

Yanks Virtually Clinch Pennant by Cleveland Losing to Chicago

Yanks Tighten Grip on Flag By Winning

Blank Athletics in Opening Game of Series—New York Needs One More Victory To Win Race.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—By defeating Philadelphia today, 5 to 0, New York tightened its hold upon the American league lead. As Cleveland was beaten by Chicago, the Yankees need but one more victory to clinch the pennant.

Shawkey allowed the Athletics but four hits and these he kept well scattered. The Yankees garnered nine hits off Harris, three of which were for extra bases.

In the second inning, Pipp was safe on Dyer's boot, went to second on Ward's sacrifice, and scored on McNally's triple. Shawkey's single scored McNally.

Miller's triple and Meusel's single accounted for a run in the third. Peckinpaugh's home run scored Fester in the seventh.

Babe Ruth was not in the lineup, owing to illness. He is expected to join the club tonight. Score:

Starts "Comeback" Tour October 4th

Joe Stecher (Dodge, Neb.) heavyweight wrestler, former holder of the world's championship, has been matched to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis at San Francisco next Tuesday, according to word received from Joe by the writer last night.

Following his match on the coast, Stecher will start toward the east, where he expects to open his fall campaign with flying colors.

Champions Lose Aggressiveness After Winning Crown—Jack Dempsey More Cautious in Ring

By FRANK G. MENKE.

EVER notice that whenever a fighter reaches the throne he's no longer the spectacular, aggressive, cyclonic individual of his aspirant days? There's a reason.

It's caution. Soon as those birds achieve the one tinselled crown they become fearfully jealous of it, and use every means in their power to guard it from seizure by another.

Some duck taking chances, either by the simple process of long loafing spells, or by mingling only with "lemons" who haven't a chance to win the jewels.

But others, though, are brave enough to go right along battling the toughest of the tough; battles no more in the style whirlwind, irresistible, "do-or-die" fashion which brought one crowd after another to its feet in a hysteria of cheers.

Jack Dempsey is of the latter sort. The heavyweight ranks never knew a man who was more fearfully aggressive, than the human tornado from Utah. The sheer fury of his attack rolled back, then crushed and annihilated one foe after another.

Those who saw him in his fights with Fulton, Morris and Willard—careers of the prize ring—never will forget him. The bell clanged for his battle with Fulton, and even before the sound seemed to have reached the audience, Fulton was on the floor, a knockout victim.

Willard was the quickest and the worst beaten champion the game has known. For a few seconds after the giant came to a dramatic end.

But since that day—what a different Dempsey it has been. He's no less wonderful as a fighting machine; no less powerful; no less amazing in his ability to take punishment. But no longer is he spectacular—no longer does he rush like a hurricane.

Caution stays him. He recalls that he is champion—remembers that he has a priceless possession that must be protected. And so he fights now a bit slowly, with extreme care—and without the reckless abandon and electrifying daring of the pre-championship days.

What has happened in Dempsey's case is only history repeating itself. The greatest fights of Jim Corbett's career were those before he beat Sullivan, the one against the immortal John L.—and the one with Jeffries when he was striving to regain the crown.

Fitzsimmons' greatest battles were really those before he was champion—and after he lost the title. Jeffries was possessed of physical powers and a certain cleverness that might have won most of his bouts in a twinkling. But from the day that Jeff became champion his style really changed. Recall him in his fights with Corbett, Sharkey and the second with Fitz and you'll rarely recall him doing anything else but operating along cautious lines.

Whatever of the spectacular entered into Jeff's fights while champion was furnished by the opponents.

Kerr's Hurling Enables Sox to Blank Champs

Indians to Win Flag Must Cop All Its Remaining Games And New York Lose Three.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—With Dick Kerr pitching masterly, Chicago virtually ruined Cleveland's chances in the American league race today, when he shut out the world's champions, 5 to 0.

Cleveland, to top New York, must win its three remaining games, and the Sox must win their remaining three. The margin between the pennant contenders tonight was two and a half games.

Kerr celebrated a day set aside in his honor by holding Cleveland to six hits and with the aid of sensational fielding did not allow a Cleveland player to pass second.

After the Sox scored two runs in the first, Cleveland played a listless game. In the first Johnson led off with a single, and took second on Strunk's out. After Collins had filed to Evans, Hooper drove a single to center, scoring Johnson, Hooper taking second. Sheely followed with another single, scoring Hooper.

Pitcher Sotheron was succeeded by Caldwell in the second. He fared well until the sixth, when, after two were out, Chicago scored another run. Most singled to left and Mulligan followed with a hit to the same place. Mostil raced home when Evans booted the ball.

The Sox scored another run in the seventh, after two were out. Strunk hit to center, and as a result of Speaker's slow fielding, stretched it into a double. Collins scored Strunk with a single. In the eighth Mulligan grounded to Caldwell, who threw wide to Burns, permitting Mulligan to reach second. Schalk's triple scored him. Score:

Plans Hunting Trips Dr. Conlin to Visit Sand Hill This Year More Game, He Says

Dr. Frank M. Conlin asserts that this fall is to be his hunting year and that he plans several trips to the Sand Hill lakes this season.

Doctor Conlin has always used the River and Horseshoe lake as his shooting points, but intends to have some real sport this season.

Horseshoe lake is all right," he states, "but there are so many hunters on it that a bird hasn't got a chance—and the river requires boats and all sorts of things in order to get any real good shooting."

Last season the doctor could be found almost any morning at Horseshoe lake.

Double Defeat Puts Pirates Out of Race

National Pennant Goes to Giants by Cardinals Defeating Pittsburgh in Twin Bill.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—The Cardinals eliminated Pittsburgh as a pennant hope today by winning a double-header, 5 to 4 and 3 to 1, the afternoon going but six innings, due to darkness. The first game ended in the 10th inning. By the double victory the Cardinals provided themselves with the chance of tying the Pirates for second place, which may be accomplished by winning the remaining three games from the Pirates. Score:
