Problems That Perplex

Answered by BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I know a girl for the past three years, and I am in love with her. I know she has the same feeling toward me. Recently we had an argument which resulted in our not talking to each other. She is going around talking about me. I would like to know if love runs that way, or is it hatred? PUZZLED. You had better hustle up and seal her lips with a kiss before you let your madness harden either one of you. This is where the proverbial etch in time should be attended to. Extended quarrels are so tragic in that they might have been so easily patched up in the beginning. The good sport is not the one who refuses to speak, but the one who is big enough to take the first step. Afraid to Tell Her. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 22 and going about with a girl to whom I have given jewelry and told her I loved her. My sisters think she is not the girl for me and, after studying over the case with myself, I realize that I do not love her, but was only fascinated for the moment. I am not man enough to break the news to her, as I know that it will break her heart, as she declares that she loves me, too. Can you help me out? PERPLEXED. No one can help you out unless you are man enough to meet the situation. First you let the girl's personality and charm influence
