

Bergdoll Papers Are Stolen From Representative

Box Containing Slacker Investigation Documents Riffled And Left in House Building.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The box containing Bergdoll investigation and private papers, stolen from the office of Representative Johnson of Kentucky Monday night, was found early today on the fifth floor of the house office building broken open and with important documents missing.

Employees of the building reported that they located the box covered with rubbish in an unoccupied storage room. After a hurried examination Mr. Johnson announced that not a single slip of paper relating to the Bergdoll investigation was left.

After a conference with Speaker Gillette, who stated he proposed to go to the bottom of the matter, Mr. Johnson called on the Washington police to obtain the finger prints of all office building police and workmen. He said he wanted these for comparison with finger prints found on the window pane of the office which the thieves cut away to gain entrance.

The papers bearing on the case of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American draft evader, who escaped to Germany, were stolen last night from the office of Representative Johnson, an active member of the congressional committee which conducted an investigation into Bergdoll's escape from the military authorities in this country.

The perpetrators of the robbery did not stop to sort out the congressman's papers but took a big cedar chest in which the Bergdoll documents were locked, together with other important papers. "All circumstances," said Representative Johnson, "point conclusively to a desire for certain important papers as the object of the robbery."

Kitty Gordon's Back Is "Back-ed" Off the Map

Flo's back was recently declared the most beautiful in the world—more nearly perfect in measurements than Kitty's.

Three noted artists—Howard Chandler Christy, James Montgomery Flagg and Harrison Fisher—are the brave men who awarded the prize to Flo. Flo's back is to be molded in plaster of paris and forwarded to Paris, where a celebrated sculptor will model it into a replica of the perfect woman. Flo's share of the spoils is to be $5,000.

Chief Says 15,000 Men Will Stand By Pennsylvania

Chairman of Trainmen Declares Employees Will Work If Road Runs Trains During Strike.

Philadelphia, Oct. 19.—C. C. Musser, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of the Pennsylvania railroad, said last night 15,000 trainmen of the Pennsylvania system would refuse to obey the order for a general railroad strike and would continue to work "if the road operates trains." The organization of which he is head recently voted against a strike.

"The fight of the unions should be with the labor board not with the Pennsylvania," he said. "The railroad has been fair in its dealings with our men and has lived up to its agreements. We have no quarrel with the management. Reports that the Pennsylvania is making secret agreements with its employees and had obtained pledges not to strike from a large percentage could not be confirmed. H. E. Cove, general chairman of the locomotive engineers and firemen, denied that the Pennsylvania railroad was shifted from the first to the fourth group in the strike order because of any fear its men would obey. He said it was the brotherhood's policy to start the walkout where there is the most disagreement.

Studebaker

This is a Studebaker Year

For the first eight months of 1921, our sales of Studebaker Cars were 41% greater than for the same period of 1920, and 101% greater than for the same period of 1919. For the same period, our sales of Repair Parts were 13% less than in 1920, and 3% less than in 1919. On September 1st, 1921, there were approximately 116,000 more Studebaker Cars in operation than two years ago, and yet our parts business is 3% less than it was in 1919. This proves conclusively that—

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

What Do Medical Doctors Think of Chiropractic?

"Great bodies move slowly," as is evidenced by the fact that the medical profession required more than 25 years to accept the discovery of the circulation of the blood by William Harvey, M. D., who was one of their own number. How much longer it will take them to accept Chiropractic nobody knows; however, it is a fact that an ever-increasing number are, like myself, adopting it to the exclusion of medicine. There are some physicians no doubt who still speak disparagingly of Chiropractic, and you will find, as a rule, that those who rant the loudest know the least. Perhaps they are not entirely to blame, for if their lack of knowledge is the cause of their opposition, what is to be said of the responsibility of the patients who tell "white lies" to their family physician when he curiously inquires as to the source of their health? When a patient whom the family doctor has treated for years for some chronic, incurable (?) disease gets well, and the physician inquires how it happened, the patient may be animated by kindness when he conceals the fact that he owes his restoration to health to Chiropractic, but he isn't doing justice to himself, the medical doctor or the Chiropractor. In spite, however, of the bitter prejudices of some of the medical profession, and the reticence of some patients, there is an ever-increasing number of M. D.'s all over the United States and Canada who understand, appreciate and practice straight Chiropractic to the exclusion of medicine and every other method. Witness the following selected at random: "80% of the population are afflicted with some form of spinal defect; that is the cause of so much nervousness, indigestion, headache, rheumatism, mental weakness and other grave and dangerous diseases."—W. H. Shumley, M. D. "When Chiropractic was brought to my attention I listened to seemingly extravagant statements relative to it, and I was offended because it reflected odium on the old time-honored profession in which I no longer sincerely believe. In time it dawned on me, however, that Chiropractic patients who had from a medicinal standpoint been considered hopeless cases, such as those with rheumatism, diabetes, Bright's disease, infantile paralysis and many other maladies, were getting well, so that I began to read up on Chiropractic. The more I read about it, the more I saw it to be the means of true salvation from the cause of disease."—F. A. Hall, M. D., D. C., Indianapolis, Ind. "What the patient wants is results. If the medical doctor cannot give them to him, although he learnedly tells him what is the matter with him, and the irregular can, just so long those methods of treatment are going to have followers, and rightly, too."—Richard Cabot, M. D., Chief Medical Staff, Massachusetts General Hospital. "Clinical records show that there is hardly a recognized form of disease that cannot be successfully treated by Chiropractic adjustments. Chiropractic has passed through its trial stages. The number of the educated classes that now testify to the efficacy of Chiropractic lifts it out of the experimental stage into a science that mankind will bless."—D. T. Krudrop, M. D. "In the acute cases one gets marvelous results. Do not be afraid of such cases. In adjustments you have absolute control, and after a little experience you will soon realize you have an unequalled health system in your hands. I am in better shape to say that, because I have gone through every stage of 'mixing,' until today I am an out and out Chiropractor."—Yours truly, Frederick L. Fischer, M. D., D. C., Philadelphia, Pa. "Results are what count, and Chiropractic adjustments, when scientifically given, bring them, notwithstanding what our medical friends (?) may say to the contrary."—(Signed) Wm. A. Sealey, M. D., D. C. "Chiropractic reaches successfully a larger number of so-called chronic diseases, and is so much superior to the drug method that it is truly laughable to compare them."—Alfred Walton, M. D., Philadelphia. "Chiropractic removes the cause of disease more promptly, radically and permanently than any other known method."—G. H. Patchen, M. D., D. C., Editor Health Culture. "I have been keeping my eyes open and observing cases under Chiropractic adjustments. I am convinced of the superior merit of this form of health practice."—Yours truly, H. G. Gould, M. D., Nephi, Utah.
