Action Taken When Informed Convict Was Promised Life Term If He Pleaded Guilty.

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 30.—Governor McRae last night stopped the electrocution of Amos Ratliff, confessed slayer of Miss Winford Frasier several weeks ago, when informed that Ratliff had confessed to the crime on promise of a life sentence.

Judge W. A. Dickinson and Prosecuting Attorney Nance at Eureka Springs will conduct an investigation of a report already confirmed here that $250 had been deposited in a Little Rock bank to be paid Claude Fuller, an attorney, when Ratliff's life is saved. Ratliff's execution was set for this morning.

Mrs. Hicks Riley, wife of a convict, yesterday stated here that she furnished the $250 and that it was to be paid to Mr. Fuller when Ratliff's sentence had been commuted.

According to a statement filed in the governor's office some time ago Ratliff's crime was one of the most atrocious ever committed in North Arkansas.

Sextet of Winning Fiddlers at "1845 Jazz" Contest

Six prize-winners in the Y. M. C. A. old fiddlers' contest; left to right: Joseph C. Green, Josiah Petty, Andrew Comstock, E. A. Gallup, John Holder and Jesse McCarty.

Eighty-three-year-old Samuel Ward, 252 Marcy street, "stepped off a few" at the annual Old Fiddlers' contest in the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night just to show how they danced back in 1845.

A gray-haired fiddler, almost as old as Samuel, furnished the music, aided by the audience, which stamped and clapped in time with the music.

In fact the jazz music of 1845, played by fiddlers ranging in age from 60 to 91, kept the audience of several hundred people stamping most of the time.

"Arkansas Traveler" and "Turkey in the Straw," played with numerous variations, were favorites with the old fiddlers.

Divided into Two Classes.

The fiddlers were divided into two classes: those 70 or over and those who had not yet reached the three score and 10 mark.

George W. Campbell, in charge of affairs, presented each fiddler and kept things going merrily. H. G. Kiddoo, 1102 Marcy street, besides contributing with his violin, took the role of a Swede comedian, and obtained laughs and applause, especially when he swung into a swift clog dance.

Winners in the "70 or over class" were: Josiah Petty, 82, of Perry, Ia., first prize; Andrew Comstock, 76, of Gretna, Neb., second prize; E. A. Gallup, 70, 1503 Binney street, third prize. "Uncle Joseph Green, 91, of 1545 Park avenue, the oldest fiddler of 'em all, won a cash prize.

"Under 70" Class.

John Holder, "over 50," won first prize in the "under 70" class. He lives in Council Bluffs. Jesse McCarty, 64, Bellevue, Neb., won second prize and C. G. Sayre, Eighteenth and Chicago streets, won third prize in this classification. Prizes were gold, silver and bronze medals.

Others participating in the contest were J. S. Silcott, 63, Fifty-third and Spalding streets; Nimrod Tishcer, 75, 115 North Twenty-fourth street; H. G. Kiddoo, Samuel Ward, F. M. Henderson, 62, 3015 South Seventeenth street; W. J. Morrison, 67, Springfield, Neb.; W. W. McGill, 60, Wisner, Neb.; Dr. H. P. Holmes, 64, Florence, and E. T.
