

Canal Tolls Bill Passed By Senate

Opposition Fears Measure to Exempt U. S. Coastwise Shipping From Duty Will Complicate Arms Parley.

Clash Foreseen in House

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Chicago Tribune—Omaha Bee Leased Wire. Washington, Oct. 10.—Despite the most solemn warnings that it was voting to violate the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, the senate today passed the Burch bill exempting American coastwise shipping from payment of Panama canal tolls.

The house, to which the measure now goes, will be the scene of the real battle over this proposed discrimination, contrary to the treaty agreement, to give the ships of all nations the use of the canal on equal terms. In the house, however, the bill probably will be permitted to sleep until after the conclusion of the conference on the limitation of armaments in which the United States desires the support of Great Britain and other nations which protested in 1912 and are prepared to protest again against violation of the treaty.

Party Lines Obliterated

Party lines were completely obliterated and some curious political paradoxes were revealed in the final roll call on the bill. Senator Lodge, republican leader, voted against the measure, notwithstanding the republican platform declaring for it and President Harding's warm approval of the free toll plank. On the other hand, Senator Underwood, democratic leader, registered his vote in favor of the bill. The republicans divided, 35 in favor of the bill and 17 against it. The democrats cast 12 votes for the bill and 20 against it.

The passage of the bill, so far as the senate is concerned, completely undoes what President Wilson accomplished in 1914 when he frankly repudiated the free toll plank of the democratic platform of 1912 and after one of the most spectacular parliamentary contests waged in the capitol obtained the repeal of the free toll clause of the Panama canal act.

Text of Bill. The text of the bill follows: "Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that hereafter no toll shall be levied upon vessels passing through the Panama canal engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States.

"Section 2. That section 1 of an act entitled 'An act to amend section 5 of an act to provide for the opening, maintenance, protection and operation of the Panama canal and the sanitation and government of the canal zone, approved August 24, 1912,' which said amendatory act was passed and approved June 25, 1914, be, and the same is hereby repealed.

Four hours of animated debate preceded the roll call. The arguments were strikingly similar to those which were heard in the senate.

"Without exception" the appeal declared, "every nation invited to the conference made a treaty with Korea agreeing to use its good offices to prevent oppression in Korea, and each nation recognized Korea as an independent state."

Upper Silesian Tangle Settled by League, Report

Industrial Region Will Be Maintained as Economic Unit for 15 Years Under Commission. Buenos Aires, Oct. 10.—The industrial region of Upper Silesia will be maintained as an industrial and economic unit for 15 years, under the solution of the Upper Silesia dispute reached by the council of the league of nations, of which the Geneva correspondent of La Nacion says he has authoritatively learned the substance.

The industrial region would be administered during this period by an international commission. The territory in dispute politically would be divided into two zones under Polish and German sovereignty respectively, and while delimitation of the frontiers is not yet completed, it would be more favorable to Poland than the recent delimitation proposed by Great Britain closely following the plebiscite line with Butzbach assigned to Poland.

While there will be two distinct political zones, the industrial region would be constituted as a single economic unit with the same monetary basis and common railway and industrial administrations. According to this plan the German and Poles would continue to utilize reciprocally the advantages of the region.

The British and French governments are said to have approved the project, though Italy made some reservations.

Goerke, the banker, is alleged to have told people he had bought a block of the stock. The indictment charges that his purchase was not in good faith, but that it was on an understanding that the stock would be taken off his hands later.

Delinquent Tax Sales May Aid State in Crisis

Prompt Remittance of Money May Avert Registration of Warrants to Pay Expenses. Yanks Lead Giants By One Game

National 3 to 1 Defeat in Fifth Battle Attributed to McGraw's Refusal to Play For One Run at Time. Ruth Faints After Tally

Chicago Tribune—Omaha Bee Leased Wire. New York, Oct. 10.—For many years the base ball sharps have been contending that John J. McGraw, so long as he adheres to his "hit away" policy of offense, can never be a successful world series manager. He steadfastly refuses to order his men to play for one run at a time, rarely employs the sacrifice or squeeze plays, and puts on the run and hit strategy to a prospect worthy of derision. There was much in today's fifth game of the current big series to vindicate this opinion. The Giants led the game, by 3 runs to 1, and the edge on the series largely because McGraw dictating, every move of his athlete by signals from the bench, held out for slugging. The National leaguers dissipated no more than three excellent scoring opportunities in consequence of disdaining the martyr bunts which the canny Miller Huggins calls for at almost every opportunity.

Hoyt Finds Self. With the game count even, a great burden of responsibility rested today upon the youthful shoulders of rosy-checked Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn lad, in whom McGraw at Marlín Springs, Tex., a few years ago, failed to perceive a prospect worthy of developing. Off to a faltering start, Hoyt was aided mightily by the Giants' persistent slum-bang policy of attack and found himself about the time the Yanks tied the score at 1-1 in the third inning, and thereafter, with little confidence and cunning. In sharp contrast of Hoyt's two-hit performance of the second game, in which he blanked the Giants at 3-0, was the total of 10 hits piled up by the Giants. The young right-hander again drew a happy hitting opponent the Giants' leading twirler, Arthur Nehf, whose southpaw service won 20 games for the Stomach investment in the pennant campaign. Nehf pitched a great game, limiting the Giants to six hits, but Huggins' men displayed a happy faculty for making their hits count. The one pass Nehf issued was cashed in at the plate and a bit of masterful strategy and heroic base running by the great Babe Ruth resulted in what proved to be the winning run.

Babe Ruth Faints. Notwithstanding the numerical advantage of the Giants' safe runs, their lone run was unearned, but was born on an error by McNally, abetted by a pass to Young and scored on a fluke hit.

After the fourth, in which the Yanks again drew a happy hitting opponent the Giants' leading twirler, Arthur Nehf, whose southpaw service won 20 games for the Stomach investment in the pennant campaign. Nehf pitched a great game, limiting the Giants to six hits, but Huggins' men displayed a happy faculty for making their hits count. The one pass Nehf issued was cashed in at the plate and a bit of masterful strategy and heroic base running by the great Babe Ruth resulted in what proved to be the winning run.

These taxes, either collected from the property owners, or the property sold, if transmitted in rapid-fire order to the state treasury probably will stave off registration of warrants pending the receipt of winter taxes. Dan Cropsy, state treasurer, declared today it was a gamble whether the state would be obliged to register warrants before the taxes began pouring in. He was confident that a majority of state employees would get their money at par, but was dubious whether others to whom the state was indebted would be able to get unregistered warrants in a short time.
