Former Soldiers in Session Unanimously Pass Resolutions to Continue Fight For Americanization.

1,000 Join in Big Parade

Freemont, Neb., Sept. 30.—(Special Telegram.)—Amid a wild demonstration of cheers and handclapping, the Nebraska American Legion convention here unanimously passed resolutions to continue their fight for the enforcement of the Keck-Norval law. The Legion voted to endeavor to secure an amendment to the state constitution remedying defects in litigation in the courts shows defects in the law. Healed by Col. H. J. Paul of the Nebraska National guard and former brigadier-general of the Sandstorm legion, over 1,000 former service men in uniform paraded today. The Lincoln post had led the parade in wearing the feet of the marchers. Over 50 posts of the state carried a post flag in the march. The parade was lined with cheering spectators. The parade won the biggest turnout in the history of the legion. A truck decorated with a banner. It carried the "40 and 8" banner.

Will Continue Fight. The resolutions firmly announced the intention of the legion to bitterly oppose any attempt to teach the English language in the grade schools. They stated that all real Americans want only the English language taught their children and if other languages are taught in the schools to see that while they are in the country they are not being turned into foreigners. The resolution stated that the light for the enforcement of the law was for the benefit of future generations.

The late commander and the executive committee were instructed to continue the fight in the state and federal courts if necessary unless defects are shown in the law. If it is shown to be unconstitutional, the committee was instructed to attempt to secure an amendment to the state constitution embodying the principle of the law. The resolutions stated that the present law does not strike at religious or educational freedom.

Glen Coffey of Lincoln, editor of the Midwest Veteran, was voted the homeliest man at the convention and played the part of the "beast" in "Beauty and the Beast" before a movie camera. Los Angeles Movie Colony Takes Arbuckle to Bosom

By EDWARD J. DOHERTY. Chicago Tribune-Omaha Bee Special Wire. Los Angeles, Sept. 30.—The Arbuckle mansion in West Adams street is ablaze with lights tonight. Large limousines drive up the street to the house and groups of men and women run, covered by parasols, up the entrance. "Fatty" has come home, bringing a wife, has come in triumph from San Francisco, where they tried to hang him on a murder charge in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, movie actress. The movie actors and the actresses are paying their respects to "Fatty" who has come "out of a trap" and to his wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, who has returned to her native town after five years. It is a glittering assemblage in the mansion, a happy crowd. It seems like a housewarming with a honeymoon couple and everything. The phonograph plays in one room, glad snappy ragtime and elsewhere a grand piano is telling everybody that the "gang's all here."

Smile Back on Job. Fatty smiles very much, shakes hands, murmurs, "Thanks, old boy, I know you were," or "that's a kind of you, I'm sure," rolls brown paper cigars and laughs in the way you saw him before they banned his pictures. There he is, "Fatty," fallen from his dizzy eminence trying in a dazed way to start back to the heights, a little uncertain of his ability, a little worried perhaps, as to whether his friends will help him, happy to be on the up path again and sad that he had left it.

And there, never far from him, is his wife who left him in the days of his world celebrity, and rushed back to him when he had been hurt; a wife who seems to treat him more like a dear, spoiled child than a husband. Wherever you see "Fatty" you can find Minta and somewhere in the background you see Minta's mother, who loves Arbuckle like a son.

De Valera Accepts Invitation for London Meeting

London, Sept. 30.—In a brief, business-like message, Eamon De Valera this evening informed Premier Lloyd George of his acceptance of the premier's invitation for a conference in London, October 11, on the Irish question, thus clearing the way for a momentous attempt to settle the centuries old problem between Ireland and Britain. Relief was expressed in official circles here that the difficulties which for some time seemingly threatened to prevent another conference apparently had been cleared away by the message of Mr. De Valera. The Irish question, as to the status of the Sinn Féin delegates, and no further correspondence between the premier and the Irish leader is expected. "Our respective positions have been stated and understood and we agree," the conference, not corresponding, is the most practicable and hopeful way to an understanding," said Mr. De Valera's message in announcing that the Irish delegates would meet Mr. Lloyd George on the date that the premier had set.

An airplane served as an emergency ambulance across the plains of Nebraska yesterday afternoon when it carried 12-year-old Gene Richards from Arapahoe, Neb., to Omaha to be operated upon for appendicitis. Safe in the observer's seat, little Gene nestled in her mother's arms as the plane hopped off the field at Arapahoe shortly after noon. It arrived at the Al-Sart-Ben field at 3:05, having traveled the 250 miles in two hours and five minutes. Mine Union Chief Sent To Prison

Alexander Howat Begins Sentence of Six Months Imposed Under Kansas Industrial Court Law.

Columbus, Kan., Sept. 30.—For the second time in his long and bitter battle against the enforcement of the Kansas industrial court law, Alexander Howat, chieftain of the Kansas union coal miners, went to jail today. Refusing to give a bond not to call any more strikes pending his appeal to the supreme court, a condition of taking the appeal, Howat surrendered himself to Sheriff William Harvey and was placed in the Cherokee county jail to serve a sentence of six months. He was convicted in June of having called a strike of the coal miners against the provisions of the law. With him went August Dorcny, the Kansas union vice president, convicted of the same offense and under the same sentence. Both men were fined $500.

Flays Governor Allen. Howat's farewell to the miners who gathered here by the hundreds was spoken in a long speech he made to them at the city park. Howat not only bitterly condemned the Kansas industrial court and Governor Allen, but he defended the international union of the miners for the action taken at Indianapolis, directing him to put back to work the Dean and Reliance miners. He assailed the Kansas industrial court and declared that it would have no part in making the wage contract. He said that he would not sit in a room with the real strike. "If the court wants a real strike," Howat said, "let it come down and try to get into this contract making."

Law Not Enforced. Governor Allen, Howat said, "is beginning to realize that he has a bigger job on his hands than he bargained for." Howat declared that the industrial court law had not been enforced and would not be enforced. "We say that the industrial court law is one hell of a law," Howat shouted. Howat had no statement to make before he went to jail except to call attention to the "vote of confidence" he took at the conclusion of his meeting. He asked if the miners intended to stand by him. There was a great chorus of "yes."
