

A. Hospe, Piano Dealer, Married To Hazel McVey

Secret Ceremony at Moline, Ill., Two Weeks Ago. Culmination of Three Years' Acquaintance.

Sale of a piano three years ago introduced Anton Hospe, wealthy music and art dealer of Omaha, and Mrs. Laura Johnston, formerly Hazel McVey.

Two weeks ago they were married secretly in Moline, Ill.

The news was revealed in Omaha yesterday afternoon.

The bridal pair are making their home in the Blackstone hotel at present, but will move into their own bungalow at 5003 Cummer street, October 15.

"We're going to be good pals. She's the sweetest little girl in the world," said the happy bridegroom. He told of having been converted to Christian Science through his bride.

Mr. Hospe stated he does not wish to convey the impression that he is unfamiliar with the history of Miss McVey.

When the veteran Omaha piano dealer left Omaha to get married he told his step-son, George Pangle, he was going to Chicago on business and would return with a guest—Mr. Smith.

"Instead, he brought home a good-looking wife," smiled George.

Hazel McVey is Hospe's third wife. His first was Mrs. Jean R. Neigh, who died 32 years after their marriage. His second was the widow of the late "Doc" Pangle of Council Bluffs. He has three adopted children, Edward Hospe and two girls, now Mrs. Irene Zittman and Mrs. Gertrude Schoeper, all of Omaha.

The order says ever shoe shining parlor must have a sign conspicuously displayed stating the price charged and that they must then charge according to the sign. If they charge 15 cents on Saturday the sign must bear this information.
