

Lawyers Fight Court Award in Case 28 Years Old

Seward Attorneys Disatisfied With Compensation Awarded Them in Defunct Bank Trial.

Lincoln, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Echoes of the old suits of the Jones National Bank of Seward and other claimants against several directors of the defunct Capital National Bank of Lincoln, which failed 28 years ago, are still being heard in the Nebraska supreme court.

The scrap over $39,000 of attorney fees has not ended. J. J. Thomas and R. S. Norval of Seward and L. C. Burr of Lincoln all assisted in conducting cases at different times and the supreme court last spring awarded Thomas a total of $17,500; Burr about $9,000, and Norval $5,142. From this ruling both Thomas and Burr take exceptions. Each of them has filed a motion for rehearing. Thomas contends that Norval is entitled to no part of the big fee. Burr attacks the high bench's award to Thomas, claiming that the latter has already received more than his just proportion of the compensation and that he, Burr, is entitled to more than the court allowed him.

Mail Clerk Will Receive Reward For Routing Band

Postmaster General Hays Congratulates Youth Who "Played" With Bandits, Resulting in Death of Two.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Alving S. Page, a youthful railway mail clerk from the government for the part he played recently in breaking up an attempted robbery of a mail car near Fort Worth, Tex.

Postmaster General Hays summoned the boy to Washington today, where he told of the exploit, which resulted in the death of two of the band of robbers. In co-operation with detectives of the postal service, Page volunteered to "stand in" with the robbers after the Postoffice department had been tipped off to the intended holdup. The result was that when the bandits held up the mail train near Fort Worth, instead of getting off with a rich haul of registered mail, they were badly shot up by armed postal employees secreted in the mail car. Two of the holdup men were killed. Others of the band escaped in the darkness, but their arrest is expected shortly. Page, according to Postmaster

General Hays, is largely responsible for the exploit, which is expected to have a salutary effect in preventing further robberies of the kind. Mr. Hays stated that Page will receive not only the commendation of the department, but a substantial monetary reward besides.
