiral Sims writes: "I am not surprised that Senator Glass was much amazed if he understood me to state in London that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own."

"Just how far this is from what I ever have or could have thought of granting adequate credits to farmers and cattle men, that they would like to grant extensions asked for or to make loans desired, but that the federal reserve would not permit it. Such a procedure has a tendency to relieve the situation as far as the local bank is concerned, but it is not altogether fair to the federal reserve system."

take an unfair advantage of the industrial situation. Mr. Jewell said he would demand of the board that "for once, it meet a situation in a practical way" and announce the remaining rules simultaneously.

"When the board announces the substitute rules, our committee will take a ballot," he said. "If the rules are not satisfactory and the ballot says so, we will take the result to the railroads. If they refuse to grant reasonable demands, they will have to stand responsible and answer to the people."

Color Scheme Planned For Prisons of Paris

Paris, Sept. 18.—French jailers have taken heed of the teachings of psychologists which emphasize the fact that the colors used to decorate people's offices and homes have an enormous effect on their health and tempers.

No longer will the cells be painted red or black, for red irritates and fosters unmanageable and murderous tempers; black only makes blacker the temperament of criminals. Therefore the edict has gone forth that only clear and "elevating" colors will be used. The cells are to be painted in white, with wide strips of brilliant gay shades near the ceiling and wainscoting. The white will purify criminal minds, and the brilliancy will make them gay.

Keith County Fair Largely Attended; Exhibit Halls Filled

Ogallala, Neb., Sept. 18.—(Special.)—The Keith county fair held at Ogallala proved to be one of the best and largest attended fairs ever held in this section of the state. Over 900 entries of farm products and poultry were exhibited by 400 different people, from all parts of the county.

The live stock exhibit was up to its usual standard. All three of the large stock barns were filled to capacity with pure bred hogs, cattle and horses.

Attendance was good, but cut down by misty weather the first two days. Rain insurance carried by the fair association could not be collected as there was not enough rain to really call it a rain, but just enough to keep the crowds away.

Music was furnished by the bands from Bruce and Ogallala. The Keith county chapter of the Red Cross maintained a complete emergency hospital in a large tent.

Teeth You Love to Show

Find out how millions get them

This offer is to women who desire to look their best. To men who find that tobacco stains, etc., make their teeth look dingy. To young folks who know what beauty lies in glistening teeth.

It is to all who have learned that old methods are wrong. And that, despite the tooth brush, tooth discolor and decay.

Clouded by a film

Teeth are clouded by a dingy film. At first it is viscous—you can feel it. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Old ways of brushing do not effectively combat it. Much of the film remains. Then night and day it may do ceaseless damage. Most tooth troubles are now traced to film, and those troubles have been constantly increasing.

It is the film-coats that discolor, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

Science combats it

Dental science, after long research, has found ways to combat film. Able authorities have amply proved them. Now leading dentists, here and abroad, advise their daily use.

These effective methods are embodied in

Red Stevedores Pilfer Food Sent To Aid Russians

American Threatened When Attempt is Made to Prevent Looting—Several Strikes Called Daily.

By DONALD DAY.
Chicago Tribune Cable, Copyright, 1921.

Reval, Sept. 18.—Soviet stevedores detailed to unload the first ship arriving in Petrograd with American foodstuffs did not attempt to hide their pilferings of supplies, according to Capt. Ole Olson of the Danish steamer Phoenix, which is now in quarantine at Reval.

The stevedores, relates the captain, used hooks in handling the sugar, rice and flour sacks, ripping them open and also they broke open cases of milk—all before the eyes of American relief administration officers.

While attempting to prevent the looting, an American was threatened by the workers, who declared several strikes daily, using the slightest pretense, continued the captain. On one occasion the same American took away the hooks to prevent the ripping of more sacks, for which the workers threatened to throw the stevedores overboard and then they declared a strike until the hooks were returned.

Captain Olson said that he was powerless to interfere because the ship's crew numbered 16 while there were 150 Russians.

"When Sunday arrived," declared the captain, "the workers found that only cases of milk remained to be unloaded so they refused to work. When they were finally persuaded to finish the job, they began to break open more cases. When the ship was unloaded, 10 empty cases were found in the hold. The men appeared to be barely able to lift them during the day and they found many excuses for going ashore. We noticed that they had tied their trousers around their ankles and had filled their pants legs with rice, sugar, cocoa and flour. Walking along the docks, we saw tiny streams of sugar, etc., trickling from the holes in their trousers."

"We never had more than six soldiers for guards and they stole as much as the stevedores. It was difficult to be angry with them for they looked to be half starved."

Newspaper Man Leaps to His Death

Washington Correspondent Commits Suicide by Jumping From Bridge.

Washington, Sept. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—Raymond B. Morgan, Washington correspondent Omaha World-Herald and Lincoln State Journal, ended his life early this morning by leaping from the Connecticut avenue bridge, falling approximately 225 feet to the rugged banks of Rock Creek in Rock Creek park.

He said he would be gone but a short time. It was several hours later, while Mrs. Morgan was searching for him, that his body was discovered.

Mr. Morgan came to Washington from Nebraska as local correspondent for several Nebraska newspapers, among them the Lincoln State Journal, which he had represented up to the time of his death. He joined the local New York World staff a number of years ago, covering the house of representatives for this paper. While on the house assignment he became personally acquainted with the majority of the members.
